Bond of friendship outlasts pair's life

This is a tragic story of friendship and of death.

It is a story of Debbie Craig and Molly McCall, who looked alike and acted alike, and who, like thousands of college students were thrust on a strange campus far from home and became friends, inseparable friends.

It ended early Saturday in an Indianapolis hospital. The women, with hands clasped, were dead from injuries in a car accident while out on a double date.

Their parents say their death was a tribute to their life together.

"What they had was something special," Debbie's mother, Kay Craig of 254 N. Brookdale Ln., Palatine, said. "Molly was just Debbie's double. You could tell they were the perfect complement of personalities from the day they met."

THE GIRLS, both 18 and blonde, met as freshmen in a dormitory at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., five weeks ago.

Debbie, a Fremd High School graduate, was studying foreign languages. Molly was majoring in art design.

They lived next door to each other and in a short time became extremely close.

"They were like sisters from the beginning," Molly's mother, Jean McCall of Merrillville, Ind., said. "They just sparkled together. They truly loved each other."

MRS. McCALL received Molly's last letter in Monday's mail. It was full of plans she and Debbie had made for dates and sorority rush parties.

But the friendship that had blossomed into something special ended tragically Saturday on a rain-slicked highway near Crawfordsville, Inc., 30 miles form DePauw.

The women and their dates were returning to DePauw at 2 a.m. from a fraternity party at Wabash College in Crawfordsville when their car was struck head-on by another auto.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY sheriff's police still are investigating the accident and have not issued any tickets. The women's dates were injured but are recovering. The two men in the second car were not hurt.

The two women and their dates were taken to a nearby hospital. Hours later Debbie and Molly were transferred to Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis for brain surgery.

Although unconscious, the women continued to show a bond of friendship. Even the hospital staff was aware of the closeness between them.

"Their temperature and pulse charts went up and down simultaneously and stayed at almost the identical numbers and degrees during their treatment," Mrs. McCall said.

"The neurologist even noticed it and said that although they had similar head injuries it was not normal for them to respond that similarly," she said. "That was proof for us that there was something between them keeping them together."

AFTER SURGERY in the same operating room the women were hooked up to respirators. But soon doctors realized they were dying.

At the request of their parents, the women's beds were pushed together, their hands clasped and their respira-

Trotters debut at Arlington

by KEN VANDERBEEK

Night harness racing made its debut Monday night at Arlington Park with a big splash.

A steady rain slowed the traffic and the sulkies around the big racing complex in Arlington Heights as more than 6,000 persons showed up.

While neighbors continued to complain about the heavy traffic caused by night racing, the fans loved it.

"I think this will really be beautiful once it gets off its feet," said Joseph Orel of Calumet City. He and his wife, Corrine, stopped off at Arlington Park after spending the afternoon betting on thoroughbreds at Howthorne Race Track in Cicero.

"I think it'll go over very well here," Orel said. "Washington Track used a strategy like this and their night racing program was a hit."

A FIRE DESTROYED the Homewood, Ill., track last Feb. 5, ending an experimental winter racing season there.

Walter and Lilliam Steinke drove 92 miles from Janesville, Wis., to watch the trotters.

"We went to the opening day of Aurora Race Track eight years ago and we wouldn't have missed this opening night here for anything," said Mrs. Steinke, 62.

Her husband, a retired foreman for the Chicago and North Western Ry., said he hopes the night racing is successful.

"I think it's here to stay," he said. "But things have to jell. I think in order to attract more people, track officials will have to do something to alleviate the parking jams.

"But besides this, my wife and I will be making the trip here regularly," he said. "A dentist we know is

Dist. 59 school-closing panel gets busy

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

After two months of sifting through reams of information, the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 school-closing committee is geting down to business.

The citizens' group's preliminary recommendations for school closings are expected by Dec. 15, with the final report to be presented to the Dist. 59 Board of Education Jan. 16, committee chairman Al Domanico said.

The recommendations probably will involve several plans rather than name a single school and an alternate for closing, he said.

THE COMMITTEE COULD, however, recommend no school closings and suggest instead that the declining enrollment problem be handled by equalizing enrollments throughout the district or shifting sixth graders from the junior high to the elementary schools, committee member John Albert said.

Whatever the recommendations, if the report is completed by January, the board and administration would have time to work out necessary changes in attendance boundaries, transportation and staffing for the 1978-79 school year, board member Paul Kucharski said.

Enrollment in the district has dropped 21.9 per cent during the past six years, from 11,398 to 8,899. An additional 32.5 per cent enrollment decline is expected within the next decade as the number of students plummets to 6,005, according to a report prepared by the administration.

To help determine how best to cope with this situation, the board in July appointed the six-member citizens' committee.

The committee has met five times since Aug. 4, devoting most of its time to gathering needed information.

"A committee like this takes a number of meetings to find its direction, particularly on a topic as sensitive as school closings," committee member Sabra Patterson said.

THE MATTER IS complicated further by the number of schools and communities involved in Dist. 59.

"After looking at so many figures spread across 21 schools and four communities it's difficult to decide where to start," Mrs. Patterson said.

The start finally was made last week by grouping schools into three categories — those expected to be at capacity, at 75 per cent of capacity and at 50 per cent of capacity by 1981-82, Domanico said.

The first schools to be studied are those in the latter category, which include Byrd School, 265 Wellington Ave., Elk Grove Village; Clearmont School, 230 Clearmont Dr., Elk Grove Village; Grant Wood School, 225 E. Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village; Forest View School, 1901 Estates Dr., Mount Prospect; Hopkins School. 231 S. Shadywood Ln., Elk Grove Village; and Salt Creek School, 65 Kennedy Blvd., Elk Grove Village.

ENROLLMENT PROJECTIONS, however, are only one measurement the committee is using to formulate recommendations for school closings, Domanico said.

Other criteria also being weighed include school age and condition, site size and value, total square footage in a school, number and size of classrooms, special uses of classrooms, cost of maintaining the school, overhead costs, numbers of students who walk and are bused to school, unique features of a school and its populations and whether a viable educational program can be delivered in each school based on enrollment pro-

God and politicians smile on Chicago Italian-style

Chicago discovered Italians Monday.

The find came in pomp and color, with dignitaries from Cook County to Rome. And it was one discovery even the Scandinavians weren't balking at.

From early morning in the quiet streets around Lexington and Lytle where the remnants of "Little Italy" remain, to the brassy music and loud speakers along State Street, Monday was all Italian as the city marked Columbus Day.

The Joint Civic Committee of Italian-Americans went all-out for the city's 20th celebration honoring the Italian navigator's discovery of the New World, even securing a day-long commitment from Vice President Walter F. Mondale, a second-generation Norwegian from Minnesota, who was made an honorary Italian Monday.

Thompson warns GOP against partisan attacks

Gov. James R. Thompson of Illinois told the Republican Governors' Assn. Monday in Bretton Woods, N.H., Monday that if they want to increase their number they should stop attacking the Democratic party.

Thompson, frequently mentioned as a potential Republican candidate for president in 1980, said the GOP must realize there are more important things to the voter than party identification and party loyalty.

Ten of the nation's 12 GOP governors attended the conference.

Thompson, speaking to the Republican gubernatorial candidates, warned them: "Watch partisanship, watch it very carefully.

"I can't remember attacking the Democratic party or even the Democratic philosophy. I attack my opponents very hard — in personal terms and what they stood for — but not the party.

"I had to have their votes to win. If you consistently give speeches attacking the Democratic party, you risk alienating the people you are going after."

The governors assembled for the conference declined to take a position on the Panama Canal treaty, citing the divisions in the party as the reason.

It's the Canon NP-50. For low-to-medium copying requirements. It's engineered with rugged solid state technology. It's compact, produces clear, legible copies in statement, letter and legal size, on plain paper that can be written on immediately. And copy onto transparencies, labeled stock and colored paper.

It will replace copiers like the Xerox 660 and old fashioned electrofax copiers that use coated paper to produce copies that are tough to write on and read.

The Canon NP-50 is so reliable it greatly reduces your operating costs. And our suggested retail price of $2975 includes a handsome rollaway stand. Another savings.

Kids may copy TV violence

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — The psychologist who would have been the "heart" of Ronny Zamora's "television intoxication" defense said Monday TV violence can cause some children to imitate what they see.

Dr. Margaret Hanratty Thomas, an associate professor of psychology at Florida Technological University, said studies have shown that "exposure to television violence can cause some children to imitate what they see.

"It certainly seems likely that television violence could cause aggressive behavior on the part of children," Ms. Thomas said.

"MANY, MANY studies do show a trend for people who watch a lot of violent material on television also to be more aggressive in real life," she said. "When you couple that with experimental evidence, it kind of lends more credence to television causing aggressive behavior."

Although she had not interviewed Zamora, Ms. Thomas had been prepared to testify about the general effects of television violence last week in the 15-year-old boy's Miami murder trial.

But Judge Paul Baker refused to let her testify because he limited testimony to television's effect on Zamora, not on all children.

Defense attorney Ellis Rubin, who called Ms. Thomas the "heart of my defense," sought to prove Zamora was under the influence of "involuntary subliminal television intoxication" and momentarily insane when he killed an elderly neighbor.

Zamora was convicted of first degree murder, robbery, burglary, and possession of firearms and will be sentenced Nov. 7. Rubin, who will appeal, said Baker's refusal to let Ms. Thomas testify was the "death blow" to his case.

THOSE AREN'T goosefeathers that are littering the air. Snow fell on Minneapolis Monday for the first time this season. Temperatures there were in the 30s and the snow was expected to end later in the evening. Whether or not this newspaper street vendor had his woolen undies on, Chicagoans had better consider it. Colder temperatures and the possibility of some flakes are in our weather forecast, too.

Soyuz flight fizzles after docking woe

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's Soyuz 25 anniversary space mission ran into trouble during a docking maneuver Monday after barely 24 hours in earth orbit and the two cosmonauts aboard headed back to earth.

After a lengthy silence on the mission, Radio Moscow and the official Soviet News agency Tass said Soyuz 25 had been aborted and reported cosmonauts Vladimir Kdvalendk and Valery Ryumin were preparing to return to earth.

There were no specific details of the cosmonauts' problems, but it appeared the Soviet spacemen may have run into the same trouble that curtailed the Soyuz 23 flight last October. The two cosmonauts in the 1976 flight survived a landing at night in a lake in Kazakhstan during a snowstorm.

Four cosmonauts are known to have died during the past 10 years in Soviet spaceflights that fizzled.

Western observers had expected Soyuz 25 to be a space spectacular — either a try for a new space endurance record or possibly an attempt to establish a large orbiting laboratory — to mark the 20th anniversary of the world's first artificial satellite, Sputnik 1, and the 60th anniversary of the Russian Revolution Nov. 7.

Soyuz 25 had approached to within 120 yards of its docking target, the new Salyut 6 space station, when unspecified problems arose.

"Because of some deviations from a planned docking regimen, the linkup operation was cancelled," Radio Moscow said in a brief report at the end of its noon news. "The crew began preparing for a return to earth."

Two previous Soyuz-Salyut docking failures have aboretd Soviet space missions — Soyuz 23 last year and Soyuz 15 in August 1974. In both cases the space capsules returned to earth almost exactly 48 hours after liftoff.

The Soyuz 25 rocket was launched at 5:40 a.m. Sunday and if the previous pattern of Russian space failures holds true, the capsule could touch down in Soviet Asia at about dawn Tuesday, which would be Monday night in U.S. time zones.

Soviet mission control at the Baikonur Cosmodrone in Soviet Kazakhstan was believed to be gearing up a massive emergency system for helicopter search and recovery.

Circling the earth every 90 minutes in their 100-to-130-mile-high orbit, rookie cosmonauts Kovalenok and Ryumin were out of the Soviet radio control zone for 10 hours until 11 p.m. Sunday. Radio Moscow and Tass said they began checking on-board equipment and carrying out a programmed series of maneuvers shortly before midnight.

By 7:09 a.m. Monday they had closed to within 120 yards of Salyut 6 — the new space station was launched Sept. 29 — and automatic docking procedures were underway.

Then came the trouble and the order from mission control to abort and prepare for reentry.

Western experts said instability of the Soyuz capsule made docking impossible in previous flights. If there were any problems with the unmanned Salyut space station, it would have been discovered before the cosmonauts were launched, they noted.

Amnesty International, 2 Irish women win Nobels

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Amnesty International, the worldwide organization that fights man's inhumanity to man, Monday won the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize and the delayed 1976 price was given to Betty Williams and Mairead Corrigan, leaders of the Northern Ireland Peace Movement.

In its citation, the Norwegian Nobel Committee said, "Amnesty International has given practical humanitarian and impartial support to people who have been imprisoned because of their race, religion or political views."

The two Belfast women were cited for the peace movement they formed in an effort to end the sectarian violence in Northern Ireland.

"ALFRED NOBEL'S wish was that the peace prize should be given to those who most actively worked for peace and brotherhood," the committee said. "Mairead Corrigan and Betty Williams acted from a deep conviction that the individual person can make a meaningful contribution for peace through constructive conciliation work."

The 1977 prize was worth $145,000 and the 1976 prize $142,000.

The committee withheld the prize in 1976 but stated at the time it could be awarded in 1977. The Belfast women did not form their group until August 1976 — six months after nominations for 1976 were closed.

The peace prize, provided for in the will of Alfred Nobel, the wealthy Swedish chemical engineer and inventer of dynamite, has received strong criticism in the last few years for awards to controversial politicians.

THIS YEAR it was given to two organizations without discernible ideological or political ties.

"The 1976 and 1977 winners are grassroot movements which should be backed by most people," said Tim Greve, head of the Norwegian Nobel Institute.

In Belfast, Miss Corrigan broke down and wept when told of the award.

"It's just overwhelming," she said through sobs. "This is a tremendous encouragement for us in our work. I accept the award on behalf of those people of the world, particularly in Northern Ireland, who have worked and are working so desperately for peace."

Thomas Hammarberg, the chairman of Amnesty International's executive committee, said in Stockholm, "Our work is important because there are political prisoners in 60 to 70 countries. In more than 40 countries people are tortured and in more than 120 countries there is still the death penalty."

THE PEACE PRIZE was the second Nobel Prize awarded this year. The prize for literature was given to Spanish poet Vicente Aleixandre Thursday. The physics and chemistry prizes will be awarded in Stockholm Tuesday and the economics prize Friday.

Amnesty International, formed in 1961 by British lawyer Peter Berenson, has national committees in 34 countries, 180,000 members in 107 countries and is the world's largest international human rights organization.

In a statement issued in London, Amnesty International noted that its prize would be presented Dec. 10 — International Human Rights Day.

The Northern Ireland Women's Peace Movement was founded in Belfast after a gunman's getaway car went out of control and crushed to death three young children, Miss Corrigan's nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Williams, 34, is married to a navy engineer and they have two children. Miss Corrigan, 33, lives with her parents in Belfast.

Award winners joyful at announcement

United Press International

Mairead Corrigan of the Northern Ireland Peace Movement cried for joy Monday and said the Nobel Peace Prize awarded to her and Betty Williams was tremendous encouragement to everyone in the world who works for peace.

Mrs. Williams said she was "shattered by the news but very happy." She proudly reported "latest figures show that violence has dropped by 54 per cent in Northern Ireland" since the "peace people" movement began.

"I don't want to be bigheaded or optimistic in saying that we have brought this about," Mrs. Williams said, "but at last the people seem really intent on bringing peace."

"IT IS A GREAT honor and a responsibility for us to show the world that we can win the battle for peace in Northern Ireland," Miss Corrigan added.

The two women's organization was born out of personal tragedy in August 1976 when a gunman's getaway car crushed to death three of Miss Corrigan's young nieces and nephews.

Meanwhile, in London, Amnesty International said its Nobel Peace Prize Monday was significant and welcome recognition of the international problems of human rights abuses.

"We are delighted that the Nobel Peace Prize committee links quite clearly our work for prisoners of conscience and against torture and against the death penalty with peace," said Martin Ennals, the group's secretary-general.

"It is a peace prize, and it is very important to link human rights with peace."

AMNESTY IS a huge mutinational organization, independent of governments or political ideologies, which "works for the release of men and women imprisoned anywhere for their beliefs, color, ethnic origin or religion."

It works against "torture and capital punishment in all cases and without reservation."

It "seeks observance throughout the world" of United Nations declarations on human rights and fair treatment of prisoners.

Founded in 1961, Amnesty International has become a world-girdling pressure group with worldwide concerns. It has 180,000 members in 107 countries, and takes action anywhere else.

Milsap is top country male singer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Ronnie Milsap — born blind but a master of the violin, piano and guitar by age 12 — was named country music's male vocalist of the year Monday night for the third time.

The entertainer of the year award was to be presented later with Dolly Parton and Waylon Jennings considered the frontrunners. Milsap was also a nominee for that honor, along with Merle Haggard and Kenny Rogers.

Female vocalist of the year was also to be announced later.

MILSAP, WHO won the male vocalist award in 1974 and 1976, also won the album of the year award for "Ronnie Milsap Live." He has cranked out eight consecutive No. 1 hits since he began working in Nashville four years ago.

In accepting the award, Milsap joked that he almost got lost backstage because "it's dark back there."

"There's a lot of great male singers so I'm nervous," he said. "I'm just surprised."

"Lucille," which tells of a barroom encounter with a woman and the husband she left with "four hungry kids and a crop in the field," won song of the year honors for Rogers, as well as the songwriter of the year award for Roger Bowling and Hal Bynum.

The vocal duo of the year award went to Jim Ed Brown and Helen Conelius. The Statler Brothers were selected as the vocal group of the year for the sixth year in a row.

The Original Texas Playboys won instrumental group of the year honors.

TV ads for children get FTC study

People

• The Federal Trade Commission is questioning whether children should be targets of television commercials, particularly on Saturday mornings. "I am not prepared to say that advertising directed to 2-, 3- or 4-year-old children is ever appropriate," said FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk in an interview with U.S. News and World Report. "Television is a very, very powerful marketing tool. When it is directed toward children who cannot read, it raises the question: is it fair for advertisers to treat children as consumers? That is the question the commission is now wrestling with," he said. Congress recently gave the FTC new powers to get deceptive advertising off the air by allowing it to go into the courts and obtain a preliminary injunction to stop an ad.

"Because of some deviations from a planned docking regimen, the linkup operation was cancelled," Radio Moscow said in a brief report at the end of its noon news. "The crew began preparing for a return to earth."

Two previous Soyuz-Salyut docking failures have aboretd Soviet space missions — Soyuz 23 last year and Soyuz 15 in August 1974. In both cases the space capsules returned to earth almost exactly 48 hours after liftoff.

The Soyuz 25 rocket was launched at 5:40 a.m. Sunday and if the previous pattern of Russian space failures holds true, the capsule could touch down in Soviet Asia at about dawn Tuesday, which would be Monday night in U.S. time zones.

Soviet mission control at the Baikonur Cosmodrone in Soviet Kazakhstan was believed to be gearing up a massive emergency system for helicopter search and recovery.

Circling the earth every 90 minutes in their 100-to-130-mile-high orbit, rookie cosmonauts Kovalenok and Ryumin were out of the Soviet radio control zone for 10 hours until 11 p.m. Sunday. Radio Moscow and Tass said they began checking on-board equipment and carrying out a programmed series of maneuvers shortly before midnight.

By 7:09 a.m. Monday they had closed to within 120 yards of Salyut 6 — the new space station was launched Sept. 29 — and automatic docking procedures were underway.

Then came the trouble and the order from mission control to abort and prepare for reentry.

Western experts said instability of the Soyuz capsule made docking impossible in previous flights. If there were any problems with the unmanned Salyut space station, it would have been discovered before the cosmonauts were launched, they noted.

Amnesty International, 2 Irish women win Nobels

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Amnesty International, the worldwide organization that fights man's inhumanity to man, Monday won the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize and the delayed 1976 price was given to Betty Williams and Mairead Corrigan, leaders of the Northern Ireland Peace Movement.

In its citation, the Norwegian Nobel Committee said, "Amnesty International has given practical humanitarian and impartial support to people who have been imprisoned because of their race, religion or political views."

The two Belfast women were cited for the peace movement they formed in an effort to end the sectarian violence in Northern Ireland.

"ALFRED NOBEL'S wish was that the peace prize should be given to those who most actively worked for peace and brotherhood," the committee said. "Mairead Corrigan and Betty Williams acted from a deep conviction that the individual person can make a meaningful contribution for peace through constructive conciliation work."

The 1977 prize was worth $145,000 and the 1976 prize $142,000.

The committee withheld the prize in 1976 but stated at the time it could be awarded in 1977. The Belfast women did not form their group until August 1976 — six months after nominations for 1976 were closed.

The peace prize, provided for in the will of Alfred Nobel, the wealthy Swedish chemical engineer and inventer of dynamite, has received strong criticism in the last few years for awards to controversial politicians.

THIS YEAR it was given to two organizations without discernible ideological or political ties.

"The 1976 and 1977 winners are grassroot movements which should be backed by most people," said Tim Greve, head of the Norwegian Nobel Institute.

In Belfast, Miss Corrigan broke down and wept when told of the award.

"It's just overwhelming," she said through sobs. "This is a tremendous encouragement for us in our work. I accept the award on behalf of those people of the world, particularly in Northern Ireland, who have worked and are working so desperately for peace."

Thomas Hammarberg, the chairman of Amnesty International's executive committee, said in Stockholm, "Our work is important because there are political prisoners in 60 to 70 countries. In more than 40 countries people are tortured and in more than 120 countries there is still the death penalty."

THE PEACE PRIZE was the second Nobel Prize awarded this year. The prize for literature was given to Spanish poet Vicente Aleixandre Thursday. The physics and chemistry prizes will be awarded in Stockholm Tuesday and the economics prize Friday.

Amnesty International, formed in 1961 by British lawyer Peter Berenson, has national committees in 34 countries, 180,000 members in 107 countries and is the world's largest international human rights organization.

In a statement issued in London, Amnesty International noted that its prize would be presented Dec. 10 — International Human Rights Day.

The Northern Ireland Women's Peace Movement was founded in Belfast after a gunman's getaway car went out of control and crushed to death three young children, Miss Corrigan's nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Williams, 34, is married to a navy engineer and they have two children. Miss Corrigan, 33, lives with her parents in Belfast.

United Press International

Mairead Corrigan of the Northern Ireland Peace Movement cried for joy Monday and said the Nobel Peace Prize awarded to her and Betty Williams was tremendous encouragement to everyone in the world who works for peace.

Mrs. Williams said she was "shattered by the news but very happy." She proudly reported "latest figures show that violence has dropped by 54 per cent in Northern Ireland" since the "peace people" movement began.

"I don't want to be bigheaded or optimistic in saying that we have brought this about," Mrs. Williams said, "but at last the people seem really intent on bringing peace."

"IT IS A GREAT honor and a responsibility for us to show the world that we can win the battle for peace in Northern Ireland," Miss Corrigan added.

The two women's organization was born out of personal tragedy in August 1976 when a gunman's getaway car crushed to death three of Miss Corrigan's young nieces and nephews.

Meanwhile, in London, Amnesty International said its Nobel Peace Prize Monday was significant and welcome recognition of the international problems of human rights abuses.

"We are delighted that the Nobel Peace Prize committee links quite clearly our work for prisoners of conscience and against torture and against the death penalty with peace," said Martin Ennals, the group's secretary-general.

"It is a peace prize, and it is very important to link human rights with peace."

AMNESTY IS a huge mutinational organization, independent of governments or political ideologies, which "works for the release of men and women imprisoned anywhere for their beliefs, color, ethnic origin or religion."

It works against "torture and capital punishment in all cases and without reservation."

It "seeks observance throughout the world" of United Nations declarations on human rights and fair treatment of prisoners.

Founded in 1961, Amnesty International has become a world-girdling pressure group with worldwide concerns. It has 180,000 members in 107 countries, and takes action anywhere else.

Milsap is top country male singer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Ronnie Milsap — born blind but a master of the violin, piano and guitar by age 12 — was named country music's male vocalist of the year Monday night for the third time.

The entertainer of the year award was to be presented later with Dolly Parton and Waylon Jennings considered the frontrunners. Milsap was also a nominee for that honor, along with Merle Haggard and Kenny Rogers.

Female vocalist of the year was also to be announced later.

MILSAP, WHO won the male vocalist award in 1974 and 1976, also won the album of the year award for "Ronnie Milsap Live." He has cranked out eight consecutive No. 1 hits since he began working in Nashville four years ago.

In accepting the award, Milsap joked that he almost got lost backstage because "it's dark back there."

"There's a lot of great male singers so I'm nervous," he said. "I'm just surprised."

"Lucille," which tells of a barroom encounter with a woman and the husband she left with "four hungry kids and a crop in the field," won song of the year honors for Rogers, as well as the songwriter of the year award for Roger Bowling and Hal Bynum.

The vocal duo of the year award went to Jim Ed Brown and Helen Conelius. The Statler Brothers were selected as the vocal group of the year for the sixth year in a row.

The Original Texas Playboys won instrumental group of the year honors.

TV ads for children get FTC study

• The Federal Trade Commission is questioning whether children should be targets of television commercials, particularly on Saturday mornings. "I am not prepared to say that advertising directed to 2-, 3- or 4-year-old children is ever appropriate," said FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk in an interview with U.S. News and World Report. "Television is a very, very powerful marketing tool. When it is directed toward children who cannot read, it raises the question: is it fair for advertisers to treat children as consumers? That is the question the commission is now wrestling with," he said. Congress recently gave the FTC new powers to get deceptive advertising off the air by allowing it to go into the courts and obtain a preliminary injunction to stop an ad.

6 Chicago cops named in drug rap

Police Supt. James Rochford has suspended six policemen on charges they confiscated drugs from narcotics pushers after arresting them, then resold the drugs later for a profit. A federal grand jury also has been investigating the charges against the six officers assisgned to the Shakespeare Avenue district's tactical unit, but has not yet returned any indictments. Rochford, who suspended the six officers for 30 days, accused them of violating department rules, including the filing of false reports and bringing discredit upon the department.

The year-long investigation, aided by the department's Internal Affairs Division, was triggered by a charge from a narcotics pusher who said he was beaten by an officer who suspected him of killing one of the officer's drug informants. The grand jury investigation focuses on whether the civil rights of the drug traffickers were violated because the arresting officers did not follow proper arrest procedures. The grand jury also is investigating a defense attorney, to whom some of the drug dealers said they were referred by arresting officers, and a Circuit Court judge. Former temporary sergeant Charles V. Gentile was accused of eight violations, the most of any of those suspended. Another of the suspended officers, Edward T. Bunta, is the son of a Chicago policeman. The other four are Anthony J. Vymola, Robert T. Browne, Adolph Lopez and Daniel R. Noon.

Bomb scare on O'Hare-bound jet

The 76 passengers of American Airlines Flight 176 from New York got a less than warm welcome Monday from O'Hare International Airport authorities. Immediately after the plane landed, passengers on the aircraft were evacuated on to the runway while police conducted a half-hour search of plane and passengers for a bomb that did not exist. Airline authorities in New York, who received the bomb threat over the phone, had notified O'Hare officials.

Gas leaks affect 9 persons

Nine persons were overcome by gas fumes Monday in leaks at two Chicago area businesses. Three workers suffered carbon monoxide poisoning during a suspected gas leak at Modern Machine & Grinding, Inc., east of Chicago Heights. Six others were injured by chlorine fumes at the Climaco Corp. on Chicago's South Side. The injured, who were not identified, were treated at nearby hospitals.

Movie theater owner arrested

Jeffrey Kohlberg, 30, owner of the Meadows Theater in Rolling Meadows, was arrested Saturday morning by Lincolnshire police on a warrant from Rolling Meadows investigators. Kohlberg was wanted on charges of allegedly showing an obscene film entitled "Cinderella" Sept. 30, which was confiscated by Rolling Meadows detectives led by Sgt. Charles Smith. Meadows Manager William Farber, 610 Beau Dr., Des Plaines, also was arrested that night and charged with violating the city's newly established obscenity ordinance. Both Farber and Kohlberg are to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of the Cook County Cirucut Court at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 17. Kohlberg was arrested as he returned to his Lincolnshire home where local police were waiting with the warrant. He was taken to Rolling Meadows Police Dept., booked, then released on $1,000 bond.

Brakes didn't fail in golf cart death

The director of security at the Lake Geneva Playboy Club in Lake Geneva, Wis., said Monday the death of a Berwyn, Ill., woman in a golf cart accident at the club was not due to a malfunction of the cart's brakes. Ralph Klotz said Mrs. Mary Slusarz, 43, was killed Sunday when the golf cart she was riding in tipped over on the club's Brut course. He said the cart tipped over because the woman driving the cart, a friend of the victim's, drove the cart downhill on a slope leading to the 16th tee on which carts were restricted.

Klotz said the cart tipped over after it picked up speed going down the hill and that the woman driving the cart had disobeyed signs saying carts weren't supposed to be on the hill. "The ladies were unfamiliar with the terrain, it was their first time out here," Klotz said. "There was a sign telling them not to go there. They ignored it and went down into an area not for use by carts. The woman (driving the cart) said, 'It was my error. It was our error in going down there. The cart operated perfectly.' " Authorities in Lake Geneva had first reported that the woman's death was due to a failure of the brakes on the cart. Klotz said two independent Milwaukee-based firms had inspected the cart and it still worked.

Cars vs. buses in Schaumburg

Transportation to be surveyed

Suburbanites like to ride buses, but they usually take the car.

That is the preliminary finding of a Northwestern University study of attitudes towards transportation in Evanston.

And John Hauser, one of three faculty members who did the study, says he'll soon be able to find out if persons in Schaumburg hold the same views.

Hauser and his colleagues, Alice Tybout and Frank S. Koppelman, will be monitoring Schaumburg's dial-a-bus program when it goes into effect in a few months.

"Our purpose and why we are involved in this is that we are trying to develop techniques that can be applied to any suburb," Hauser said.

HE SAID the results of the Evanston survey are interesting, but will be more meaningful when the questionnaires are tested in other areas.

While Evanston has bus, rapid transit and railroad service, Schaumburg now has only limited bus service. But Hauser said persons in both places have a lot in common in the way they regard transportation even though their views may be different.

The Evanston survey, distributed to 4,750 persons through the city manager's office, showed persons prefer to use their cars because they are convenient and flexible. That was no surprise to Hauser.

"If the car is available, it is door-to-door service on demand," he said.

BUT HAUSER said he had not expected the bus to score so highly in areas of psychological comfort. Most persons ranked the bus higher in areas of relaxation, safety and lack of annoyances. The bus also was perceived as less expensive than the car.

"We had expected in terms of psychological comfort, the car would be better, but it didn't turn out that way," Hauser said, noting many persons apparently get irritated driving a car.

But Hauser said psychological comfort is least important among respondents' reasons for choosing a form of transportation. More important is the general service and safety of a system as well as convenience and accessibility. In those areas, buses ranked well below both cars and walking.

For example, respondents rated buses poorly in areas of on-time service, getting to destination quickly, ease of carrying packages and ease of traveling with small children.

ALTHOUGH PERSONS think buses usually aren't on time, Hauser said he found that perception is wrong. He even went out and timed the buses with a stopwatch and found they ran on schedule.

Hauser said his group still must analyze the data from two other surveys, which study Evanstonians' views on rapid transit and railroad service.

The team will move into Schaumburg when the new service starts. No date has been set yet for that service, since special buses have not arrived.

South, West move boosts car use

The migration of people to the West and South is creating a new dependence on cars and trucks, the Highway Users Federation reports.

Average per capita gasoline use in the South is 40 per cent higher and in the West 30 per cent higher than in the Northeast.

Midwesterners use more gasoline than residents of the northeast, they still require less fuel to meet needs than either Southerners or Westerners.

Census Bureau figures for the 1970-75 period bear out the migration to the South and West. The 16 states comprising the Southern region had a net gain of 2.6 million people, the largest single gain by any region since 1950, the federation reports.

THE 13 WESTERN states, including Alaska and Hawaii, had a net population gain of 1.4 million.

The increase in both areas came at the expense of the north central and northeast regions which suffered net population losses.

The Highway Users Federation also documented a shift from metropolitan to rural areas. Rural counties rebounded from a net loss of 3.2 million persons in the 1960s to a net gain of 1.5 million persons in the early 1970s.

Large metropolitan areas which gained 4.2 million in population in the 1960s, lost 1.2 million persons from 1970-74.

The lack of rail and air services in most rural areas spells increased reliance on highway transportation for commercial travel and delivery of goods, the federation said.

Support of Rte. 53 work to be urged by committee

Arlington Heights officials will be urged to support the extension of Ill. Rte. 53 north of Dundee Road because many motorists now use residential streets to avoid traffic backups at the dead-end expressway.

Supporting the extension of Ill. Rte. 53 is one of three recommendations from the village board's community services committee aimed at easing traffic problems in the Greenbrier and Cedarbrook areas east of the expressway, between Rand and Palatine roads.

The committee also is recommending that the Illinois Dept. of Transportation consider connecting Wilke Road and the expressway frontage road at Palatine Road because of the heavy traffic using Kennicott Avenue to get between Palatine and Rand roads, Robert Miller, chairman of the committee, said.

A WINDING S-CURVE on Kennicott Avenue has been the scene of several traffic accidents this year with heavy property damage reported.

The Greenbrier-Cedarbrook Civic Assn., supports both recommendations, John Ernst, president of the group, said.

"People on Kennicott have traffic on that street that is by-passing the Rte. 53 backup, taking a shortcut to Rand Road, or possibly shortcutting Arlington Heights Road. Kennicott has assumed the role of a main thoroughfare and that should not be," Ernst said.

Kennicott Avenue, with only a slight job at Rand, is one of the few streets in Arlington Heights that runs from Northwest Highway to Dundee Road.

POLICE RECORDS of traffic violations on Kennicott Avenue showed that 90 per cent of the motorists stopped for speeding did not live in the area, Miller said.

The village board Monday also will be urged to ask state transportation department officials to build off-ramps at Rand Road for traffic northbound on Ill. Rte. 53, Miller said.

Temporary ramps there were closed when the expressway was extended to Dundee Road a few years ago.

"We think they (off-ramps) could help eliminate the problem of traffic getting off at Palatine Road and then going north to Rand Road," Miller said.

"WE'VE TALKED to state officials and they said we're talking about big bucks which are going to have to come from Springfield," Miller said. "The Greenbrier association plans to start informing local congressmen about the problem out there," he said.

Another meeting with state highway officials will be scheduled in January, Miller said, with area legislators urged to attend.

"Hopefully, we'll be able to get a better idea then of what chance we have of getting any of these things," Miller said.

On the oven's opening day, fourth-grade teacher Sally Wahlquist sawed her own jigsaw puzzle and music teachers Richard Lange and Paulette Mann tried out a musical game.

Stevenson only day-care center?

BY DIANE GRANAT

Stevenson School in Wheeling may remain the only school in Wheeling Township Dist. 21 with a day-care program for children of working parents based on the low interest shown in a recent districtwide survey.

While Stevenson, 1375 S. Wolf Rd., boasts 42 students in its 1-year-old after school, day-care program and 20 children in its new morning session, no other Dist. 21 school has had more than 12 families express an interest in day care.

Supt. Kenneth Gill said, based on Stevenson's experience, at least 25 students are needed to have a self-supporting day-care program.

"We couldn't start a day-care program with only 12 families," he said.

Parents who use Stevenson's service pay $3.75 per week for the morning program and $5 per week for the afternoon session. Gill said the district should not subsidize day care because he believes it is not a legitimate educational expense.

THE RESULTS of the survey given to parents during registration this fall revealed the greatest desire for an after school program at Alcott School, 530 Bernard Dr., Buffalo Grove, and Twain School, 515 Merle Ln., Wheeling.

But with only 12 families expressing an interest at each of those schools, the principals said they doubt that enrollment would be high enough to pay for a supervisor's salary, snacks and games.

Other schools where moderate interest was shown in day care were Kilmer School, 655 Golfview Ter., Buffalo Grove and Riley School, 1209 Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights. Nine parents at each of those schools said they would like a program.

Gill said the survey, taken by the district and the Arlington Heights branch of the League of Women Voters, should not be the final word on the subject. He said Dist. 21 might do another check at schools that had the highest interest.

"Even with the small numbers we have it shows there obviously is a need," Gill said. "Whether it is heavy enough to set up a program is another question."

ONE SUGGESTION Gill made was for a few schools to pool their students and provide day care at a central location.

But he agreed with Alcott Principal Richard Boos and Twain Principal Patricia Weiss that sending children to another school at the end of the day might present a costly transportation problem.

Boos added that he also would be concerned about the safety of children traveling from one school to another after school hours.

The program at Stevenson aids working parents by watching children from 7:30 a.m. until school opens at 8:50 a.m., and from 3:30 to 6 p.m.

Several parents have praised the service because it eliminates their worry about finding a reliable baby-sitter for their children while they are working.

Living dogs' life made easier with friends' help

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

Living in Mount Prospect on $160 a week can be rough, but Bob Frank and his wife Patricia say they manage.

The income is hers — money she makes from waiting on tables three days a week at the L & L Snack Shop in Des Plaines. The debts are his — mortgages and loans used to pay off his car and home. The frustration, disappointment in humanity and the way household pets are neglected by their owners — is shared.

Frank in 1975 quit his $18,000 a year job with the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture and founded the Society of St. Francis, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the humane care and treatment of pets. His life is devoted to finding lost animals and returning them to their owners, or relocating them in homes where they will be loved.

IN FEBRUARY, the funds Frank had been using to care for and doctor the lost pets ran out. His humane society was in danger of folding and he and his wife emptied their own pockets and savings accounts to keep it alive.

Today, about eight months later, there is bread on the Frank's table again and contributions to the organization are flowing in regularly. Frank has received about $7,000 in donations since February.

"I'm going along. The money is coming in — not fantastically but enough to keep us going," Frank said. He had just received $100 from someone in California. "We really have been pulled out of going down hill all the way. The money comes in from all over."

Frank, 400 Milburn Ave., said it still is difficult to handle the load of missing pet reports he gets every day without sufficient funds to give the lost animals proper attention.

"My bankers call me the Bert Lance of the animal field," he said. "Sometimes I write a check and then hope I get the money to cover it."

The Society of St. Francis recieves about 100 calls daily — reports of stray dogs, sometimes injured ones. However, Frank has only enough time and resources to relocate about five or six animals every day.

"WE GET THEM from all different areas," he said. "The University of Illinois, Rte. 14, street corners in Chicago . . . real weird places. The biggest problem after rescuing a dog, is finding him a home. When you find a dog with no tags, where do you go? I hold them and keep on trying."

Frank contends the problem of stray dogs could be solved overnight — a solution which perhaps would put him out of business, but would make him and his wife rest easier.

"I can walk down the street and find almost everyone walking their dogs without tags," Frank said. "They have to start enforcing the law. The county tells me they do not have the personnel. The dog problem is an extension of the community which does not enforce its animal laws. That community will be buried with problems."

Park clubhouse proposal expected to draw protests

Plans for a $600,000 golf course clubhouse are expected to encounter strong opposition today when Arlington Heights Park District commissioners meet to revieiw bids for the building.

Two taxpayers protest groups and representatives of the citizens group that led the drive to get land at the former Nike missile base donated for a golf course will attend the meeting at 7:30 p.m. at 800 E. Falcon Dr.

"We don't feel a $600,000 edifice is necessary. I think it's an overkill," said Tom McDonnell, who served as cochairman of the Citizens Committee for Utilization of the Nike Base.

THE COMMITTEE was the prime mover in getting the U.S. Army to give the park district 90 acres of the base at Central and Wilke roads after the parcel had been declared surplus. The committee fought the Army for nearly four years, often organizing picket lines at entrances to the base.

Opposition to the clubhouse stems mostly from the fact that less than $200,000 was budgeted for the building a year ago when voters approved a $1.5 million bond referendum for the golf course project.

If the low bids opened Friday are accepted by the park board, the clubhouse will cost about $620,000. Two months ago park officials had estimated it would cost about $599,000.

The $200,000 estimate was made by the golf course architect prior to any decision by the park board on what the facility should include, Parks Director Thomas Thornton said.

THE ADDITIONAL cost is attributed to plans for eating facilities, a banquet room and an apartment.

The eating facilities are needed to accommodate golf course tournaments conducted by companies, which the park district hopes to host to produce revenue, Thornton said.

McDonnell called that argument "a fallacy."

"I don't think this course will attract that many companies. It won't attract that quality of golfer," McDonnell said.

THE CITIZENS Committee for the Utilization of the Nike Base now is defunct, but former members of the group still have an interest in the final development of the property, McDonnell said.

"We didn't anticipate that txpayers' money would be spent to such a large extent for a clubhouse. We don't think it needs to be so large and ornate," McDonnell said.

Opposition to the clubhouse proposal also is expected from representatives of the National Taxpayers United of Illinois and a group of local residents now forming a separate taxpayers alliance.

Pat Carbery of the local taxpayers group called the clubhouse plans "lavish."

"All they should need is a place to stop in between nine holes," she said.

Mike Hepple plans to represent the National Taxpayers United of Illinois, a group formed this summer which attempted to organize a countywide taxpayers strike prior to the Aug. 15 deadline for property tax payments.

'Kotter' theme welcomes high school homecoming

Buffalo Grove High School's 1977 homecoming celebration promises something for everyone.

The festivities begin today with students dressing up as their favorite "sweathog" from ABC's "Welcome Back Kotter."

Wednesday is class day and each grade will dress according to its own theme — "Let's Back the Frosh," "Sock it to the Sophomores," "Junior Jocks," "Hats Off to the Seniors," and "Button Up the Faculty."

The queen's coronation will be Thursday at 1 p.m. Candidates are Sue Albrecht, Joyce Callagher, Leslie Griffith, Pam McAvoy, Shari Siebers and Lynn Timmins.

Following the coronation will be the homecoming parade centered around the theme "Space Odyssey — Star Wars Daze."

For Friday's western round-up day, students will wear overalls, hats and boots and participate in an afternoon bison chip throwing contest. The movie "The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean" will be shown in the theater at 8 p.m. No admission will be charged.

Saturday's activities include a football game against Arlington High School at noon and a homecoming dance at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Tickets for the "You Light Up My Life" dance are $5 a couple.

Nominee for FBI chief has relapse

Frank Johnson Jr.

FBI Director-designate Frank Johnson Jr., saying he may have tried to "push it some," arrived home from Washington Monday after complications from artery surgery forced postponement of his confirmation hearings. Smiling and appearing physically strong, Johnson told reporters on his arrival: "Basically I feel good. The hearings were set 30 days before Dr. (Michael) Debakey said I should go. I may have tried to push it some." Debakey, the renowned heart surgeon, performed the surgery in Houston in August. Johnson was in Washington to prepare for the Senate confirmation hearings, which were to begin today. A statement issued by the White House said Johnson's "condition is not serious but will require several weeks of bed rest."

Lance clear of bank ties: Guyton

The president of the National Bank of Georgia, once headed by former budget director Bert Lance, said Monday that Lance had nothing to do with more than $1 million in federal bankruptcy deposits last spring. Robert Guyton issued a statement following published reports Sunday that the bank had $1,366,000 in federal funds in savings accounts as of March 31. Newsday, a Long Island, N.Y. newspaper, said much of the money was deposited after Lance became budget director in January. The newspaper said all other national banks in Georgia had a total of $39,000 in federal funds in similar accounts at the time. However, Guyton said the money was depsoited by trustees in bankruptcy cases, adding, "Bert Lance had nothing to do with it."

Three Maryland girls murdered

Police found the knife-riddled bodies of three young girls Monday, face down in a shallow stream a quarter-mile from their homes in Southgate, Md. Police launched a search of the wooded murder scene in northern Anne Arundel County for clues to the killing of Debbie Hogan, 10, her 8-year-old sister Terry, and Ann Brzeszkiewicz, 8, all of Southgate. The girls, missing since Sunday night, had been the subjects of an all-night search by state and county police as well as neighbors. The three classmates at Southgate Elementary School were found lying face down in an 18-inch-deep stream that runs through a wooded area about 400 yards from their homes.

Humphrey undergoes new tests

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey underwent new cancer tests Monday and his physician said no statement on the former vice president would be given until the results have been evaluated. The Minnesota Democrat underwent surgery in August and doctors found terminal cancer in the pelvic area. Since then, the longtime liberal leader has undergone radiation treatment and chemotherapy. "He was brought in for tests today," Dr. B. J. Kennedy said. "We're waiting for results. That's all I can say. We hope to make a decision soon." He did not say what decision was being considered, but it was believed possible Humphrey would be brought back to the University of Minnesota Hospitals as an in-patient. He has been occupying an apartment in the Twin Cities during the latest treatment becuase it was closer than his home in suburban Waverly.

Russian control of canal seen

Painting a gloomy picture of declining American military power, retired Adm. Elmo Zumwalt predicted Monday the Soviets may someday control the Panama Canal but said "it will take them longer" if the new treaties are ratified. "Even if the treaties are ratified," he told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "the canal can be put out of action. But the significant difference is the government of Panama will be working with us." Zumwalt, head of naval operations from 1970 to 1974, and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified in favor of the controversial accords, which would give Panama control of the strategic waterway at the turn of the century. Adm. Thomas Moorer, another retired joint chiefs chairman, said the Senate should reject the pacts.

Kiritsis prosecution rests

The prosecution ended its kidnaping case against Anthony Kiritsis Monday by playing tape recordings of him describing how he felt about holding a real estate executive hostage with a shotgun wired to his neck. Deputy Prosecutor George Montgomery said the tapes showed Kiritsis knew what he was doing when he abducted Richard O. Hall for 63 hours in Indianapolis last February. Kiritsis had said Hall cheated him in a real estate deal. Kiritsis, 44, pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to charges of kidnaping, armed robbery and extortion. Before the tapes were played, Dr. Dwight Schuster, a psychiatrist who helped advise police on how to deal with the abduction, testified Kiritsis was sane.

Scores hurt in India train crash

A speeding express train bound from Calcutta to New Delhi, India, slammed into a standing freight train at the Naini rail station in northern India before dawn Monday, killing and injuring scores of passengers. Officials of the Northern Railways said 61 persons died and 150 others were injured. They reported 81 of the injured were in serious condition and said the death toll probably would rise. The Naini rail station is outside Allahabad, about 350 miles east of New Delhi. A railway spokesman said the engine of the passenger train and two cars immediately behind it were telescoped by the impact. Two sleeping coaches also were badly damaged, and it appeared that many of the victims were killed as they slept, he said.

Dayan hedges on PLO issue

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan Monday restated Israel's opposition to letting the "terrorist" Palestine Liberation Organization take part in Middle East peace talks, but minutes later left the door ajar for diplomatic maneuvering that might admit the PLO. Dayan told reporters, and repeated to the full U.N. Geenral Assembly six hours later, that Israel has no intention of agreeing to an independent state of Palestine — a "PLO mini-state" that "would be a base for attempts to destroy Israel." The Israeli military hero sharply rejected any participation by the PLO — "a terrorist organization whose record is one of deliberate and indiscriminate atrocities" — at Geneva.

Pharmacist has "tried them all..." ...discovers weight control program that really works!

Pharmacist Dan Smith of Burger's Drug Store in St. Charles, Illinois is a NaturSlim "believer" after losing 18 pounds in just two weeks. After hearing so much about the NaturSlim program from customers and seeing the excellent results they were having, Dan decided to try it himself.
"In my many years as a pharmacist, I've seen and tried numerous weight-loss plans, but none have worked as well for me as NaturSlim. And NaturSlim is very nutritional too!"
After three months, Dan has not regained any of the lost pounds either, as so often happens when "rebounding" from starvation diet plans. He maintains his weight by taking NaturSlim once daily . . . and eating normally otherwise.
Dan says, "It was surprisingly easy, too! I didn't have to attend any weigh-ins, starve myself or do any special exercises."
With the NaturSlim program, there are no shots, drugs or long lists of forbidden foods. In fact, you are encouraged to eat a normal, well-balanced dinner every day.
The next time you are in the St. Charles area, stop by Burger's Drugs and see Dan yourself. He'll tell you personally what he thinks about NaturSlim!

Senate OKs bill to ban kidporn, boy prostitutes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted Monday to prohibit production, distribution and sale of pornography featuring children and to crack down on the use of young boys as prostitutes.

The bill, approved 85 to 1, was sent to the House which has approved one version almost idential to the Senate bill and plans to act next week on a measure which would add an amendment on distribution and sales.

In the Senate, the lone opposition vote was cast by Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D.

DESPITE WARNINGS it would be ruled unconstitutional, the Senate tacked on the amendment prohibiting distribution and sales in addition to the original ban on production of so-called "kidporn."

The addition was approved 73 to 12 after its sponsor, Sen. William Roth, R-Del., said it was needed because many "sleazy sex merchants" who produce the material cannot be tracked down.

Roth said they have "hit and run operations in cheap hotel rooms, deserted beaches, or an isolated stand of woods, leaving few tracks behind them."

The Senate also approved, by voice vote, an amendment which would outlaw such events as the teen-age nude male and female beauty contest recently held in Indiana.

SENS. JOHN Culver, D-Iowa, and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., floor managers for the bill, urged passage.

Culver called child prostitution and pornography an "outrageous form of child abuse." Thurmond said it is "the most outrageous exploitation of one of our nation's greatest treasures — our children."

The bill would prohibit the use of children 16 and under in production of materials that depict explicit sexual conduct.

The legislation defines sexually explicit conduct as sexual intercourse of any form between mmbers of different or the same sex; bestiality; maturbation; sado-masochistic abuse for the purpose of sexual stimulation; lewd exhibition of the genitals or pubic areas.

Amtrak calls for high-speed routes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Amtrak Monday issued a new five-year plan calling for major improvements and development of high-speed passenger train corridors outside the East, including Chicago-Detroit and Los Angeles-San Diego.

Restructuring of the Amtrak system also is envisioned, based on a study to be completed next year, which could result in abandonment of some routes and opening of others.

Congress may balk at the price tag, however. Amtrak already has been forced to cut back on some of its routes and may be forced to drop others because Congress so far has refused to increase its operating budget beyond the $488.5 million already appropriated for this fiscal year.

THE FIVE-YEAR PLAN estimates an average operating budget for the next five years of $695 million a year and an average capital budget of $210 million a year. This does not include any new routes, which would cost even more.

The plan did not list any possible abandonments, but did outline a number of routes that might become new corridors and listed a number of possible new routes "with a high potential for success."

Three possible new corridors were discussed in detail. One — Dallas-Fort Worth-San Antonio — was rejecred as too costly, although it could be improved as a part of long-distance service.

A doubling of Chicago-Detroit service was recommended, from three to six round trips a day, along with track improvements to reduce travel time by 54 minutes. Improvements also were recommended for Los Angeles-San Diego, reducing travel time 18 minutes and increasing service from five to seven round trips daily.

OTHER POSSIBLE hig-speed corridors to be studied are Los Angeles-San Francisco; San Francisco-Sacramento; Seattle-Eugene, Ore.; Dallas-Houston; Chicago-Milwaukee; Chicago-Madison, Wis.; Chicago-St. Louis; Chicago-Cleveland; New York-Springfield, Mass.; Buffalo-New York; Pittsburgh-Cleveland; Pittsburgh-Detroit; Pittsburgh-Philadelphia; Washington-Norfolk, Va., and Cincinnati-Cleveland.

Listed as "prime candidates for added frequency" were Los Angeles-San Francisco, Chicago-Jackson, Miss., and Chicago-Pittsburgh.

Other highlights of the plan include major improvements in the Boston-Washington "Northeast Corridor"; track improvements and new connections in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania; and 13 new stations.

Senate OKs bill to ban kidporn, boy prostitutes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted Monday to prohibit production, distribution and sale of pornography featuring children and to crack down on the use of young boys as prostitutes.

The bill, approved 85 to 1, was sent to the House which has approved one version almost idential to the Senate bill and plans to act next week on a measure which would add an amendment on distribution and sales.

In the Senate, the lone opposition vote was cast by Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D.

DESPITE WARNINGS it would be ruled unconstitutional, the Senate tacked on the amendment prohibiting distribution and sales in addition to the original ban on production of so-called "kidporn."

The addition was approved 73 to 12 after its sponsor, Sen. William Roth, R-Del., said it was needed because many "sleazy sex merchants" who produce the material cannot be tracked down.

Roth said they have "hit and run operations in cheap hotel rooms, deserted beaches, or an isolated stand of woods, leaving few tracks behind them."

The Senate also approved, by voice vote, an amendment which would outlaw such events as the teen-age nude male and female beauty contest recently held in Indiana.

SENS. JOHN Culver, D-Iowa, and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., floor managers for the bill, urged passage.

Culver called child prostitution and pornography an "outrageous form of child abuse." Thurmond said it is "the most outrageous exploitation of one of our nation's greatest treasures — our children."

The bill would prohibit the use of children 16 and under in production of materials that depict explicit sexual conduct.

The legislation defines sexually explicit conduct as sexual intercourse of any form between mmbers of different or the same sex; bestiality; maturbation; sado-masochistic abuse for the purpose of sexual stimulation; lewd exhibition of the genitals or pubic areas.

Amtrak calls for high-speed routes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Amtrak Monday issued a new five-year plan calling for major improvements and development of high-speed passenger train corridors outside the East, including Chicago-Detroit and Los Angeles-San Diego.

Restructuring of the Amtrak system also is envisioned, based on a study to be completed next year, which could result in abandonment of some routes and opening of others.

Congress may balk at the price tag, however. Amtrak already has been forced to cut back on some of its routes and may be forced to drop others because Congress so far has refused to increase its operating budget beyond the $488.5 million already appropriated for this fiscal year.

THE FIVE-YEAR PLAN estimates an average operating budget for the next five years of $695 million a year and an average capital budget of $210 million a year. This does not include any new routes, which would cost even more.

The plan did not list any possible abandonments, but did outline a number of routes that might become new corridors and listed a number of possible new routes "with a high potential for success."

Three possible new corridors were discussed in detail. One — Dallas-Fort Worth-San Antonio — was rejecred as too costly, although it could be improved as a part of long-distance service.

A doubling of Chicago-Detroit service was recommended, from three to six round trips a day, along with track improvements to reduce travel time by 54 minutes. Improvements also were recommended for Los Angeles-San Diego, reducing travel time 18 minutes and increasing service from five to seven round trips daily.

OTHER POSSIBLE hig-speed corridors to be studied are Los Angeles-San Francisco; San Francisco-Sacramento; Seattle-Eugene, Ore.; Dallas-Houston; Chicago-Milwaukee; Chicago-Madison, Wis.; Chicago-St. Louis; Chicago-Cleveland; New York-Springfield, Mass.; Buffalo-New York; Pittsburgh-Cleveland; Pittsburgh-Detroit; Pittsburgh-Philadelphia; Washington-Norfolk, Va., and Cincinnati-Cleveland.

Listed as "prime candidates for added frequency" were Los Angeles-San Francisco, Chicago-Jackson, Miss., and Chicago-Pittsburgh.

Other highlights of the plan include major improvements in the Boston-Washington "Northeast Corridor"; track improvements and new connections in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania; and 13 new stations.

THE DIGNITARIES were all Italian on Columbus Day in Chicago Monday. A parade down State Street honored 20th Century Italians. Leading the way were Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Mayor Michael A. Bilandic and U.S. Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-11th, honorary parade chairman.

Chicago celebrates Italian-style

Mondale said as he stood at midmorning at the foot of the Columbus statue at Loomis and Polk streets, a block from Our Lady of Pompeii Church.

"THE SKY just opened up with sunshine," the Vice President said, smiling, while the Columbus Day planners around him beamed.

Mondale, with Italian Ambassador Roberto Gaja, Chicago Mayor Michael A. Bilandic and U. S. Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-11th, placed a wreath at the base of the statue, which had been salvaged in 1966 from State and Washington streets, the target of an urban renewal project.

The Vice President — surrounded by eager Cook County Democrats, bomb-sniffing police dogs and countless Secret Service and security personnel — praised Italian - American contributions to the country, making special note of the work of U. S. Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N. J., and U. S. District Court Judge John Sirica during the Watergate scandal.

GAJA GAVE Mondale the Knight Grand Cross of the Italian Republic, an award sent by Italian President Giovanni Leone, but Bilandic told the gathering that the Vice President's best gift Monday was "that he doesn't have to face a filibuster here today," a reference to the Administration's Congressional battle over passage of an energy program.

"What we share together as Italians and Americans is a profound and complete commitment to the belief of human rights and dignity of man," Mondale told the gathering in Columbus Plaza.

He repeated the theme later before thousands who lined the parade route from Wacker Drive to Congress Parkway.

"This is a marvelous, marvelous day for Chicago and for all Americans as well, for we are honoring Columbus, the father of all immigrants," he said. "America after all is a country of immigrants."

THE PARADE iteslf, as all such celebrations in Chicago, was a politician's field day, with every official and especially every Italian-American vote-getter making the most of it.

There was praise for Ald. John Aiello, Alexander Adduci and, of course, city council "dean" Vito Marzullo. There were kudos for Metropolitan Sanitary District Comr. Jerome Cosentino, parade chairman, who Annunzio generously reminded the crowd was running for state treasurer.

And there were laurels for the city's Croatian mayor, who marked the day in a brown suit and Italian-colored red, white and green tie.

But they were all Italians Monday, announcer Louis Farina's voice blared, and his tone was echoed from the recorded strains of Connie Francis singing "Arrivederci, Roma" to the bands playing the theme from "Rocky."

Organizations from the Italian-American War Veterans to the Knights of Columbus marched and there were floats commemorating everyone from Jimmy Durante to Charles J. Bonaparte, the founder of the FBI.

They paraded for more than two hours and only as the end approached did the sunshine disappear.

And nobody once mentioned Leif Ericson.

Columbus sailed to Quincy according to class here

QUINCY, Ill. (UPI) — In fourteen hundred and ninety-two, Columbus sailed a little more than the ocean blue, to hear first grade students at the Franklin Elementary School tell the story.

Some, for instance, are convinced Columbus sailed up the Mississippi — "The River Muddy" — to Quincy. Others think he went to China, looking for gold.

The replies were part of a Columbus Day class project directed by their teacher, Norma Barnwell. "I frequently wonder if they listen at all," she said after seeing the responses.

"He brought some Indians back to where he lived," Lee Dunlap, 6, said. "All the people of his home town, Columbus, Ohio, wanted to see Indians because they never seen them before.

"COLUMBUS GETS in his boat, goes up the Mississippi and lands down by the banks near the (Qunicy) bridge," Dunlap explained.

"He was a man and he worked on a boat," Matthew Lord, 5, said. "He scrubbed and washed and scrubbed and washed decks up and down the Mississippi."

Paul Edmonson, 6, said Columbus sailed the "River Muddy."

Edmonson also joined what appears to be a raging controversy about Columbus' age at the time of his exploration. He said Columbus was 14 "when he went to find the Chinese-gold."

Carol Stinson, 7, said, "He was a little boy" but Carol Russell, 6, said he was "growed-up."

Regardless how much or how little they know about Christopher Columbus, the students agreed he must have been a pretty good guy because he got them a day off school.

QUEEN DONNA Marie Errera was selected from 200 candidates.

Facts and figures about insulspray® foam insulation

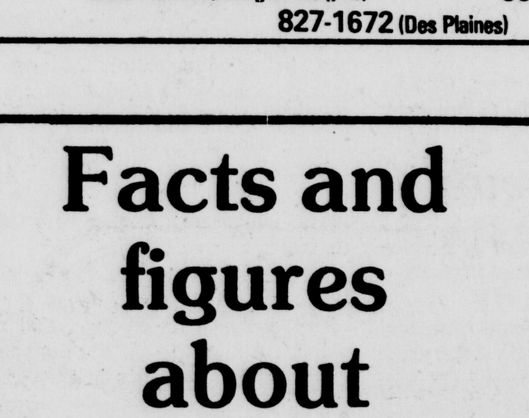
WHERE HEAT ESCAPES IN A TYPICAL TWO STORY HOME



Source: American Society Heating, Refrigeration, Air Conditioning Engineers Handbook of Fundamentals

First, some straight talk

Let's face it. It costs you more every year to heat or cool your home no matter what type of fuel you use. And chances are the cost will continue to rise. So, there's no better time than right now to insulate your home with Insulspray foam insulation.
Common sense will save you dollars.

Why Insulspray?

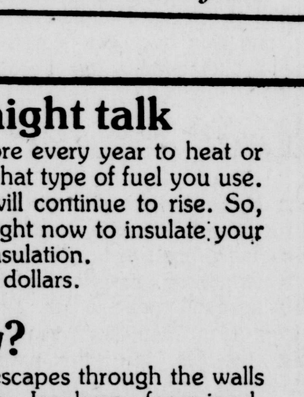
In most homes, more heat escapes through the walls than from anywhere else. New Insulspray foam insulation effectively reduces costly heat loss through walls as never before possible. In hot weather it works just as well to keep cool air in. Insulspray makes your home more comfortable to live in and much more economical to live with.

What is Insulspray?

Insulspray is a non-toxic, two-part insulation system made of liquid urea-formaldehyde resin plus a hardener containing a foaming agent.
The urea-formaldehyde and hardener are fed, under pressure, into a specifically designed mixing gun. The two components are ejected from the gun as a liquid foam consisting of millions of tiny air cells, highly effective in reducing heat loss in winter and heat intake in summer.

How is Insulspray installed?

Insulspray is installed from the outside, without mess, and usually in one day.
It is applied directly into the hollow stud space within the outer walls of your home. It flows up and down, around obstacles and fills every crack and crevice. Insulspray leaves no uninsulated pockets.
In a few days, the foam completely sets and forms a permanent insulating layer within the wall cavity.



What are the advantages?

First and foremost, Insulspray reduces costly heat loss through the walls of your home where it occurs most. It sets up a barrier to block the natural tendency of heat to flow from warm to cold surfaces of building materials. Consequently, your home stays warmer in winter, cooler in summer. And your fuel costs drop considerably.

Facts and figures about insulspray® foam insulation

*Insulspray is manufactured by Borden Chemical Division of Borden, Inc., and is a registered trademark of Borden, Inc.

BORDEN

First, some straight talk
Let's face it. It costs you more every year to heat or cool your home no matter what type of fuel you use. And chances are the cost will continue to rise. So, there's no better time than right now to insulate your home with Insulspray foam insulation.
Common sense will save you dollars.

Why Insulspray?
In most homes, more heat escapes through the walls than from anywhere else. New Insulspray foam insulation effectively reduces costly heat loss through walls as never before possible. In hot weather it works just as well to keep cool air in. Insulspray makes your home more comfortable to live in and much more economical to live with.

What is Insulspray?
Insulspray is a non-toxic, two-part insulation system made of liquid urea-formaldehyde resin plus a hardener containing a foaming agent.
The urea-formaldehyde and hardener are fed, under pressure, into a specifically designed mixing gun. The two components are ejected from the gun as a liquid foam consisting of millions of tiny air cells, highly effective in reducing heat loss in winter and heat intake in summer.

How is Insulspray installed?
Insulspray is installed from the outside, without mess, and usually in one day.
It is applied directly into the hollow stud space within the outer walls of your home. It flows up and down, around obstacles and fills every crack and crevice. Insulspray leaves no uninsulated pockets.
In a few days, the foam completely sets and forms a permanent insulating layer within the wall cavity.

What are the advantages?
First and foremost, Insulspray reduces costly heat loss through the walls of your home where it occurs most. It sets up a barrier to block the natural tendency of heat to flow from warm to cold surfaces of building materials. Consequently, your home stays warmer in winter, cooler in summer. And your fuel costs drop considerably.

Solution needed for library use

Residents of Arlington Heights are being taken advantage of by their neighbors when it comes to library service.

Officials of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library and the North Suburban Library System must find a solution to that problem.

The Arlington Heights library is the best in the area — and one of the best in the state. Its large book collection, pleasant (through crowded) facilities and strong reference library make it a definite community asset.

In order to have such good library facilities, Arlington Heights residents pay relatively high taxes. The library has a budget of more than $1 million and has under way a major expansion program, approved by referendum.

Because of the library's superiority, residents from neighboring communities with smaller libraries use Arlington Heights for their needs. Under the reciprocal borrowing program of the North Suburban Library System, library card holders at any library in the system may use their cards at any other library.

This system meant more than 90,000 items were checked out by non-residents from the Arlington Heights library last year — 11 per cent of the library's total circulation.

The way the system is presently set up, the Arlington Heights library is reimbursed by the state at the rate of 50 cents per book checked out by non-residents. That helps offset some of the cost if not the inconvenience of such a large volume of non-resident use.

In addition, Arlington Heights has a policy of prohibiting non-residents from reserving books, guaranteeing residents first chance at best sellers.

These measures are not enough, however, because the very existence of the Arlington Heights library is enough to keep neighboring communities from upgrading their own library facilities.

As long as library patrons can use the Arlington Heights library without penalty, there will be no pressure on citizens in communities with inadequate libraries to upgrade their facilities.

Evidence for this is provided by Mount Prospect whose residents borrowed 27,668 pieces from the Arlington Heights library and where voters defeated a tax rate increase and book bond referendum.

What may be needed is to require the reimbursement for non-resident use to come from the library where the patrons live, rather than from the state. That would put a direct burden on budgets at inadequate libraries and could provide pressure to force their improvement.

The reciprocal borrowing arrangement by area libraries is a good one, since it allows libraries to develop specialized collections to service the whole area. The system was never meant to penalize on outstanding library.

Justice must be restored to reciprocal borrowing so Arlington Heights residents are not forced to subsidize the reading habits of neighboring communities.

O'Keefe family needs aid

Seven-year-old Robert O'Keefe of Des Plaines lies in his hospital bed in Loyola University Hospital in Maywood, fighting to recover from the disease called lymphala. It is a disease similar to Hodgkin's disease or leukemia. It rarely strikes children.

His battle has grown tougher because Robert's parents have gone broke fighting the disease.

O'Keefes' neighbors have now joined the fight. They are raising funds now to help pay the medical costs, which in similar cases reach $100,000 or more. A Robert O'Keefe fund has been opened at the First National Bank of Des Plaines, and neighbors are planning a fund raising dance for Dec. 10 to raise more funds. DeAnna Ulbert, 537 Harvey Ave., Des Plaines, (824-9401) is coordinating the drive.

If ever there was a family in need, it is the O'Keefes. A catastrophic disease like this one can drain a family's financial resources in no time.

And if ever there was a time for the community to help one of its own, now is it.

'Foreign imports a threat'

The October 4 article by Joseph C. Harsch on the steel mill shutdown in Youngstown, Ohio certainly seemed to lack logic. Mr. Harsch stated, "But it (the United States) does not need and should not allow itself to have an out-of-date industry kept alive by protective tariffs."

It is an established fact that it is not obsolete machinery that is putting U.S. steel mills out of business, but an unfair trade tactic called dumping. The Japanese government, using tax money, has been subsidizing Japanese industry so that they could sell their products in America at abnormally low prices. The purpose of this is to totally knock out American competition and then finally to have a monopoly in the world market.

A good example of how effective this tactic is was recently demonstrated in the television industry when Zenith radio, likewise bombarded by Japanese dumping tactics, gave up trying to produce television sets in the United States and laid-off over 5,000 employes. Thus Japan managed to stop every large American TV manufacturer, and it now has a complete monopoly.

Nobel Prize winning economist Milton Freidman, usually right in matters of economics, recently said, "If Japan wants to make us a gift of taxing its citizens to send us cheap steel why should we be so stupid as to not accept it?" To this I answer, "What good is it to receive something at a lower price if it means that more and more Americans will be out of work, and eventually you too will be out of work?" Mr. Freidman, you are wrong.

What Mr. Harsch and Mr. Freidman do not take into consideration is that it was the American taxpayers dollars lent to the Japanese via the Export-Import Bank (courtesy of Robert S. McNamara) that made all this possible.

Even stranger, in yesterday's daily paper I read, "Minoru Masuda, vice minister of International Trade and Industry, told the National Press Club that Japan was willing to negotiate an agreement to curb steel exports to the United States, but the Carter administration rejected the offer."

All this unfair action against the American working man is intentional and deliberate. It is part of a master plan conceived by a group called the Council of Foreign Relations. The reason, and this has been stated many times in their publication (Foreign Affairs) is that the American people must be depressed to a level equal to the rest of the World before we can all be merged in a one-world government. President Carter has now placed no fewer than 70 members of this organization into high level appointed positions, so is it any wonder why all these things are happening?

There are laws against dumping, and the Treasury Department has tried to enforce them, but President Carter has used his high office to rule against these laws. If he continues to have his way he will surely cause an economic catastrophe in the United States and in much of the rest of the world. Since our President, before his election, was also a member of a group pushing for a one-world-government (The Trilateral Commission) I can only assume that he would welcome this as a step towards World Government. Why else would he deliberately scuttle our last large television manufacturing company, and why is he now deliberately trying to scuttle our steel industry?

'We're friendly'

As 4½-year residents of Trend II in Hanover Park, we have been reading with interest Pat Gerlach's stories on the neighborhoods of Hanover Park.

Of special interest was the story on Trend II, especially the comparison the Phoenix woman made on the unfriendliness of Phoenix residents. It would be easy for us to say that if she doesn't like it here, she can go back to where she came from.

But all Hanover Park residents can demonstrate this Phoenix friendliness if only shown how to do so. Therefore, we nominate this friendly lady to show us the Phoenix way of friends.

P.S. Friendly people do not compare people with each other.

Words of praise

I am a resident of the Lutheran Home for the Aged. I have been here about three and one half months.

I am very happy in my new home, but you have added to my happiness by publishing my picture Aug. 29 and again Sept. 23 in The Daily Herald. The foregoing picture was taken of me smelling a rose at the Garden Club Flower show held Aug. 22.

I feel highly honored to be chosen among so many who attended to have my picture deemed newsworthy enough to be published. To me this seemed what one would call a "human interest" piciture. I just love flowers so get all the pleasure I can by not only looking but smelling them, especially a rose.

Again, I want to thank you for adding to the happiness of an 80-year-old.

'Road repair dust causes trouble'

On Monday, Sept. 26, work crews come through Prospect Heights, first spreading asphalt or tar on the roads, and then putting gravel on top of it.

My husband spoke to Mr. Wolf, inquiring as to when they were going to finish the job. We were extremely anxious to find out when the mess would be cleared up so we could clean up our property.

Mr. Wolf advised us that this is a finished job. He also advised us that the village engineer (who lives in Grayslake, far away from this mess) was the instigator of this project. Supposedly, this gravel will eventually imbed itself into the asphalt or tar below.

My questions are:

1. What power do our local officials have to spend money and affect the lives and health of local residents without giving us some kind of notice?

2. Who is liable for my costs involved with this project. I have a husband and two sons with asthmatic bronchitis. They are all allergic to dust. Therefore:

a. Who pays the doctor and drug bills?

b. Who is coming over to dust and vacuum my house everyday? Each car that passes, no matter how slowly, leaves a cloud of dust in its path — and all cars don't pass slowly.

c. Who is going to come over and take the gravel out of my lawn each week before I mow the lawn? Or, who is going to pay the repair bills on my lawn mower? Or, who pays for any accidents that happen while I run my lawn mower over grass filled with gravel?

d. Who is going to come over and wash my black car every day? I raise a cloud of dust at 10 mph.

e. Who is going to reimburse me for having my driveway refinished just one week before this disaster?

I also believe that there is no way the gravel alongside my lawn will eventually imbed itself in the coating below unless someone drives over it. I sincerely doubt that they will. I sincerely hope they will not drive over my lawn. They can't drive under my mailbox unless they knock it down.

How will snowplows clean our roads as nicely as they did last winter without pulling up the gravel and depositing it in my lawn?

'Back alley abortions no danger'

It was with regret that I read The Daily Herald's editorial endorsing Governor Thompson's decision to fund abortions for welfare recipients. Both you and the Governor are apparently out of touch with the mainstream of American thought — a CBS News poll revealed last month that although the American people overwhelmingly approve of taxpayer funding of pregnancy care and contraceptives for welfare mothars, only one-third approve of paying for abortions.

Ironically, the Governor fears that withdrawal of abortion funding will force poor women to "back alley butchers." I wish he would read his own statistics. The Illinois State Board of Health has verified only three illegal abortion deaths in 1970, two for '71 and none for '72, hardly a blood bath. Since abortion has become legal, however, we are witnessing repated evidence of permanent physical damage, prematurity in subsequent births, and ectopic pregnancies, to say nothing of the emotional trauma to these women. Last June in Granite City, a young married woman died of a perforated uterus after undergoing an abortion at a "safe, approved" clinic. As one downstate physician put it, "It's unfortunate, but it's happening every day in Chicago, and you're just not hearing about it."

In this case, parts of the infant's face and spinal cord, recovered from his mother's body at autopsy, showed that he was of sixteen weeks' gestation, indicating that this abortion should have been performed in a hospital (abortion is legal until birth, but second and third trimester abortions must be performed in hospitals). Apparently, the "competent" physician who performed this surgery, cared more for his $250 fee than for the welfare of his patient.

This is the system that The Daily Herald and Governor Thompson wish to continue. If you were really concerned with the fate of unwillingly-pregnant women, you would encourage programs to support and care for them, rather than the "easy" and often destructive, alternative.

Separtism strong force in Canada

CALGARY, Alberta — American and Canadian editorial writers chose to hold their annual conference here this year, while Canada was still in one piece. Among the invited guests was Rene Levesque, long the head of Quebec's separatist party and now its premier. Asking him here was the rough equivalent of inviting Jefferson Davis to address a New York audience early in 1861.

But in Alberta, an almost unreal calm prevails. The rest of this huge country may be worried about secession, unemployment, inflation — but oil-rich Alberta is a pocket of prosperity in a pinched Canada. Out here, it's difficult to believe that M. Levesque is really out to split Canada, and to accept the poorer part, at that.

When Lawrie Joslin of the Calgary Herald tried to arrange a police escort for Quebec's premier, the police assured him that there was no need for such precautions here. It was a reflection of the general attitude. Politicians and newspapermen may get worked up over these things, but in the West folks may find it hard to take the trouble in Quebec all that seriously.

THE YOUNG WOMAN handling the hotel arrangements for the conference in Calgary expressed some sympathy for Quebec and its cause. "As an Albertan," she explained, "I can sympathize with Quebec." Alberta, too, is restive under a federal government that to an American suggests more of a confederacy.

Other provinces east and west of Quebec may not be troubled by issues of language and nationality, but they have their own complaints against Ottawa. They claim they pay too much in taxes, or don't receive enough aid, or can't control their own resources, or don't get a fair share of the country's — The centrifugal force of Canadian politics tends to overwhelm what has held the dominion together. The sense of being Canadian, always murky, gives way to the surer sense of being a Quebecker or Albertan.

Nor are the divisions in Canada solely sectional. The country has welcomed various nationalities to aid in its development without assimilating them or much wanting to. In the hotel room, the schedule of Sunday masses next to the Gideon Bible lists services in any number of languages besides English, including French, Hungarian, Polish, German, Italian, Ukrainian, Portuguese — and that doesn't touch on the Indian dialects. This in Alberta, supposedly Anglicized Western Canada.

Each To His Own has been seen as the great virtue of Canadian nationalism, perhaps its essence, and may yet prove its death. At the moment, a couple of Indian tribes in Quebec are giving M. Levesque's plan for independence more trouble than Ottawa is.

AT CALGARY'S expensively appointed Glenbow Museum or at Heritage Park on the city's outskirts, ploughs and locomotives less than a century old represent the past of Western Canada. There hasn't been much time to develop a Canadian consciousness in this vast country or among its disparate peoples, many of them recent arrivals. No wonder Rene Levesque glories in the tradition and cohesiveness of French Canada.

Henry James, trying to explain why the United States had a Civil War, wrote that in 1861 this nation did not have a unifying thread — no common church or literary tradition or university or culture. Canada in 1977 would seem to lack a common national heritage, a single tradition or any great unifying symbol — which may explain why it has changed its emblem in search of one that will mean something to everyone, the maple leaf being its new try. This is a vast country in which identification seems to come from the periphery, rather than emanate from the center. The young woman's words keep coming back: "I am an Albertan and I can sympathize with Quebec." No mention of being a Canadian.

THE POLITICAL DIALOGUE in Canada today has overtones of American politics in 1860, when leaders were identified as Northerners or Southerners or Westerners. There was no shared vision of the future, and the common heritage of the past was fading fast. Soon enough 1861 arrived.

Another similarity with that period is the common feeling one runs into that this, too, will blow over and all will be as before, that a country with such a great future will surely not let itself be divided, that common sense and a decent respect for one another will win out again.

Will Quebec really go its separate way? "Oh, I don't think Levesque will go that far," I am assured. That sort of thing doesn't happen here. But is there anything. or anyone, to stop him?

Solution needed for library use

Residents of Arlington Heights are being taken advantage of by their neighbors when it comes to library service.

Officials of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library and the North Suburban Library System must find a solution to that problem.

The Arlington Heights library is the best in the area — and one of the best in the state. Its large book collection, pleasant (through crowded) facilities and strong reference library make it a definite community asset.

In order to have such good library facilities, Arlington Heights residents pay relatively high taxes. The library has a budget of more than $1 million and has under way a major expansion program, approved by referendum.

Because of the library's superiority, residents from neighboring communities with smaller libraries use Arlington Heights for their needs. Under the reciprocal borrowing program of the North Suburban Library System, library card holders at any library in the system may use their cards at any other library.

This system meant more than 90,000 items were checked out by non-residents from the Arlington Heights library last year — 11 per cent of the library's total circulation.

The way the system is presently set up, the Arlington Heights library is reimbursed by the state at the rate of 50 cents per book checked out by non-residents. That helps offset some of the cost if not the inconvenience of such a large volume of non-resident use.

In addition, Arlington Heights has a policy of prohibiting non-residents from reserving books, guaranteeing residents first chance at best sellers.

These measures are not enough, however, because the very existence of the Arlington Heights library is enough to keep neighboring communities from upgrading their own library facilities.

As long as library patrons can use the Arlington Heights library without penalty, there will be no pressure on citizens in communities with inadequate libraries to upgrade their facilities.

Evidence for this is provided by Mount Prospect whose residents borrowed 27,668 pieces from the Arlington Heights library and where voters defeated a tax rate increase and book bond referendum.

What may be needed is to require the reimbursement for non-resident use to come from the library where the patrons live, rather than from the state. That would put a direct burden on budgets at inadequate libraries and could provide pressure to force their improvement.

The reciprocal borrowing arrangement by area libraries is a good one, since it allows libraries to develop specialized collections to service the whole area. The system was never meant to penalize on outstanding library.

Justice must be restored to reciprocal borrowing so Arlington Heights residents are not forced to subsidize the reading habits of neighboring communities.

O'Keefe family needs aid

Seven-year-old Robert O'Keefe of Des Plaines lies in his hospital bed in Loyola University Hospital in Maywood, fighting to recover from the disease called lymphala. It is a disease similar to Hodgkin's disease or leukemia. It rarely strikes children.

His battle has grown tougher because Robert's parents have gone broke fighting the disease.

O'Keefes' neighbors have now joined the fight. They are raising funds now to help pay the medical costs, which in similar cases reach $100,000 or more. A Robert O'Keefe fund has been opened at the First National Bank of Des Plaines, and neighbors are planning a fund raising dance for Dec. 10 to raise more funds. DeAnna Ulbert, 537 Harvey Ave., Des Plaines, (824-9401) is coordinating the drive.

If ever there was a family in need, it is the O'Keefes. A catastrophic disease like this one can drain a family's financial resources in no time.

And if ever there was a time for the community to help one of its own, now is it.

'Foreign imports a threat'

The October 4 article by Joseph C. Harsch on the steel mill shutdown in Youngstown, Ohio certainly seemed to lack logic. Mr. Harsch stated, "But it (the United States) does not need and should not allow itself to have an out-of-date industry kept alive by protective tariffs."

It is an established fact that it is not obsolete machinery that is putting U.S. steel mills out of business, but an unfair trade tactic called dumping. The Japanese government, using tax money, has been subsidizing Japanese industry so that they could sell their products in America at abnormally low prices. The purpose of this is to totally knock out American competition and then finally to have a monopoly in the world market.

A good example of how effective this tactic is was recently demonstrated in the television industry when Zenith radio, likewise bombarded by Japanese dumping tactics, gave up trying to produce television sets in the United States and laid-off over 5,000 employes. Thus Japan managed to stop every large American TV manufacturer, and it now has a complete monopoly.

Nobel Prize winning economist Milton Freidman, usually right in matters of economics, recently said, "If Japan wants to make us a gift of taxing its citizens to send us cheap steel why should we be so stupid as to not accept it?" To this I answer, "What good is it to receive something at a lower price if it means that more and more Americans will be out of work, and eventually you too will be out of work?" Mr. Freidman, you are wrong.

What Mr. Harsch and Mr. Freidman do not take into consideration is that it was the American taxpayers dollars lent to the Japanese via the Export-Import Bank (courtesy of Robert S. McNamara) that made all this possible.

Even stranger, in yesterday's daily paper I read, "Minoru Masuda, vice minister of International Trade and Industry, told the National Press Club that Japan was willing to negotiate an agreement to curb steel exports to the United States, but the Carter administration rejected the offer."

All this unfair action against the American working man is intentional and deliberate. It is part of a master plan conceived by a group called the Council of Foreign Relations. The reason, and this has been stated many times in their publication (Foreign Affairs) is that the American people must be depressed to a level equal to the rest of the World before we can all be merged in a one-world government. President Carter has now placed no fewer than 70 members of this organization into high level appointed positions, so is it any wonder why all these things are happening?

There are laws against dumping, and the Treasury Department has tried to enforce them, but President Carter has used his high office to rule against these laws. If he continues to have his way he will surely cause an economic catastrophe in the United States and in much of the rest of the world. Since our President, before his election, was also a member of a group pushing for a one-world-government (The Trilateral Commission) I can only assume that he would welcome this as a step towards World Government. Why else would he deliberately scuttle our last large television manufacturing company, and why is he now deliberately trying to scuttle our steel industry?

As 4½-year residents of Trend II in Hanover Park, we have been reading with interest Pat Gerlach's stories on the neighborhoods of Hanover Park.

Of special interest was the story on Trend II, especially the comparison the Phoenix woman made on the unfriendliness of Phoenix residents. It would be easy for us to say that if she doesn't like it here, she can go back to where she came from.

But all Hanover Park residents can demonstrate this Phoenix friendliness if only shown how to do so. Therefore, we nominate this friendly lady to show us the Phoenix way of friends.

Words of praise

I am a resident of the Lutheran Home for the Aged. I have been here about three and one half months.

I am very happy in my new home, but you have added to my happiness by publishing my picture Aug. 29 and again Sept. 23 in The Daily Herald. The foregoing picture was taken of me smelling a rose at the Garden Club Flower show held Aug. 22.

I feel highly honored to be chosen among so many who attended to have my picture deemed newsworthy enough to be published. To me this seemed what one would call a "human interest" piciture. I just love flowers so get all the pleasure I can by not only looking but smelling them, especially a rose.

Again, I want to thank you for adding to the happiness of an 80-year-old.

'Road repair dust causes trouble'

On Monday, Sept. 26, work crews come through Prospect Heights, first spreading asphalt or tar on the roads, and then putting gravel on top of it.

My husband spoke to Mr. Wolf, inquiring as to when they were going to finish the job. We were extremely anxious to find out when the mess would be cleared up so we could clean up our property.

Mr. Wolf advised us that this is a finished job. He also advised us that the village engineer (who lives in Grayslake, far away from this mess) was the instigator of this project. Supposedly, this gravel will eventually imbed itself into the asphalt or tar below.

My questions are:

1. What power do our local officials have to spend money and affect the lives and health of local residents without giving us some kind of notice?

2. Who is liable for my costs involved with this project. I have a husband and two sons with asthmatic bronchitis. They are all allergic to dust. Therefore:

a. Who pays the doctor and drug bills?

b. Who is coming over to dust and vacuum my house everyday? Each car that passes, no matter how slowly, leaves a cloud of dust in its path — and all cars don't pass slowly.

c. Who is going to come over and take the gravel out of my lawn each week before I mow the lawn? Or, who is going to pay the repair bills on my lawn mower? Or, who pays for any accidents that happen while I run my lawn mower over grass filled with gravel?

d. Who is going to come over and wash my black car every day? I raise a cloud of dust at 10 mph.

e. Who is going to reimburse me for having my driveway refinished just one week before this disaster?

I also believe that there is no way the gravel alongside my lawn will eventually imbed itself in the coating below unless someone drives over it. I sincerely doubt that they will. I sincerely hope they will not drive over my lawn. They can't drive under my mailbox unless they knock it down.

How will snowplows clean our roads as nicely as they did last winter without pulling up the gravel and depositing it in my lawn?

'Back alley abortions no danger'

It was with regret that I read The Daily Herald's editorial endorsing Governor Thompson's decision to fund abortions for welfare recipients. Both you and the Governor are apparently out of touch with the mainstream of American thought — a CBS News poll revealed last month that although the American people overwhelmingly approve of taxpayer funding of pregnancy care and contraceptives for welfare mothars, only one-third approve of paying for abortions.

Ironically, the Governor fears that withdrawal of abortion funding will force poor women to "back alley butchers." I wish he would read his own statistics. The Illinois State Board of Health has verified only three illegal abortion deaths in 1970, two for '71 and none for '72, hardly a blood bath. Since abortion has become legal, however, we are witnessing repated evidence of permanent physical damage, prematurity in subsequent births, and ectopic pregnancies, to say nothing of the emotional trauma to these women. Last June in Granite City, a young married woman died of a perforated uterus after undergoing an abortion at a "safe, approved" clinic. As one downstate physician put it, "It's unfortunate, but it's happening every day in Chicago, and you're just not hearing about it."

In this case, parts of the infant's face and spinal cord, recovered from his mother's body at autopsy, showed that he was of sixteen weeks' gestation, indicating that this abortion should have been performed in a hospital (abortion is legal until birth, but second and third trimester abortions must be performed in hospitals). Apparently, the "competent" physician who performed this surgery, cared more for his $250 fee than for the welfare of his patient.

This is the system that The Daily Herald and Governor Thompson wish to continue. If you were really concerned with the fate of unwillingly-pregnant women, you would encourage programs to support and care for them, rather than the "easy" and often destructive, alternative.

Separtism strong force in Canada

CALGARY, Alberta — American and Canadian editorial writers chose to hold their annual conference here this year, while Canada was still in one piece. Among the invited guests was Rene Levesque, long the head of Quebec's separatist party and now its premier. Asking him here was the rough equivalent of inviting Jefferson Davis to address a New York audience early in 1861.

But in Alberta, an almost unreal calm prevails. The rest of this huge country may be worried about secession, unemployment, inflation — but oil-rich Alberta is a pocket of prosperity in a pinched Canada. Out here, it's difficult to believe that M. Levesque is really out to split Canada, and to accept the poorer part, at that.

When Lawrie Joslin of the Calgary Herald tried to arrange a police escort for Quebec's premier, the police assured him that there was no need for such precautions here. It was a reflection of the general attitude. Politicians and newspapermen may get worked up over these things, but in the West folks may find it hard to take the trouble in Quebec all that seriously.

THE YOUNG WOMAN handling the hotel arrangements for the conference in Calgary expressed some sympathy for Quebec and its cause. "As an Albertan," she explained, "I can sympathize with Quebec." Alberta, too, is restive under a federal government that to an American suggests more of a confederacy.

Other provinces east and west of Quebec may not be troubled by issues of language and nationality, but they have their own complaints against Ottawa. They claim they pay too much in taxes, or don't receive enough aid, or can't control their own resources, or don't get a fair share of the country's — The centrifugal force of Canadian politics tends to overwhelm what has held the dominion together. The sense of being Canadian, always murky, gives way to the surer sense of being a Quebecker or Albertan.

Nor are the divisions in Canada solely sectional. The country has welcomed various nationalities to aid in its development without assimilating them or much wanting to. In the hotel room, the schedule of Sunday masses next to the Gideon Bible lists services in any number of languages besides English, including French, Hungarian, Polish, German, Italian, Ukrainian, Portuguese — and that doesn't touch on the Indian dialects. This in Alberta, supposedly Anglicized Western Canada.

Each To His Own has been seen as the great virtue of Canadian nationalism, perhaps its essence, and may yet prove its death. At the moment, a couple of Indian tribes in Quebec are giving M. Levesque's plan for independence more trouble than Ottawa is.

AT CALGARY'S expensively appointed Glenbow Museum or at Heritage Park on the city's outskirts, ploughs and locomotives less than a century old represent the past of Western Canada. There hasn't been much time to develop a Canadian consciousness in this vast country or among its disparate peoples, many of them recent arrivals. No wonder Rene Levesque glories in the tradition and cohesiveness of French Canada.

Henry James, trying to explain why the United States had a Civil War, wrote that in 1861 this nation did not have a unifying thread — no common church or literary tradition or university or culture. Canada in 1977 would seem to lack a common national heritage, a single tradition or any great unifying symbol — which may explain why it has changed its emblem in search of one that will mean something to everyone, the maple leaf being its new try. This is a vast country in which identification seems to come from the periphery, rather than emanate from the center. The young woman's words keep coming back: "I am an Albertan and I can sympathize with Quebec." No mention of being a Canadian.

THE POLITICAL DIALOGUE in Canada today has overtones of American politics in 1860, when leaders were identified as Northerners or Southerners or Westerners. There was no shared vision of the future, and the common heritage of the past was fading fast. Soon enough 1861 arrived.

Another similarity with that period is the common feeling one runs into that this, too, will blow over and all will be as before, that a country with such a great future will surely not let itself be divided, that common sense and a decent respect for one another will win out again.

Will Quebec really go its separate way? "Oh, I don't think Levesque will go that far," I am assured. That sort of thing doesn't happen here. But is there anything, or anyone, to stop him?

Post office reforms fail to lick the problem and deliver a remedy

"When I contemplate the extent to which the moral sentiments, the intelligence, the affections of so many millions of people — sealed up by a sacred charm within the cover of a letter — daily circulate through a country, I am compelled to regard the post office, next to Christianity, as the right arm of our modern civilization." — Edward Everett, Massachusetts statesman, 1794-1865.

Wandalyn Rice

Commentary

Edward Everett must have been a real hard-luck guy. In addition to his commentary on the post office, the encyclopedia lists his accomplishments as secretary of state under Millard Fillmore and as principal orator at the dedication of the battlefield at Gettysburg. (Abe Lincoln was scheduled to make some brief remarks for the occasion.)

With a track record like that, it is no wonder that Everett's comments on the post office strike the average 20th century American as absurd.

It's doubtful that with the present state of the postal system that even the most dedicated atheist would insult Christianity by comparing the two institutions.

AND YET AS the "Christmas mailing rush" approaches and congressmen returned from vacation promote more plans for reforming the U.S. Postal Service, perhaps it's time to look at Everett's sentiments and the principle they illuminate.

As everyone who has bought a stamp recently knows, the postal service since 1971 has been a quasi-governmental corporation that is supposed to pay for itself through revenues. It still has deficits that are financed by tax money, but the goal is to have the post office on a "sound business basis."

The postal system was created as a reform of the old post office, a straight government department run by patronage employes and more responsive to political pressures than to calls for efficiency. The theory was that the corporation would improve efficiency and service while saving taxpayer money.

The fruits of this reform are obvious. While the deficits continue, postal rates have risen steeply and the postal system officials talk about closing small unprofitable post offices and eliminating Saturday mail delivery.

THE MOST RECENT call for reform of the reform was a proposal to make the postmaster general accountable to the president rather than to the system's board of governors. That would undo at least part of the 1971 reform by making the postmaster responsible to a politician. Politics was alleged to be the problem with the old post office.

The persistent nature of the post office problem points out the need to look at the whole system from a new perspective — or rather from an old perspective that too many of us have forgotten.

The perspective is simply this: Does it make any sense to consider the post office/postal system as a corporate entity that should be responsible for making money (or at least breaking even)? Or is that requirement as nonsensical as if a city decided its fire department ought to be a profit making operation?

In Edward Everett's day — and indeed for many years after — a post office was considered, even by those who believed in as little government as possible, to be one of the few absolutely vital services provided by a central government. One of the first things the Continental Congress did when it began meeting in 1775 was to appoint Bemjamin Franklin postmaster general. Thus the post office predated American independence.

The idea that a postal system shouldn't drain general tax revenues is a recent concept. And, judging from how it's been working, it isn't very sensible.

GRANTED, THE old post office was riddled with patronage and government-based inefficiencies. Granted too that with the development of the telephone and other means of electronic communications that the post office is no longer the sole means of keeping people in touch with one another.

Nevertheless, the average person still doesn't really care if a postal service is profit-making. He or she wants reasonable assurance that the mail will go through and that service will be convenient.

That's why postal rate increases and discontinuing things like Saturday delivery run into so much trouble. They run counter to the expectation that a post office is run for public convenience, even if convenience costs money.

If Congress, the president and the postal authorities could get back to that basic idea, perhaps some of the post office's troubles could be alleviated. There still would be the need for increased efficiency, but there wouldn't be a compulsion to eliminate popular services that aren't profitable.

That might not get the mail delivered on time, but it would clarify the nature of the debate.

Carter, Israel head for showdown

by JOSEPH C. HARSCH

The joint statement which the governments of the United States and the Soviet Union issued Oct. 1 on the subject of the Middle East represents the most important move in foreign policy which President Carter has yet made.

It may well be the most important he will make while in the White House. It is also the most controversial. It will certainly involve him in a confrontation with the state of Israel and with its friends in the United States which he would have avoided had that been at all possible.

It is the most important yet made by Carter because it is aimed at reaching a settlement of the only situation in the world today which is so unsettled and which so involves the interests of both the superpowers that it could, if unresolved, lead to a dangerous and perhaps even fatal confrontation between the super-powers.

THERE ARE OTHER difficult situations in the world where Soviet and American interests are in conflict. Southern Africa is one of them. But there is nothing foreseeable in Rhodesia or South Africa which could conceivably involve Soviet and American troops facing each other. An unsettled Middle East could do just that.

The Soviets would undoubtedly intervene if, for example, Israeli troops were on the verge of capturing Damascus or Cairo. American troops would certainly intervene if Soviet troops seemed likely to obtain control of the major sources of Arabian oil.

It is not to be forgotten that at the height of the 1973 war in the Middle East the Soviets prepared an airborne division as Israeli troops broke across the Suez Canal and almost encircled an entire Egyptian Army Corps. The American response was a worldwide alert of American military forces.

Another war in the Middle East is not only likely but almost inevitable if there is no settlement at least tentatively in sight by the end of this year. Time is running out for such a settlement. The governments in both Egypt and Syria are in trouble. Both would probably fall and be replaced by Arab extremists unless there is progress toward settlement.

WHEN CARTER intervened last Saturday night events in the Middle East were heading straight down the road to crisis. Israeli Prime Minister Begin's words and deeds were aimed at annexation by Israel of the West Bank. But annexation would force the Arab governments to prepare for the next war. No Arab government could survive which acquiesced in that annexation. In both Cairo and Damascus a lost war could seem the lesser evil.

Begin's words and deeds have given Carter little choice. He could not allow the annexation policy to proceed any further without intervening.

To stand aside and do nothing would be to betray the promises made by three presidents over several years to the Arabs. It would wash out the basis for the present understanding between Washington and the Arab capitals that, given time, Washington would obtain a restoration to the Arabs of their lost territories.

Carter intervened with the utmost reluctance. Only two years ago President Gerald Ford and his Secretary of State Henry Kissinger decided that it was necessary to use American leverage on Israel. They delayed the delivery of some American weapons to Israel. The Israeli lobby in Washington obtained the signatures of 76 senators to a letter calling on the President to "be responsive to Israel's urgent military and economic needs." The Israelis got what they wanted.

CARTER HAS PICKED up the challenge which Prime Minister Begin offered by his annexation policy. The question is posed whether the state of Israel can control more votes in the Senate of the United States than can the President of the United States.

The Israeli lobby is the most powerful possessed by any foreign government in Washington, ever. Carter cannot be sure that he actually can swing more votes in the Senate than can Begin.

Carter and the State Department tried to head off this test of strength with Israel. They warned repeatedly that Israeli settlements in the West Bank area are regarded by the United States as "illegal" and as damaging to the cause of peace. Carter is having trouble with Congress over his energy bill and over the Panama Canal treaty. These may prove to be mild battles compared to the one he must have over the use of American leverage on Israel to cause it to do what must be done if the next war in the Middle East is to be avoided.

THE INEVITABLE INTENSITY of the poloitical battle ahead in Washington measures the importance which the President attaches to the abandonment by Israel of the annexation policy. No president would dream of challenging the Israeli lobby unless he felt that he had no choice.

Any reader who wants more detail on what has been said above should read the article by George Ball, former Undersecretary of State, which appeared in the April, 1977, issue of Foreign Affairs under the title "How to Save Israel in Spite of Herself." Carter is embarked on precisely the policy which Ball outlined in that article. No one can foresee how far Carter will be able to go with it.

The persistent nature of the post office problem points out the need to look at the whole system from a new perspective — or rather from an old perspective that too many of us have forgotten.

The perspective is simply this: Does it make any sense to consider the post office/postal system as a corporate entity that should be responsible for making money (or at least breaking even)? Or is that requirement as nonsensical as if a city decided its fire department ought to be a profit making operation?

In Edward Everett's day — and indeed for many years after — a post office was considered, even by those who believed in as little government as possible, to be one of the few absolutely vital services provided by a central government. One of the first things the Continental Congress did when it began meeting in 1775 was to appoint Bemjamin Franklin postmaster general. Thus the post office predated American independence.

The idea that a postal system shouldn't drain general tax revenues is a recent concept. And, judging from how it's been working, it isn't very sensible.

GRANTED, THE old post office was riddled with patronage and government-based inefficiencies. Granted too that with the development of the telephone and other means of electronic communications that the post office is no longer the sole means of keeping people in touch with one another.

Nevertheless, the average person still doesn't really care if a postal service is profit-making. He or she wants reasonable assurance that the mail will go through and that service will be convenient.

That's why postal rate increases and discontinuing things like Saturday delivery run into so much trouble. They run counter to the expectation that a post office is run for public convenience, even if convenience costs money.

If Congress, the president and the postal authorities could get back to that basic idea, perhaps some of the post office's troubles could be alleviated. There still would be the need for increased efficiency, but there wouldn't be a compulsion to eliminate popular services that aren't profitable.

That might not get the mail delivered on time, but it would clarify the nature of the debate.

by JOSEPH C. HARSCH

The joint statement which the governments of the United States and the Soviet Union issued Oct. 1 on the subject of the Middle East represents the most important move in foreign policy which President Carter has yet made.

It may well be the most important he will make while in the White House. It is also the most controversial. It will certainly involve him in a confrontation with the state of Israel and with its friends in the United States which he would have avoided had that been at all possible.

It is the most important yet made by Carter because it is aimed at reaching a settlement of the only situation in the world today which is so unsettled and which so involves the interests of both the superpowers that it could, if unresolved, lead to a dangerous and perhaps even fatal confrontation between the super-powers.

THERE ARE OTHER difficult situations in the world where Soviet and American interests are in conflict. Southern Africa is one of them. But there is nothing foreseeable in Rhodesia or South Africa which could conceivably involve Soviet and American troops facing each other. An unsettled Middle East could do just that.

The Soviets would undoubtedly intervene if, for example, Israeli troops were on the verge of capturing Damascus or Cairo. American troops would certainly intervene if Soviet troops seemed likely to obtain control of the major sources of Arabian oil.

It is not to be forgotten that at the height of the 1973 war in the Middle East the Soviets prepared an airborne division as Israeli troops broke across the Suez Canal and almost encircled an entire Egyptian Army Corps. The American response was a worldwide alert of American military forces.

Another war in the Middle East is not only likely but almost inevitable if there is no settlement at least tentatively in sight by the end of this year. Time is running out for such a settlement. The governments in both Egypt and Syria are in trouble. Both would probably fall and be replaced by Arab extremists unless there is progress toward settlement.

WHEN CARTER intervened last Saturday night events in the Middle East were heading straight down the road to crisis. Israeli Prime Minister Begin's words and deeds were aimed at annexation by Israel of the West Bank. But annexation would force the Arab governments to prepare for the next war. No Arab government could survive which acquiesced in that annexation. In both Cairo and Damascus a lost war could seem the lesser evil.

Begin's words and deeds have given Carter little choice. He could not allow the annexation policy to proceed any further without intervening.

To stand aside and do nothing would be to betray the promises made by three presidents over several years to the Arabs. It would wash out the basis for the present understanding between Washington and the Arab capitals that, given time, Washington would obtain a restoration to the Arabs of their lost territories.

Carter intervened with the utmost reluctance. Only two years ago President Gerald Ford and his Secretary of State Henry Kissinger decided that it was necessary to use American leverage on Israel. They delayed the delivery of some American weapons to Israel. The Israeli lobby in Washington obtained the signatures of 76 senators to a letter calling on the President to "be responsive to Israel's urgent military and economic needs." The Israelis got what they wanted.

CARTER HAS PICKED up the challenge which Prime Minister Begin offered by his annexation policy. The question is posed whether the state of Israel can control more votes in the Senate of the United States than can the President of the United States.

The Israeli lobby is the most powerful possessed by any foreign government in Washington, ever. Carter cannot be sure that he actually can swing more votes in the Senate than can Begin.

Carter and the State Department tried to head off this test of strength with Israel. They warned repeatedly that Israeli settlements in the West Bank area are regarded by the United States as "illegal" and as damaging to the cause of peace. Carter is having trouble with Congress over his energy bill and over the Panama Canal treaty. These may prove to be mild battles compared to the one he must have over the use of American leverage on Israel to cause it to do what must be done if the next war in the Middle East is to be avoided.

THE INEVITABLE INTENSITY of the poloitical battle ahead in Washington measures the importance which the President attaches to the abandonment by Israel of the annexation policy. No president would dream of challenging the Israeli lobby unless he felt that he had no choice.

Any reader who wants more detail on what has been said above should read the article by George Ball, former Undersecretary of State, which appeared in the April, 1977, issue of Foreign Affairs under the title "How to Save Israel in Spite of Herself." Carter is embarked on precisely the policy which Ball outlined in that article. No one can foresee how far Carter will be able to go with it.

BUT ONE MAN from Palatine who wished to remain anonymous said he is not as optimistic that Arlington's night schedule will prosper.

"I don't think the park will bring in enough money this way," he said. "Arlington Heights is too far from the city; in the South Side tracks the blacks support the tracks, but out here there probably won't be as many people supporting the night racing."

Neighbors near the track do not like the idea of night racing one bit.

"I think my garage is well-lit," said John Knee, 28, of 2202 St. James St., Rolling Meadows said. "But when I walk outside and look past my back yard I get blinded."

SOME OF THE neighbors on St. James Street, which runs parallel to the main stretch of the race track, objected to the traffic, noise and lights generated by the first night of harness racing in Arlington Heights.

Jenny Komistra, 53, of 2106 St. James St., said she does not like the idea of night racing because of the lights.

"The president is always talking about an energy crisis and that we're running out of energy," Mrs. Komistra said. "But look at those lights! There's something wrong here — some kind of real contradiction."

Knee said he is frustrated with the Arlington Park "experiment" because he thinks the night racing may cause problems for Chicago commuters returning from work.

"I JUST DON'T like the whole thing," he said. "If it causes even half the traffic problems that regular day racing does, it'll be bad."

"It used to be such a quiet town, but it's getting so commercialized and noisy. Thank God football never came in here."

Knee said he went to the races once or twice as a kid, but only because he likes horses.

"I think this night stuff will last," he said. "And if it were only for the horses' sake, I'd be glad, but as far as us human homeowners are concerned, I think it's a bit unfair."

IT LOOKS LIKE suede, feels like suede and even sounds like suede. But this suit modeled by Starr Hagenbring is made of Ultrasuede, the wonder fabric that is lighter than real suede and may be machine-washed and dried. It's one of a $6,000 collection of Ultrasuede garments modeled at Hagenbring's Fabrics, Arlington Heights.

THE CAPE IS detachable from this Ultrasuede sleeveless coat dress modeled by Pat Burk. Simple designer sewing techniques make rolled collars and buttonholes easy to sew. Peg top skirt has easy-to-make seam pockets.

Savings shrink less with sewing

Ultrasuede still earning praise

by MARIANNE SCOTT

The home sewing industry is reported to be in the doldrums, but you'd never know it by the standing room only crowds at sewing demonstrations.

More than half of the women 18 to 64 years old now hold down full-time jobs, and while they have less time to sew and more cash to spend on ready-mades, those who really enjoy sewing still find time to stitch away at their machines.

They also have more money to spend on fabrics, and at $38 per yard they aren't sewing just to save money.

The $38 is the price of Ultrasuede, a man-made fabric that is prettier and more practical than the real thing. On-the-rack garments of Ultrasuede are usually designer-made and cost an arm and a leg. And although sewing your own will save a hundred or two hard-earned dollars, it's not a very good way of pinching pennies. There are plenty of less expensive fabrics, including other fake suedes, that will make up well and keep you just as warm and in style, too.

HOWEVER, women who can afford it and who like to work with the cream of the crop among luxury fabrics recently gathered at Hagenbring's Fabrics in Arlington Heights to learn first-hand all the know-how and how-to of sewing with Ultrasuede.

The class was taught by Krestine Corbin, a sewing teacher who also develops techniques for mills and manufacturers of ready-to-wear and who has written a booklet that gives detailed instructions, along with sketches on sewing with Ultrasuede.

The book details a combination of techniques used by high fashion designers plus the author's own ideas to simplify Ultrasuede garment construction for the home seamstress.

TO GIVE GARMENTS the rich appearance found in genuine suede garments, Ms. Corbin recommends using the same sewing methods on Ultrasuede that are used on real suede and other leather garments to eliminate bulk and ensure flat, smooth seams.

First and foremost she stresses the top stitched lapped seam, using the raw edge of the fabric as a finish rather than turning edges under to the inside of the garment. For this seam, one seam allowance is cut off and then this edge is lapped to the seamline of the section being joined. It is sewn close to the edge, the top-stitched one-fourth inch in.

Cuffs, too, are top-stitched together, raw edge to raw edge, after seam width is removed. Collars are top stitched together after determining the roll of the outside collar; the under collar then is trimmed off to match.

POCKETS ARE NOT turned under, simply top-stitched to the garment. Facings, too, (including hem facings) with seam allowances removed, are stitched to the garment with no turn unders. And since Ultrasuede does not ravel, buttonholes are a simple slit, framed by a rectangle of machine stitching.

A set-in sleeve is the only place on a leather garment where a regular turn under seam is used. However, for drop shoulders, Ms. Corbin suggests the lapped seam.

Directions for the now famous Halston shirtdress (McCall's) are detailed in Krestine Corbin's booklet, "Ultrasuede Fabric Sewing Guide." Details are also given for jackets, slacks and skirts. The booklet is available from Krestine Corbin, 1448 Tradewinds Ave., Sacramento, Calif., 95822. The price is $3.50 plus 26 cents postage for first class mailing.

ALONG WITH the sewing hints, the Hagenbring program featured $6,000 worth of Ultrasuede fashions made from McCall, Simplicity, Butterick and Vogue patterns.

Anyone who has shopped for Ultrasuede garments by Bill Blass, Mollie Parnis and Halston is aware that the simplest of jumpers retails for around $200, a skirt, $150, a jacket, $350.

While price often may be the reason for sewing one's own — just about anything can be sewn for about one-third of retail cost — there's a certain satisfaction and sense of accomplishment in sewing with a luxury fabric such as Ultrasuede that can be experienced in sewing with few other fabrics.

THERE'S ALSO another bonus. The scraps can be used for flowers, monograms, appliques and tiny neck purses. Ms. Corbin also included a tennis visor and racquet cover, belts, scarves and a jewelry case, all made from leftovers.

For many home sewers the easy care of Ultrasuede more than makes up for its not-so-easy-to-come-by price. Ultrasuede garments can be machine washed and dried. The fabric also is dry cleanable. It does not wrinkle, stretch or shrink, though it breathes, making it suitable for year-round wear. It does not pill, snag or crock. It does not water spot, stain or stiffen, and it is colorfast.

ALTHOUGH THIN, sharp pins will not harm the fabric, Ms. Corbin recommends using sewing tapes that eliminate pins and bastings, and also to define seam lines for easier cutting and sewing. Tapes also will keep layers from feeding unevenly under the pressure foot. Tapes cut with V's are used on curved surfaces.

An all-purpose woven fusible interfacing (pre-shrunk) will give the right support where needed. A size 11 regular needle or a leather needle, using 9 or 10 stitches per inch, is recommended.

Ultrasuede does have a nap, which should run down rather than up the garment, and when laying out a pattern follow directions for fabric with nap. Cut a single layer at a time.

TO MAKE SURE of the fit, Ms. Corbin recommends using a partial muslin pattern made from your paper pattern on which all alterations were made. However, ripped stitches will not show if lightly scratched with fingernail or brushed to restore nap.

And as Ms. Corbin says — Ultrasuede looks like suede, feels like suede, but is lighter weight. It even sounds like suede.

How's that for a super wonder fabric?

GATHERED FLOUNCE on Ultrasuede skirt shows the softness and versatility of this man-made fabric. Kristi Hagenbring layered a chamois-colored skirt over peasant-type dress for the Ultrasuede fashion show and instruction program.

The booklet is available from Krestine Corbin, 1448 Tradewinds Ave., Sacramento, Calif., 95822. The price is $3.50 plus 26 cents postage for first class mailing.

ALONG WITH the sewing hints, the Hagenbring program featured $6,000 worth of Ultrasuede fashions made from McCall, Simplicity, Butterick and Vogue patterns.

Anyone who has shopped for Ultrasuede garments by Bill Blass, Mollie Parnis and Halston is aware that the simplest of jumpers retails for around $200, a skirt, $150, a jacket, $350.

While price often may be the reason for sewing one's own — just about anything can be sewn for about one-third of retail cost — there's a certain satisfaction and sense of accomplishment in sewing with a luxury fabric such as Ultrasuede that can be experienced in sewing with few other fabrics.

THERE'S ALSO another bonus. The scraps can be used for flowers, monograms, appliques and tiny neck purses. Ms. Corbin also included a tennis visor and racquet cover, belts, scarves and a jewelry case, all made from leftovers.

For many home sewers the easy care of Ultrasuede more than makes up for its not-so-easy-to-come by price. Ultrasuede garments can be machine washed and dried. The fabric also is dry cleanable. It does not wrinkle, stretch or shrink, though it breathes, making it suitable for year-round wear. It does not pill, snag or crock. It does not water spot, stain or stiffen, and it is colorfast.

ALTHOUGH THIN, sharp pins will not harm the fabric, Ms. Corbin recommends using sewing tapes that eliminate pins and bastings, and also to define seam lines for easier cutting and sewing. Tapes also will keep layers from feeding unevenly under the pressure foot. Tapes cut with V's are used on curved surfaces.

An all-purpose woven fusible interfacing (pre-shrunk) will give the right support where needed. A size 11 regular needle or a leather needle, using 9 or 10 stitches per inch, is recommended.

Ultrasuede does have a nap, which should run down rather than up the garment, and when laying out a pattern follow directions for fabric with nap. Cut a single layer at a time.

TO MAKE SURE of the fit, Ms. Corbin recommends using a partial muslin pattern made from your paper pattern on which all alterations were made. However, ripped stitches will not show if lightly scratched with fingernail or brushed to restore nap.

And as Ms. Corbin says — Ultrasuede looks like suede, feels like suede, but is lighter weight. It even sounds like suede.

How's that for a super wonder fabric?

GATHERED FLOUNCE on Ultrasuede skirt shows the softness and versatility of this man-made fabric. Kristi Hagenbring layered a chamois-colored skirt over peasant-type dress for the Ultrasuede fashion show and instruction program.

The truth about ties

Variation of stripes creates well-balanced contrast

Is wearing a striped tie with a striped suit and striped shirt considered proper attire? This question comes up frequently and the answer is: Certainly, providing there is a variation in the stripings of the garments.

An excellent illustration of this is the diagonally striped tie designed by Oscar de la Renta for Wembly. It comes in a combination of bold and subdued cluster stripes. When this tie is combined with a narrow-width chalk stripe suit and pin-stripe shirt, the variation of the stripes creates the contrast needed for a well-balanced look.

Dear Mr. Juster: A friend's comment about a suit I recently purchased disturbs me. I thought the coat looks fine, but he said it is too short. The bottom edges come down to my thumb knuckles. but he claimed it should be tip-of-the-thumb length. Wouldn't that be too long? — A.H.L.

The point at which your coat now hits is more likely the right length. However, rather than depending on any rule of thumb, simply check whether the coat just covers the seat. That's the best guide for determining the proper length.

Dear Mr. Juster: I am getting married next month. The ceremony will take place in the afternoon and the girls' attire will be quite simple. My fiance, the best man and the ushers all have dark suits. Is that okay? — D.K.

Yes. An informal afternoon wedding calls for dark suits. In the event there has been some discussion about tuxedos, remember that they aren't proper daytime attire.

Dear Mr. Juster: When I visited England last summer, I ran across an unusual-looking crest to use on my navy blazer. A friend, though, said that wearing it smacks of boasting where I've been. He also said blazer emblems are too youthful for men over 50. What is your opinion? — J.J.

The doctor says

Smoking, drinking both bad for health

I just read your column about the lady who likes to smoke and I have some additional comments that I feel from deep inside my conscience.

After smoking since I was 12 years old I've grown increasingly dependent on my vice. I also resent the comments made by people that it's a nasty habit and offends people socially. But may I ask why everyone makes such a big deal of smoking and completely ignores those who drink themselves into a stupor every night because they want to relax?

I feel resentful toward people when they drink and become different from the persons they really are! They become obnoxious, mouthy and care less about anyone's feelings and there are those who suddenly become quiet and are about as much company as a brick wall.

They drive and cause many accidents that in many cases involve innocent people and inconvenience people by "passing out" and having to be carried out. Thanks, but if there's a choice, I'll take smoking. It's much less hazardous.

Funny, but I had an idea that you may have had someone close to you in mind when you were complaining about the effects of drinking on the personality.

There is no reason why you need to choose between two bad habits. I don't recommend smoking instead of drinking. My advice is don't do either.

Alcoholism is a severe problem. Did you know cirrhosis of the liver is the fourth common cause of death in American men between the ages of 35 and 54 and that 60 per cent of these liver deaths are caused by alcoholism? It's true. It is just another example of how persons affect their own health, as opposed to depending upon the doctor to provide life and health everlasting regardless of what they do.

No, I am not going to endorse your bad habit but I will say that drinking irresponsibly also is hazardous to your health. I would concur that a warning label should be on every beverage containing alcohol. It is a poison. It does destroy health, personality and families.

There are a lot of persons who both drink to excess and smoke. The combination is like playing Russian roulette with two chambers of the revolver instead of just one.

Incidentally, it is not true that alcohol relaxes a person. It may be a social lubricant for some persons but it is a depressant or an anesthetic. The person may not feel his anxiety or tension but he has not relieved it with alcohol. He has only numbed his senses. It is not a good tranquilizer. A much better and more healthy tranquilizer is exercise. A good walk, a swim or participation in some sport you enjoy is much more relaxing and much better for a person's health. A wife can help in this area by planning family activities at the end of the day provides healthy exercise.

Ammonia solution can remove a blood stain

Dear Roberta: How do you remove a blood stain from a wall-to-wall carpet? We washed it with cold water immediately, but it's still there.—Ann Zah

The faster you treat such a spot, the better your chances of removing it. Many stains will oxidize and chemically change some fibers more quickly than others. First, advises professional cleaner Robert Richcreek, dab on a solution of 1 tablespoon clear household ammonia to ½ cup water. Don't soak the spot and don't rub it; this is a strong alkali. Blot with a clean white, absorbent material until no more stain is removed. Then make a thick pad of folded white paper towels, and hold this down over the spot with a book overnight or until fibers are dry. If ammonia fails to do the job, try an enzyme powder with water solution, and follow package instructions for protein stains. Good luck!

Dear Roberta: I bet people often forget about the load of clothes drying in the basement dryer. So they fail to remove and fold the clothing as soon as it's dry, to stop things from wrinkling. I carry a portable timer with me to whatever floor of the the house I'm busy on. Otherwise, it's "out of sight, out of mind," and I end up with more ironing than I should have.—Mrs. Harold Miller

Bars of soap will last longer if they're allowed to sit and harden for a few months after they're bought. Their perfume will evanesce as they "age," of course. But you still can have your cakes and enjoy their scent, too, if you leave them for the duration in your lingerie drawers.

Dear Roberta: Can I use the new liquid cleanser to take away stains from my no-stick electric frying pan? — Mrs. A. J. Warren.

Please don't. You'd be taking too much of a chance. Because that cleanser, like others, contains at least one abrasive. One shouldn't use any material rougher than a nylon mesh or plastic scouring pad on "Teflon" or other no-stick cookware. Hardware stores carry commercial products made to remove stains from "Teflon"-coated surfaces.

Mrs. Mathews welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, The Daily Herald, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Couples busy with wedding plans

Connie J. Stecher's engagement to John K. Shriver, son of Mrs. Enid Shriver, Piedmont, Calif., and Mark Shriver, Wilmette, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Stecher of Des Plaines. A July '78 wedding is planned.

Since graduating from Maine West High School in '68, Connie attended Robert Morris College and is now manager of Baskin-Robbins in Evanston. Her fiance. who attended Colorado State University, is manager of Austin Liquors, Skokie.

Lessner-Brown

A November wedding is planned by Mary Lessner and Thomas C. Brown. Their engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Mary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Lessner Sr. of Mount Prospect. Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Brown of Schaumburg.

The bride-to-be graduated from Prospect High School and is employed by Anning Johnson Co., Melrose Park. Tom graduated from Schaumburg High School and works for Tag Realty in Schaumburg.

Hammond-Vizzone

The engagement of Rebecca Rae Hammond to Michael Anthony Vizzone is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Hammond of Inverness. Michael is the son of Mrs. Anthony Vizzone and the late Mr. Vizzone of Des Plaines.

Becky attended Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and graduated from Elmhurst College in 1976 with a degree in English. Michael graduated from the University of Illinois, Champaign and is enrolled in the U of I graduate program working on a double master's degree in architecture and business.

A November wedding has been set.

Schneider-Noerenberg

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Schneider of Augusta, Wis., announce the engagement of their daughter Cindy Ida to Thomas L. Noerenberg, son of the John W. Noerenbergs of Arlington Heights.

Cindy will graduate from the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire in May 1978 and Tom, an Arlington High School graduate, will earn a degree from the University of Wisconsin-Madison also next May.

No wedding date has been set.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Schubert

Therese Stefonek– Ron Schubert

St. Theresa's Church in Palatine was the setting for the Aug. 27 marriage of Therese Stefonek and Ronald Schubert.

Therese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Stefonek, Palatine, and Ronald, son of Mrs. Marjorie Schubert and the late Carl Schubert, Lake Villa, said their vows in a 2 p.m. double-ring ceremony that included 10 close relatives of the bridal couple.

Therese's sister Joan was maid of honor and her sister Lucy was junior bridesmaid. The groom's sister, Pat Beinlich, Wheeling, and Tina Solis, Prospect Heights, were bridesmaids and Ronald's niece, Jennifer Schubert, 5, Wheeling, served as flower girl.

HIS BROTHER Daniel acted as best man and another brother, David, of Northfield, as groomsman. His cousin, Mark Beinlich, Northbrook, also was groomsman and his nephew, Johnny Schubert, junior groomsman.

Ushers included the bride's brother, Peter, and another nephew of the groom, Rick Oertel, Wheeling.

Among the 200 guests were the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bockhaus, St. Petersburg, Fla., and the bridegroom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Beinlich, Northbrook.

While on their honeymoon in Wisconsin, the newlyweds visited the bride's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stefonek, Rhinelander, who were unable to attend the wedding.

A BUFFET reception and dancing was held at the American Legion hall, Northbrook.

The couple now lives in Wheeling. Therese, a graduate of Fremd High School, works for Quill Corp., Northbrook, and Ronald, who attended Glenbrook North, works for Dick's Crane Sales and Service, Prairie View.

Weddings

Sandra D. Senne–John T. Oertel Jr.

After a honeymoon in Jamaica, Sandra and John T. Oertel Jr. are making their home in Schaumburg. The former Sandra Senne, daughter of the junior Edward W. Sennes of Schaumburg, and her bridegroom were married Aug. 27 in St. James Church, Arlington Heights.

John is the son of the John T. Oertels of Arlington Heights and is a graduate of Arlington High and Harper College. He now works for Vebo Productions, Chicago.

Sandra graduated from Conant High and is employed in Schaumburg by Motorola.

Their double-ring rites were solemnized at 2 p.m., with a reception following for 185 guests at the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines.

IN THE wedding party were the bride's sister, Linda Forman, Palatine, as matron of honor and her brother, Edward Senne III, best man. Bridesmaids included the groom's sister, Joan Stortenbecker, Elk Grove; Pamela Senne, sister-in-law of the bride, Rolling Meadows; Joan Senne, the bride's aunt, Palatine; Pamela Getting, Itasca; Lynn Long, Fox Lake; and Carron Turpin, Hoffman Estates.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Oertel Jr.

The bride's niece, Shannon Forman, 3, was flower girl and nephew Christopher Forman, 4, ring bearer.

Jo Ann Herman–Edward Fitch Jr.

Wearing a gown of silk organza over crepe satin and an illusion veil held in place by a lace-trimmed headpiece, Jo Ann Julie Herman became the bride of Edward C. Fitch Jr. on Sept. 4.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Herman, Arlington Heights, carried a cascade of cymbidums, starflowers, carnations and white roses for the 1:30 p.m. cermeony in St. Peter Lutheran Church. Edward is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Fitch, also of Arlington Heights.

Jo Ann's attendants were gowned in apricot jersey knit and carried rust color football mums, except for the junior bridesmaid, the groom's cousin from Anchorage, Alaska, Gail Walker, who wore apricot print voile and carried small mums.

MAID OF HONOR was Linda Tegtmeier, Palatine, and senior bridesmaids were Jan Donhardt, Bloomington, Ill., Sharon Richardson, Palatine, and another cousin of the bridegroom, Cheryl Jannusch, Palatine.

EDWARD'S BROTHER, Rick, served as best man. The bride's brother, Roy, along with Len Stelk of Arlington Heights and Dave Current of Missouri, ushered.

The couple greeted 240 guests at a reception in the church following the ceremony and later their families and close friends attended a reception at O'Hare Officers' Club.

Following a honeymoon in Sayner, Wis., the couple is living in Fox Lake. Jo Ann, a graduate of Arlington High School, works for Schroeder, Welch Ltd., Arlington Heights, and Edward, also an Arlington grad, is employed at Northwest Community Hospital.

The doctor says

Smoking, drinking both bad for health

I just read your column about the lady who likes to smoke and I have some additional comments that I feel from deep inside my conscience.

After smoking since I was 12 years old I've grown increasingly dependent on my vice. I also resent the comments made by people that it's a nasty habit and offends people socially. But may I ask why everyone makes such a big deal of smoking and completely ignores those who drink themselves into a stupor every night because they want to relax?

I feel resentful toward people when they drink and become different from the persons they really are! They become obnoxious, mouthy and care less about anyone's feelings and there are those who suddenly become quiet and are about as much company as a brick wall.

They drive and cause many accidents that in many cases involve innocent people and inconvenience people by "passing out" and having to be carried out. Thanks, but if there's a choice, I'll take smoking. It's much less hazardous.

Funny, but I had an idea that you may have had someone close to you in mind when you were complaining about the effects of drinking on the personality.

There is no reason why you need to choose between two bad habits. I don't recommend smoking instead of drinking. My advice is don't do either.

Alcoholism is a severe problem. Did you know cirrhosis of the liver is the fourth common cause of death in American men between the ages of 35 and 54 and that 60 per cent of these liver deaths are caused by alcoholism? It's true. It is just another example of how persons affect their own health, as opposed to depending upon the doctor to provide life and health everlasting regardless of what they do.

No, I am not going to endorse your bad habit but I will say that drinking irresponsibly also is hazardous to your health. I would concur that a warning label should be on every beverage containing alcohol. It is a poison. It does destroy health, personality and families.

There are a lot of persons who both drink to excess and smoke. The combination is like playing Russian roulette with two chambers of the revolver instead of just one.

Incidentally, it is not true that alcohol relaxes a person. It may be a social lubricant for some persons but it is a depressant or an anesthetic. The person may not feel his anxiety or tension but he has not relieved it with alcohol. He has only numbed his senses. It is not a good tranquilizer. A much better and more healthy tranquilizer is exercise. A good walk, a swim or participation in some sport you enjoy is much more relaxing and much better for a person's health. A wife can help in this area by planning family activities at the end of the day provides healthy exercise.

Ammonia solution can remove a blood stain

Dear Roberta: How do you remove a blood stain from a wall-to-wall carpet? We washed it with cold water immediately, but it's still there.—Ann Zah

The faster you treat such a spot, the better your chances of removing it. Many stains will oxidize and chemically change some fibers more quickly than others. First, advises professional cleaner Robert Richcreek, dab on a solution of 1 tablespoon clear household ammonia to ½ cup water. Don't soak the spot and don't rub it; this is a strong alkali. Blot with a clean white, absorbent material until no more stain is removed. Then make a thick pad of folded white paper towels, and hold this down over the spot with a book overnight or until fibers are dry. If ammonia fails to do the job, try an enzyme powder with water solution, and follow package instructions for protein stains. Good luck!

Dear Roberta: I bet people often forget about the load of clothes drying in the basement dryer. So they fail to remove and fold the clothing as soon as it's dry, to stop things from wrinkling. I carry a portable timer with me to whatever floor of the the house I'm busy on. Otherwise, it's "out of sight, out of mind," and I end up with more ironing than I should have.—Mrs. Harold Miller

Bars of soap will last longer if they're allowed to sit and harden for a few months after they're bought. Their perfume will evaresce as they "age," of course. But you still can have your cakes and enjoy their scent, too, if you leave them for the duration in your lingerie drawers.

Dear Roberta: Can I use the new liquid cleanser to take away stains from my no-stick electric frying pan? — Mrs. A. J. Warren.

Please don't. You'd be taking too much of a chance. Because that cleanser, like others, contains at least one abrasive. One shouldn't use any material rougher than a nylon mesh or plastic scouring pad on "Teflon" or other no-stick cookware. Hardware stores carry commercial products made to remove stains from "Teflon"-coated surfaces.

Mrs. Mathews welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, The Daily Herald, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Connie J. Stecher's engagement to John K. Shriver, son of Mrs. Enid Shriver, Piedmont, Calif., and Mark Shriver, Wilmette, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Stecher of Des Plaines. A July '78 wedding is planned.

Since graduating from Maine West High School in '68, Connie attended Robert Morris College and is now manager of Baskin-Robbins in Evanston. Her fiance, who attended Colorado State University, is manager of Austin Liquors, Skokie.

Lessner-Brown

A November wedding is planned by Mary Lessner and Thomas C. Brown. Their engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Mary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Lessner Sr. of Mount Prospect. Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Brown of Schaumburg.

The bride-to-be graduated from Prospect High School and is employed by Anning Johnson Co., Melrose Park. Tom graduated from Schaumburg High School and works for Tag Realty in Schaumburg.

Hammond-Vizzone

The engagement of Rebecca Rae Hammond to Michael Anthony Vizzone is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Hammond of Inverness. Michael is the son of Mrs. Anthony Vizzone and the late Mr. Vizzone of Des Plaines.

Becky attended Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and graduated from Elmhurst College in 1976 with a degree in English. Michael graduated from the University of Illinois, Champaign and is enrolled in the U of I graduate program working on a double master's degree in architecture and business.

A November wedding has been set.

Schneider-Noerenberg

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Schneider of Augusta, Wis., announce the engagement of their daughter Cindy Ida to Thomas L. Noerenberg, son of the John W. Noerenbergs of Arlington Heights.

Cindy will graduate from the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire in May 1978 and Tom, an Arlington High School graduate, will earn a degree from the University of Wisconsin-Madison also next May.

No wedding date has been set.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Schubert

Therese Stefonek– Ron Schubert

St. Theresa's Church in Palatine was the setting for the Aug. 27 marriage of Therese Stefonek and Ronald Schubert.

Therese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Stefonek, Palatine, and Ronald, son of Mrs. Marjorie Schubert and the late Carl Schubert, Lake Villa, said their vows in a 2 p.m. double-ring ceremony that included 10 close relatives of the bridal couple.

Therese's sister Joan was maid of honor and her sister Lucy was junior bridesmaid. The groom's sister, Pat Beinlich, Wheeling, and Tina Solis, Prospect Heights, were bridesmaids and Ronald's niece, Jennifer Schubert, 5, Wheeling, served as flower girl.

HIS BROTHER Daniel acted as best man and another brother, David, of Northfield, as groomsman. His cousin, Mark Beinlich, Northbrook, also was groomsman and his nephew, Johnny Schubert, junior groomsman.

Ushers included the bride's brother, Peter, and another nephew of the groom, Rick Oertel, Wheeling.

Among the 200 guests were the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bockhaus, St. Petersburg, Fla., and the bridegroom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Beinlich, Northbrook.

While on their honeymoon in Wisconsin, the newlyweds visited the bride's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stefonek, Rhinelander, who were unable to attend the wedding.

A BUFFET reception and dancing was held at the American Legion hall, Northbrook.

The couple now lives in Wheeling. Therese, a graduate of Fremd High School, works for Quill Corp., Northbrook, and Ronald, who attended Glenbrook North, works for Dick's Crane Sales and Service, Prairie View.

Weddings

Sandra D. Senne–John T. Oertel Jr.

After a honeymoon in Jamaica, Sandra and John T. Oertel Jr. are making their home in Schaumburg. The former Sandra Senne, daughter of the junior Edward W. Sennes of Schaumburg, and her bridegroom were married Aug. 27 in St. James Church, Arlington Heights.

John is the son of the John T. Oertels of Arlington Heights and is a graduate of Arlington High and Harper College. He now works for Vebo Productions, Chicago.

Sandra graduated from Conant High and is employed in Schaumburg by Motorola.

Their double-ring rites were solemnized at 2 p.m., with a reception following for 185 guests at the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Oertel Jr.

Jo Ann Herman–Edward Fitch Jr.

Wearing a gown of silk organza over crepe satin and an illusion veil held in place by a lace-trimmed headpiece, Jo Ann Julie Herman became the bride of Edward C. Fitch Jr. on Sept. 4.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Herman, Arlington Heights, carried a cascade of cymbidums, starflowers, carnations and white roses for the 1:30 p.m. cermeony in St. Peter Lutheran Church. Edward is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Fitch, also of Arlington Heights.

News battle waged on gimmicky front

Chicago television stations are on the verge of another bloody news battle with the most effective weapons they have — advertising, anchors and gimmicks.

At first glance, it would seem that the stations are so preoccupied with throwing beautiful people, amusing weathermen, "with-it" sets and graphics, live reports and snappy slogans at us that they're overlooked the most important part of the new show — the news content.

But if the stations didn't care about news content, then Channel 2 wouldn't have sent Bill Kurtis to Panama for a series of special reports on the canal treaty, Channel 7 wouldn't have sent John Coleman out to look for unidentified flying objects and Channel 5 wouldn't have had Russ Ewing on location to help relieve a hostage situation last spring.

CERTAINLY, THERE are some extraordinary things going on in television news, but when it comes to change, the stations are limited in the area of content because there is not much more you can do in 30 minutes, not counting the commercials, but offer a news headline service.

All of the city's news operations are out on the streets everyday battling for essentially the same stories and they are all offering basically the same news every night.

So, the stations are making changes in the spirit of fierce competitiveness in the only areas they can to attract more viewers, which will mean better ratings and increased profits for healthy on-air advertising.

THE RESURGENCE of interest in the more-up-to-date story, the more personable newscaster, the more contemporary news set and the "people" news happens generally twice a year — in May and November when A. C. Nielsen records the nightly news ratings that local advertisers use as a guide in buying commercial air time.

The May 1977 "sweep" period found WBBM, Channel 2, just a ratings point behind long-time leader WLS, Channel 7, in the 10 p.m. news ratings with WMAQ, Channel 5, trailing as an improved third and WGN as fourth.

Since then, the news organizations have been taking a good look at themselves and have made a lot of changes, most of which are gruadually being unveiled in time for November.

THE NEWS CHANGES seem to be coming at a good time, especially for CBS and NBC whose new season programming is serving as a poor lead-in to local newscasts and is just pulling down the news ratings at Channels 2 and 5.

Encompassing the changes are catchy slogans and eye and ear-catching promotions that identify Channel 2 as "The 10 o'clock news; We're everywhere to bring you tomorrow's news tonight;" Channel 7 as "If it's important to Chicago, it's on Eyewitness News" and Channel 5 as the news operation that goes "to the ends of the earth and beyond."

Along with that comes what looks to be an almost obsessive concern for appearances on the news. Nearly everyone has a redesigned news set that's more breezy, mobile and contemporary with big screens for better use of graphics and inconspicuous anchor desks.

THE REVISED sets merely are following a trend toward non news sets at the network level, probably best illustrated by the fact that John Chancellor and David Brinkley no longer sit at their traditional anchordesks on the "NBC Nightly News" and instead host the show sitting free-style in swivel chars.

Along with the sets come the high-paid personalities that give the show its character. WBBM hired Mort Crim this past summer and paired him at 6 p.m. with Bill Kurtis, making for an ultra-manicured newscast. The problem is that the two are so much alike, there has reportedly been some problem working out the new team.

And other new faces keep right on coming. Channel 2 has hired Roger Fields, a science whiz to serve as the station's health and science reporter beginning next month.

WHILE WMAQ LOST Maury Povich in a free-for-all this summer, it has elevated weekend anchor Don Craig, a personable, no-frills newsman, who now co-anchors Channel 5's 4:30 and 10 p.m. newcasts with Ron Hunter, the caustic veteran of the new duo.

Channel 5 also is busy with new faces like consumer reporter Roberta Baskin and reporter Scott Osborne, who will be joined by a new weekend anchor and sports caster (still unannounced) within weeks.

Although Channel 7 feels reliant on its present lineup to carry it victoriously through another ratings battle, it has hired Tim Weigel from Channel 5 to share the sportscasting with Bill Frink, plans to let weekend weatherman Johnny Mountain go at the year's end and has hired Walt Lyons, a professional meteorologist, to join John Coleman on the full-time weather.

The Channel 7 Eyewitness news team even will be getting new attire for this fall's ratings race.

AS THE APPEARANCES change, the special week-long reports, investigations and features will continue. WLS will maintain its 'people' news approach, WBBM will stick with its serious news attitude and WMAQ will continue to swear by its beat-system styled coverage.

As the news shops gear up for a tough race, one thing is certain. There is no hope for the straight news without frill. Research experts say no one would watch it that way, but it would be interesting to find out.

TV NOTES:

NBC wasn't planning on another play off game Sunday night that preempted its scheduled special "A Love Affair: The Eleanor and Lou Gehrig Story." A similar situation preempted the John Wayne movie, "Rio Lobo," Saturday night. The network is figuring out how to reschedule both shows and will announce new dates and times shortly.

TV HIGHLIGHTS:

- "Dick Clark's Good Old Days" at 7 p.m. on Channel 5 includes Annette Funicello, Frankie Avalon and even Lillian Carter remembering the best of 1957-63.
- The World Series opens at 7 p.m. on Channel 7.
- "Mother Earth, Father Sky" is a visual pleasure at 9 p.m. on Channel 11 that examines American Indian artists at work in New Mexico, Arizona and Minnesota in conjunction with the "Native American Art" display currently at Chicago's Art Institute.

Betty White's ex on tube confirmed bachelor off

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — John Hillerman, who plays the caustic TV director in the new "Betty White Show," is something of a cynic in private life, especially when it comes to the sacred institution of marriage.

He plays Miss White's former husband in the CBS series, but in reality Hillerman has never been married and plans to remain a single man the rest of his days.

"I'm a dyed-in-the-wool bachelor," says Hillerman. "When I was a young struggling actor, I couldn't afford a wife. And now I'm set in my ways at the age of 44 no woman would live with me."

Hillerman, a native of Denison, Tex., appears to be an hermitically sealed unit of one who doesn't even Tex., appears to be an hermetically says he isn't anti-social.

HE HAS BEEN dating the same woman for 15 years. She is an actress and is as adverse to wedding bells as Hillerman. They don't live together but often dine out and attend movies and plays together.

Hillerman bought a small tract house in the San Fernando Valley and then plunged more money into improving the place than he paid for it. He added a swimming pool and a Jacuzi just outside his bedroom door. He converted a second bedroom into an office, which includes a 4 by 6-foot television set.

The walls of his office are crowded with photographs of people he has worked with in movies and television shows. There's also a video tape recorder and a tape library of all the TV shows he's ever done.

"I wanted to have a complete record of all my work," he says. "When I'm old and tired and falling apart, it might be interesting to look at them again."

HILLERMAN IS PROUDEST of his movie work with director Peter Bogdanovich. The two became friends when they were spear carriers in a 1958 production of "Othello" in New York's Central Park.

When Bogdanovich made it big as a movie director, he hired Hillerman for good roles in "The Last Picture Show," "What's Up Doc?" "Paper Moon" and "At Long Last Love."

Once bachelor Hillerman moved into his house he did his own decorating, using modern furniture and earth tone draperies and carpets. He proudly points out there isn't a sign of flower patterned wall paper or fabric in his home.

His living room is dominated by a 33-foot modular sofa which seats an amazing number of visitors at parties.

HILLERMAN THINKS he has the perfect work schedule. Accustomed to 18-hour days in movies and one-camera filmed video shows, he finds himself working only eight hours daily in "The Betty White Show."

He shows up at CBS Studio Center at 10 a.m. and generally is home by 6 in the evening.

A conscientious dieter, he skips breakfast, eats a light lunch in his studio dressing room and prepares an uncomplicated dinner of broiled steak and salad at home.

There is a maid who cleans the house, a pool man to care for the swimming pool and a gardener to keep the grounds in order. Hillerman even has a part-time chauffeur who drives him around at night.

Every Friday after the show is taped for a live audience, Hillerman opens up the bar in his dressing room for friends who have dropped by to see him at work.

If Hillerman doesn't bulge with muscles, it's because "I'm very sedentary except for swimming."

HIS IDEA OF relaxation is turning on good music and settling down with a book. He reads three or four books — fiction, biography, history -- a week.

He tries to visit his parents, whom he helps support financially, in Houston, Tex., at least twice a year. But Hillerman does not particularly enjoy traveling.

Always dressed impeccably on screen, he slops around the house in old loose clothes.

"I'm very happy with my way of life," Hillerman says, "I do precisely what I want, when I want. It's an easygoing life style with a minimum of hassles."

THOUGH HE PLAYS the former husband of Betty White in the new CBS "Betty White Show," John Hillerman knows nothing of married life. He's a confirmed bachelor, likes it and intends to remain one.

News battle waged on gimmicky front

Chicago television stations are on the verge of another bloody news battle with the most effective weapons they have — advertising, anchors and gimmicks.

At first glance, it would seem that the stations are so preoccupied with throwing beautiful people, amusing weathermen, "with-it" sets and graphics, live reports and snappy slogans at us that they're overlooked the most important part of the new show — the news content.

But if the stations didn't care about news content, then Channel 2 wouldn't have sent Bill Kurtis to Panama for a series of special reports on the canal treaty, Channel 7 wouldn't have sent John Coleman out to look for unidentified flying objects and Channel 5 wouldn't have had Russ Ewing on location to help relieve a hostage situation last spring.

CERTAINLY, THERE are some extraordinary things going on in television news, but when it comes to change, the stations are limited in the area of content because there is not much more you can do in 30 minutes, not counting the commercials, but offer a news headline service.

All of the city's news operations are out on the streets everyday battling for essentially the same stories and they are all offering basically the same news every night.

So, the stations are making changes in the spirit of fierce competitiveness in the only areas they can to attract more viewers, which will mean better ratings and increased profits for healthy on-air advertising.

THE RESURGENCE of interest in the more-up-to-date story, the more personable newscaster, the more contemporary news set and the "people" news happens generally twice a year — in May and November when A. C. Nielsen records the nightly news ratings that local advertisers use as a guide in buying commercial air time.

The May 1977 "sweep" period found WBBM, Channel 2, just a ratings point behind long-time leader WLS, Channel 7, in the 10 p.m. news ratings with WMAQ, Channel 5, trailing as an improved third and WGN as fourth.

Since then, the news organizations have been taking a good look at themselves and have made a lot of changes, most of which are gruadually being unveiled in time for November.

THE NEWS CHANGES seem to be coming at a good time, especially for CBS and NBC whose new season programming is serving as a poor lead-in to local newscasts and is just pulling down the news ratings at Channels 2 and 5.

Encompassing the changes are catchy slogans and eye and ear-catching promotions that identify Channel 2 as "The 10 o'clock news; We're everywhere to bring you tomorrow's news tonight;" Channel 7 as "If it's important to Chicago, it's on Eyewitness News" and Channel 5 as the news operation that goes "to the ends of the earth and beyond."

Along with that comes what looks to be an almost obsessive concern for appearances on the news. Nearly everyone has a redesigned news set that's more breezy, mobile and contemporary with big screens for better use of graphics and inconspicuous anchor desks.

THE REVISED sets merely are following a trend toward non news sets at the network level, probably best illustrated by the fact that John Chancellor and David Brinkley no longer sit at their traditional anchordesks on the "NBC Nightly News" and instead host the show sitting free-style in swivel chars.

Along with the sets come the high-paid personalities that give the show its character. WBBM hired Mort Crim this past summer and paired him at 6 p.m. with Bill Kurtis, making for an ultra-manicured newscast. The problem is that the two are so much alike, there has reportedly been some problem working out the new team.

And other new faces keep right on coming. Channel 2 has hired Roger Fields, a science whiz to serve as the station's health and science reporter beginning next month.

WHILE WMAQ LOST Maury Povich in a free-for-all this summer, it has elevated weekend anchor Don Craig, a personable, no-frills newsman, who now co-anchors Channel 5's 4:30 and 10 p.m. newcasts with Ron Hunter, the caustic veteran of the new duo.

Channel 5 also is busy with new faces like consumer reporter Roberta Baskin and reporter Scott Osborne, who will be joined by a new weekend anchor and sports caster (still unannounced) within weeks.

Although Channel 7 feels reliant on its present lineup to carry it victoriously through another ratings battle, it has hired Tim Weigel from Channel 5 to share the sportscasting with Bill Frink, plans to let weekend weatherman Johnny Mountain go at the year's end and has hired Walt Lyons, a professional meteorologist, to join John Coleman on the full-time weather.

The Channel 7 Eyewitness news team even will be getting new attire for this fall's ratings race.

AS THE APPEARANCES change, the special week-long reports, investigations and features will continue. WLS will maintain its 'people' news approach, WBBM will stick with its serious news attitude and WMAQ will continue to swear by its beat-system styled coverage.

As the news shops gear up for a tough race, one thing is certain. There is no hope for the straight news without frill. Research experts say no one would watch it that way, but it would be interesting to find out.

TV NOTES:

NBC wasn't planning on another play off game Sunday night that preempted its scheduled special "A Love Affair: The Eleanor and Lou Gehrig Story." A similar situation preempted the John Wayne movie, "Rio Lobo," Saturday night. The network is figuring out how to reschedule both shows and will announce new dates and times shortly.

TV HIGHLIGHTS:

- "Dick Clark's Good Old Days" at 7 p.m. on Channel 5 includes Annette Funicello, Frankie Avalon and even Lillian Carter remembering the best of 1957-63.
- The World Series opens at 7 p.m. on Channel 7.
- "Mother Earth, Father Sky" is a visual pleasure at 9 p.m. on Channel 11 that examines American Indian artists at work in New Mexico, Arizona and Minnesota in conjunction with the "Native American Art" display currently at Chicago's Art Institute.

Betty White's ex on tube confirmed bachelor off

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — John Hillerman, who plays the caustic TV director in the new "Betty White Show," is something of a cynic in private life, especially when it comes to the sacred institution of marriage.

He plays Miss White's former husband in the CBS series, but in reality Hillerman has never been married and plans to remain a single man the rest of his days.

"I'm a dyed-in-the-wool bachelor," says Hillerman. "When I was a young struggling actor, I couldn't afford a wife. And now I'm set in my ways at the age of 44 no woman would live with me."

Hillerman, a native of Denison, Tex., appears to be an hermitically sealed unit of one who doesn't even Tex., appears to be an hermetically says he isn't anti-social.

HE HAS BEEN dating the same woman for 15 years. She is an actress and is as adverse to wedding bells as Hillerman. They don't live together but often dine out and attend movies and plays together.

Hillerman bought a small tract house in the San Fernando Valley and then plunged more money into improving the place than he paid for it. He added a swimming pool and a Jacuzi just outside his bedroom door. He converted a second bedroom into an office, which includes a 4 by 6-foot television set.

The walls of his office are crowded with photographs of people he has worked with in movies and television shows. There's also a video tape recorder and a tape library of all the TV shows he's ever done.

"I wanted to have a complete record of all my work," he says. "When I'm old and tired and falling apart, it might be interesting to look at them again."

HILLERMAN IS PROUDEST of his movie work with director Peter Bogdanovich. The two became friends when they were spear carriers in a 1958 production of "Othello" in New York's Central Park.

When Bogdanovich made it big as a movie director, he hired Hillerman for good roles in "The Last Picture Show," "What's Up Doc?" "Paper Moon" and "At Long Last Love."

THOUGH HE PLAYS the former husband of Betty White in the new CBS "Betty White Show," John Hillerman knows nothing of married life. He's a confirmed bachelor, likes it and intends to remain one.

Once bachelor Hillerman moved into his house he did his own decorating, using modern furniture and earth tone draperies and carpets. He proudly points out there isn't a sign of flower patterned wall paper or fabric in his home.

His living room is dominated by a 33-foot modular sofa which seats an amazing number of visitors at parties.

HILLERMAN THINKS he has the perfect work schedule. Accustomed to 18-hour days in movies and one-camera filmed video shows, he finds himself working only eight hours daily in "The Betty White Show."

He shows up at CBS Studio Center at 10 a.m. and generally is home by 6 in the evening.

A conscientious dieter, he skips breakfast, eats a light lunch in his studio dressing room and prepares an uncomplicated dinner of broiled steak and salad at home.

There is a maid who cleans the house, a pool man to care for the swimming pool and a gardener to keep the grounds in order. Hillerman even has a part-time chauffeur who drives him around at night.

Every Friday after the show is taped for a live audience, Hillerman opens up the bar in his dressing room for friends who have dropped by to see him at work.

If Hillerman doesn't bulge with muscles, it's because "I'm very sedentary except for swimming."

HIS IDEA OF relaxation is turning on good music and settling down with a book. He reads three or four books — fiction, biography, history -- a week.

He tries to visit his parents, whom he helps support financially, in Houston, Tex., at least twice a year. But Hillerman does not particularly enjoy traveling.

Always dressed impeccably on screen, he slops around the house in old loose clothes.

"I'm very happy with my way of life," Hillerman says, "I do precisely what I want, when I want. It's an easygoing life style with a minimum of hassles."

Report air bag test quelled

DETROIT (UPI) — The National Highway Traffic Safety administration suppressed test results highly unfavorable to air bags and threatened reprisals against one of its scientists who tried to make them public, the Detroit News reported Monday.

The agency described as "sheer poppycock" charges it suppressed tests or threatened an engineer who tried to make the results public.

Agency officials acknowledged the test results, made public Sept. 2, showed betts gave marginally better protection than air bags under the conditions used.

THEY SAID, however, that seat belts used in the tests were cinched much tighter than people normally wear them and the air bags tested were an old model which since has been improved.

The News, in a dispatch from its Washington bureau, quoted a scientists, Thomas H. Glenn, as saying he was "pressured by the NHTSA to testify before Congress that the test results were inconclusive, but I resisted.

"If this goes any further," Glenn said, they "are going to kill me."

The News said congressional investigators found NHTSA officials withdrew the test results Aug. 26 shortly after Glenn, who suffers from a heart condition, had placed them on the public docket — a means of making them available to interested parties.

THE TEST RESULTS were returned to the docket a week later, but only after Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., and several other congressmen demanded they be released to the public, the newspaper said. Dingell is a vigorous foe of mandatory air bags.

The investigators also told the News an NHTSA staff analysis evaluating the test results was withheld from Congress until Sept. 26. By then, both the House and Senate had completed hearings on resolutions to overturn an order by Transportation Sec. Brock Adams requiring installation of air bags on some news cars in the 1982-model year.

"That is absolutely untrue," said Carl Nash, special assistant to NHTSA chief Joan Claybrook.

"To suggest suppression (of the test results) is sheer poppycock," Ms. Claybrook said in a telephone interview from Madison, Wis.

Glenn could not be reached for comment.

Adams has ordered airbags, which inflate automatically in accidents, installed in some cars by 1982.

The order takes effect Friday unless both the House and Senate disapprove it.

THE TESTS that prompted the dispute were conducted for NHTSA by Calspan, a private research firm in Buffalo, N.Y. The tests involved crashes of cars traveing 30 miles per hour.

Ms. Claybrook, Nash and NHTSA attorney Frank Berndt disputed reports the agency withdrew the test results from its public docket after Glenn placed them there.

They said Glenn took the test report to the docket room, bypassing normal procedures, but it was intercepted by the docket clerk and sent for review before being made public. The review took a week, much less than normal, then the results were placed in the docket, they said.

Berndt denied reports he had threatened Glenn with disciplinary action, and Ms. Claybrook denied she had charged Glenn with violating agency rules.

The News quoted congressional investigators as saying Glenn was subjected to "a systematic pattern of harassment" after he placed the test results in the public docket.

Zenith selling hearing aid firm

Zenith Radio Corp. has agreed to sell its hearing instrument business to a new firm called Zenetron, Inc., organized by William F. Carr of Corpus Christi, Tex., and James H. Hohnson, who has been manager of the division. The division has sales of around $15 million a year. Terms were not disclosed.

Oil use projections doubted

Oil industry projections on available energy show a "less critical" situation than that outlined by President Carter, an Exxon Corp. official said Monday. Robert Larson, Exxon senior advisor for corporate planning, told a conference on energy conservation the firm is projecting higher oil production and lower consumption over the next decade than predicted by the Carter administration.

But in Vienna, a leading U.S. oil expert Monday foresaw the probability of "world catastrophe" unless oil exploration is intensified over the next 20 years. Petroleum Engineer Michael T. Halbouty, of Houston, Tex., told a seminar of the organization of petroleum exporting countries: "By the mid to late 1980s, potential demand for oil is expected to be greater than supplies available and oil will be supply limited — which is an economist's term for energy crisis," Halbouty said. "All of us must do our utmost to accelerate the discovery of new oil and gas. If we fail, a world catastrophe is not an improbable outcome. All of us will be losers."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration announced Monday it plans to require inclusion of a preservative in mascara and other eye makeup to prevent infections which can produce blindness. The agency said the action was prompted by reports of cases in which the cornea was scratched by an applicator or fingernail, introducing bacteria which caused damage to the eye.

6% inflation to continue: officials

Inflation will continue at over 6 per cent and unemployment will average 6.7 per cent in 1978, the newly elected president of the National Assn. of Business Economists predicted Monday. However, Frances H. Schott added, economists surveyed for an annual forecast believe an economic expansion that began in 1975 will continue for another 15 months.

Fuel price deregulation urged

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., saying a key portion of President Carter's energy tax plan is probably doomed, called Monday for deregulation of fuel prices to spur production. Tower, in remarks to the American Public Transit Assn., said Carter's crude oil equalization tax has been rejected by the senate finance committee and has no prospect of being revived. "It appears that such a tax will not get through the senate and the matter will ultimately be resolved in a house-senate conference," said Tower. "I have the feeling that there's not going to be any crude oil equalization tax this year."

Plan to cut hospital costs rapped

The Carter administration's proposal to cut hospital operating costs by fiat simply will not work and will inevitably result in impairing hospital services if Congress enacts it, a hospital industry spokesman said Monday. Alex McMahon, President of the American Hospital Assn., cited a study prepared for the association indicating that only 32 per cent of the public believes hospital services should be cut for the sake of economy. The poll was taken by the Roper organization among hospital officials and the public.

'Lance didn't influence deposits'

The president of the National Bank of Georgia, once headed by former budget director Bert Lance, said Monday Lance had nothing to do with the deposit of more than $1 million in federal bankruptcy deposits last spring. Robert Guyton issued a statement following published reports Sunday that the bank had $1,366,000 in federal funds in savings accounts as of March 31. Newsday, a Long Island, N.Y., newspaper, said much of the money was deposited after Lance became budget director in January. The newspaper said all other national banks in Georgia had a total of $39,000 in federal funds in similar accounts at the time. However, Guyton said the money was deposited by trustees in bankruptcy casse, adding, "Bert Lance had nothing to do with it."

Machinists strike Lockheed

More than 15,000 machinists went on strike Monday at three Lockheed Corp. plants which manufacture the L1011 Tristar jetliner, two types of Navy patrol planes and the Navy's trident missile. Machinists at another plant in Georgia which builds the giant C5A jet transport and the prop-driven Lockheed Hercules C130 cargo planes voted to stay on the job while negotiators attempt to reach a new agreement. Three hundred Lockheed employes at the Kennedy Space Center in Cape Canaveral, Fla., also joined the strike. The employes are involved in the Navy-supported Trident missile program.

Corporate profits below par

Business spending too much?

Louis Rukeyser

NEW YORK — Everybody knows, of course, that American businessmen are making record profits, paying ridiculously low taxes and unpatriotically failing to do their part by spending and investing to create new jobs.

You betcha. The only trouble with those immensely popular ideas, so easily exploited by thoughtless journalists and irresponsible politicians, is that every one of them is absolutely false.

Real corporate profits are disastrously below where they ought to be: way below what they were in economically healthier times. True corporate taxes are painfully high: about 10 per cent higher than they were a decade ago. And while some hesitancy about long-term investment is natural in view of the blatant disarray of economic policymaking in Washington, new studies indicate that businessmen in general may actually have been spending too much on new plant and equipment this year.

SPENDING TOO much? How can that be? When you probe beneath the partisanship, and adjust the headline figures for the impact of inflation each year, a much less healthy business picture emerges.

According to studies just reported by the economist Pierre Rinfret, new capital expenditures by private industry in the first half of this year actually exceeded the total cash flow of these businesses, adjusted for inflation, by a whopping $16.7 billion. In other words, if they had done their bookkeeping right, they would have seen that they were spending more than they had.

"There is a great deal of speculation about why capital expenditures are not currently rising more rapidly than they have been rising," Rinfret says. "One analyst after another puzzled over the failure of capital expenditures to rise as rapidly as they have in previous recoveries.

"(Yet) new capital expenditures by private industry exceed true cash flow. Public and popular opinion says the opposite. But the fact is that capital expenditures are not rising as rapidly as in previous business recoveries because (1) taxes have not been lowered but, in fact, increased, and (2) true cash flow does not even pay for current levels of capital expenditure."

THOSE WHO instintively rebel at any suggestion that business is not thriving unconscionably are referred to the action of the stock market in recent years. Plainly, it distrusts the corporate financial reports and regards the true state of business profits as unsatisfactory in this inflationary era. And the market's skepticism is, in many cases, soundly based: many companies' reported earnings are boosted misleadingly by "profits" on sales of old inventories, bought at lower prices, and by inadequate deprecation for future capital purchases.

Moreover, Rinfret is indisputably right about what's been happening to the real corporate tax bill. When you boil away the inflation, taxes, Federal, state and local, as a percentage of true business profits have risen from 41 per cent in 1967 to 51 per cent this year. Federal tax cuts have been more than offset by state and local increases. Despite all the easy talk about "tax incentives" for business expansion, tax disincentives have been the reality.

Nor does Rinfret expect anything better from the Carter tax program, which he thinks on balance will add to inflation — stimulating personal consumption but not business investment. "Apparently the Administration is bowing totally and completely to historical precedent and political pressure," he says. "All of its marvelous and grand expositions about the need to stimulate capital formation have been just that: marvelous and grand words."

The authentic impact of such a misguided tax approach to business (throwing it occasional sops, but never adequate reductions) is not generally appreciated because of the false assumption that somebody else pays those levies. In reality, we all pay through higher prices today and through fewer jobs and lower wages tomorrow. Washington's rhetoric needs deflating, too.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks, hampered by investor fears of rising interest rates, retreated Monday in the slowest trading in 21 months as many traders stayed home for the Columbus Day holiday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been down nearly three points at one time, shed 0.09 point to 840.26. The closely watched average fell 6.76 points over-all last week, including 1.73 Friday.

The big story of the day was the lack of volume. The New York stock exchange volume of 10,580,000 shares, down sharply from the 16,250,000 traded Friday, was the slowest since 10,300,820 changed hands on Jan. 2, 1976. The previous slowest session of 1977 was on May 9, when 15,229,380 shares were traded.

The Columbus Day holiday was the major reason for the slow turnover. Many of the nation's banks and federal government offices were closed, but the stock and bond markets were open.

The Fed Friday gave indications it had tightened credit further to stem a sharp growth over-all in the money supply in the past six months.

Also hindering the market was speculation that banks would raise their prime lending rate to 7.75 per cent, following last week's quarter-point jump to 7.5 per cent. This could put a crimp in business expansion programs.

The New York Stock Exchange common stock index fell 0.09 to 52.50 and the average price of a share dropped six cents.

Declines topped advances, 751 to 535, among the 1,808 issues crossing the tape. The 522 unchanged issues reflected considerable investor uncertainty about the course of the market.

Report air bag test quelled

DETROIT (UPI) — The National Highway Traffic Safety administration suppressed test results highly unfavorable to air bags and threatened reprisals against one of its scientists who tried to make them public, the Detroit News reported Monday.

The agency described as "sheer poppycock" charges it suppressed tests or threatened an engineer who tried to make the results public.

Agency officials acknowledged the test results, made public Sept. 2, showed betts gave marginally better protection than air bags under the conditions used.

THEY SAID, however, that seat belts used in the tests were cinched much tighter than people normally wear them and the air bags tested were an old model which since has been improved.

The News, in a dispatch from its Washington bureau, quoted a scientists, Thomas H. Glenn, as saying he was "pressured by the NHTSA to testify before Congress that the test results were inconclusive, but I resisted.

"If this goes any further," Glenn said, they "are going to kill me."

The News said congressional investigators found NHTSA officials withdrew the test results Aug. 26 shortly after Glenn, who suffers from a heart condition, had placed them on the public docket — a means of making them available to interested parties.

THE TEST RESULTS were returned to the docket a week later, but only after Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., and several other congressmen demanded they be released to the public, the newspaper said. Dingell is a vigorous foe of mandatory air bags.

The investigators also told the News an NHTSA staff analysis evaluating the test results was withheld from Congress until Sept. 26. By then, both the House and Senate had completed hearings on resolutions to overturn an order by Transportation Sec. Brock Adams requiring installation of air bags on some news cars in the 1982-model year.

"That is absolutely untrue," said Carl Nash, special assistant to NHTSA chief Joan Claybrook.

"To suggest suppression (of the test results) is sheer poppycock," Ms. Claybrook said in a telephone interview from Madison, Wis.

Glenn could not be reached for comment.

Adams has ordered airbags, which inflate automatically in accidents, installed in some cars by 1982.

The order takes effect Friday unless both the House and Senate disapprove it.

THE TESTS that prompted the dispute were conducted for NHTSA by Calspan, a private research firm in Buffalo, N.Y. The tests involved crashes of cars traveing 30 miles per hour.

Ms. Claybrook, Nash and NHTSA attorney Frank Berndt disputed reports the agency withdrew the test results from its public docket after Glenn placed them there.

They said Glenn took the test report to the docket room, bypassing normal procedures, but it was intercepted by the docket clerk and sent for review before being made public. The review took a week, much less than normal, then the results were placed in the docket, they said.

Berndt denied reports he had threatened Glenn with disciplinary action, and Ms. Claybrook denied she had charged Glenn with violating agency rules.

The News quoted congressional investigators as saying Glenn was subjected to "a systematic pattern of harassment" after he placed the test results in the public docket.

Zenith selling hearing aid firm

Zenith Radio Corp. has agreed to sell its hearing instrument business to a new firm called Zenetron, Inc., organized by William F. Carr of Corpus Christi, Tex., and James H. Hohnson, who has been manager of the division. The division has sales of around $15 million a year. Terms were not disclosed.

Oil use projections doubted

Oil industry projections on available energy show a "less critical" situation than that outlined by President Carter, an Exxon Corp. official said Monday. Robert Larson, Exxon senior advisor for corporate planning, told a conference on energy conservation the firm is projecting higher oil production and lower consumption over the next decade than predicted by the Carter administration.

But in Vienna, a leading U.S. oil expert Monday foresaw the probability of "world catastrophe" unless oil exploration is intensified over the next 20 years. Petroleum Engineer Michael T. Halbouty, of Houston, Tex., told a seminar of the organization of petroleum exporting countries: "By the mid to late 1980s, potential demand for oil is expected to be greater than supplies available and oil will be supply limited — which is an economist's term for energy crisis," Halbouty said. "All of us must do our utmost to accelerate the discovery of new oil and gas. If we fail, a world catastrophe is not an improbable outcome. All of us will be losers."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration announced Monday it plans to require inclusion of a preservative in mascara and other eye makeup to prevent infections which can produce blindness. The agency said the action was prompted by reports of cases in which the cornea was scratched by an applicator or fingernail, introducing bacteria which caused damage to the eye.

6% inflation to continue: officials

Inflation will continue at over 6 per cent and unemployment will average 6.7 per cent in 1978, the newly elected president of the National Assn. of Business Economists predicted Monday. However, Frances H. Schott added, economists surveyed for an annual forecast believe an economic expansion that began in 1975 will continue for another 15 months.

Fuel price deregulation urged

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., saying a key portion of President Carter's energy tax plan is probably doomed, called Monday for deregulation of fuel prices to spur production. Tower, in remarks to the American Public Transit Assn., said Carter's crude oil equalization tax has been rejected by the senate finance committee and has no prospect of being revived. "It appears that such a tax will not get through the senate and the matter will ultimately be resolved in a house-senate conference," said Tower. "I have the feeling that there's not going to be any crude oil equalization tax this year."

Plan to cut hospital costs rapped

The Carter administration's proposal to cut hospital operating costs by fiat simply will not work and will inevitably result in impairing hospital services if Congress enacts it, a hospital industry spokesman said Monday. Alex McMahon, President of the American Hospital Assn., cited a study prepared for the association indicating that only 32 per cent of the public believes hospital services should be cut for the sake of economy. The poll was taken by the Roper organization among hospital officials and the public.

'Lance didn't influence deposits'

The president of the National Bank of Georgia, once headed by former budget director Bert Lance, said Monday Lance had nothing to do with the deposit of more than $1 million in federal bankruptcy deposits last spring. Robert Guyton issued a statement following published reports Sunday that the bank had $1,366,000 in federal funds in savings accounts as of March 31. Newsday, a Long Island, N.Y., newspaper, said much of the money was deposited after Lance became budget director in January. The newspaper said all other national banks in Georgia had a total of $39,000 in federal funds in similar accounts at the time. However, Guyton said the money was deposited by trustees in bankruptcy casse, adding, "Bert Lance had nothing to do with it."

Machinists strike Lockheed

More than 15,000 machinists went on strike Monday at three Lockheed Corp. plants which manufacture the L1011 Tristar jetliner, two types of Navy patrol planes and the Navy's trident missile. Machinists at another plant in Georgia which builds the giant C5A jet transport and the prop-driven Lockheed Hercules C130 cargo planes voted to stay on the job while negotiators attempt to reach a new agreement. Three hundred Lockheed employes at the Kennedy Space Center in Cape Canaveral, Fla., also joined the strike. The employes are involved in the Navy-supported Trident missile program.

Corporate profits below par

Louis Rukeyser

NEW YORK — Everybody knows, of course, that American businessmen are making record profits, paying ridiculously low taxes and unpatriotically failing to do their part by spending and investing to create new jobs.

You betcha. The only trouble with those immensely popular ideas, so easily exploited by thoughtless journalists and irresponsible politicians, is that every one of them is absolutely false.

Real corporate profits are disastrously below where they ought to be: way below what they were in economically healthier times. True corporate taxes are painfully high: about 10 per cent higher than they were a decade ago. And while some hesitancy about long-term investment is natural in view of the blatant disarray of economic policymaking in Washington, new studies indicate that businessmen in general may actually have been spending too much on new plant and equipment this year.

SPENDING TOO much? How can that be? When you probe beneath the partisanship, and adjust the headline figures for the impact of inflation each year, a much less healthy business picture emerges.

According to studies just reported by the economist Pierre Rinfret, new capital expenditures by private industry in the first half of this year actually exceeded the total cash flow of these businesses, adjusted for inflation, by a whopping $16.7 billion. In other words, if they had done their bookkeeping right, they would have seen that they were spending more than they had.

"There is a great deal of speculation about why capital expenditures are not currently rising more rapidly than they have been rising," Rinfret says. "One analyst after another puzzled over the failure of capital expenditures to rise as rapidly as they have in previous recoveries.

"(Yet) new capital expenditures by private industry exceed true cash flow. Public and popular opinion says the opposite. But the fact is that capital expenditures are not rising as rapidly as in previous business recoveries because (1) taxes have not been lowered but, in fact, increased, and (2) true cash flow does not even pay for current levels of capital expenditure."

THOSE WHO instintively rebel at any suggestion that business is not thriving unconscionably are referred to the action of the stock market in recent years. Plainly, it distrusts the corporate financial reports and regards the true state of business profits as unsatisfactory in this inflationary era. And the market's skepticism is, in many cases, soundly based: many companies' reported earnings are boosted misleadingly by "profits" on sales of old inventories, bought at lower prices, and by inadequate deprecation for future capital purchases.

Moreover, Rinfret is indisputably right about what's been happening to the real corporate tax bill. When you boil away the inflation, taxes, Federal, state and local, as a percentage of true business profits have risen from 41 per cent in 1967 to 51 per cent this year. Federal tax cuts have been more than offset by state and local increases. Despite all the easy talk about "tax incentives" for business expansion, tax disincentives have been the reality.

Nor does Rinfret expect anything better from the Carter tax program, which he thinks on balance will add to inflation — stimulating personal consumption but not business investment. "Apparently the Administration is bowing totally and completely to historical precedent and political pressure," he says. "All of its marvelous and grand expositions about the need to stimulate capital formation have been just that: marvelous and grand words."

The authentic impact of such a misguided tax approach to business (throwing it occasional sops, but never adequate reductions) is not generally appreciated because of the false assumption that somebody else pays those levies. In reality, we all pay through higher prices today and through fewer jobs and lower wages tomorrow. Washington's rhetoric needs deflating, too.

Dow down 0.09 point on holiday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks, hampered by investor fears of rising interest rates, retreated Monday in the slowest trading in 21 months as many traders stayed home for the Columbus Day holiday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been down nearly three points at one time, shed 0.09 point to 840.26. The closely watched average fell 6.76 points over-all last week, including 1.73 Friday.

The big story of the day was the lack of volume. The New York stock exchange volume of 10,580,000 shares, down sharply from the 16,250,000 traded Friday, was the slowest since 10,300,820 changed hands on Jan. 2, 1976. The previous slowest session of 1977 was on May 9, when 15,229,380 shares were traded.

The Columbus Day holiday was the major reason for the slow turnover. Many of the nation's banks and federal government offices were closed, but the stock and bond markets were open.

The Fed Friday gave indications it had tightened credit further to stem a sharp growth over-all in the money supply in the past six months.

The New York Stock Exchange common stock index fell 0.09 to 52.50 and the average price of a share dropped six cents.

Declines topped advances, 751 to 535, among the 1,808 issues crossing the tape. The 522 unchanged issues reflected considerable investor uncertainty about the course of the market.

GETTING IN SHAPE and losing weight isn't easy for the grossly overweight. Durham, N.C., has become a haven for the overweight as they migrate by the hundreds to enroll in controlled diet and exercise programs.

Durham, N.C. new mecca of the nation's 'fatties'

by DAVID L. LANGFORD
UPI Senior Editor

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — They called him The Garbage Man, a sullen 445-pound misfit given to howling while he wolfed down great quantities of food with his hands.

For Elliott Harvith a typical breakfast would be 20 scrambled eggs, 40 strips of bacon, 20 sausages "and maybe some fruit." Occasionally at the dinner table he would let loose a loud shriek.

"Something like King Kong," one dieter said.

WHEN HE TOOK TO rolling on the floor in the lobby of the Downtowner Motel, the manager decided to throw him out.

It's easy to laugh at the stories they tell about Elliott, who at age 32 today is 235 pounds lighter than he was two years ago when he arrived in this tobacco town that is becoming known as "Fat City USA."

Linda also is good for a chuckle. Like many others, she got into volunteer work while spending weeks here in a dietary program. One day she talked a local pastry shop into donating 12 dozen donuts for a party for needy children. When she picked them up, she couldn't resist.

She ate all 144.

And then there was this other fat lady in the hospital who sent herself Candygrams . . . and the guy who wiped out an "all-you-can-eat" buffet.

THEY LIKE TO tell the stories and laugh with you here in Durham, which has become a haven for the overweight.

By the hundreds they migrate here to enroll in a controlled diet and exercise program at Duke University or one of several private institutions which have sprung up off the campus.

They spend weeks, months and sometimes years as a temporary resident of a town where even the hotel restaurants routinely provide diet menus and most public seating is designed to accommodate the fat.

It's not really funny.

Listen to Gloria, a woman with a pretty face who is so miserably obese she once had her mouth wired shut for eight months, until the pain became unbearable.

"YOU CAN'T IMAGINE what a devastating feeling it is — her voice catches — how humiliating it is, when you can't slide into a restaurant booth or get into the bathroom on a plane or a train, or even get behind the wheel of a regular-size car."

On this particular evening, however, Gloria was happy as she sat down to a dinner of five ounces of roast beef with a carrot "gravy," green beans, cauliflower and a salad with some 50 other dieters in a private dining room at a downtown motel. Her husband and 12-year-old son were coming to join her the next day.

"Ask me how my sex life is," she said. "I'll tell you it's great."

Today, dieting is almost an "industry."

"I WOULD SAY 40 per cent of my business comes from dieters," said Patrick O'Keefe, manager of the Downtowner Motel. "Most of the restaurants would go broke if it weren't for them."

During the peak months in the summer there will be as many as 1,000, taking their meals at Dr. Kempner's Rice House or at the Duke Rehabilitation Center or the Structure House Center for Weight Control or the Stuelke Diet Program, or one of the others.

Each mocning they are out before breakfast in their shorts and sweatsuits, walking along The Wall, the 1.7 miles of stone fence surrounding the east campus of Duke University, or The Strip, a mile of little-used paved road parallel to the interstate highway.

They spend their days playing volleyball and basketball and working out at the YMCA, which was the home of one group of men who wore tee shirts branding them as "Obnoxious Animals" until they were thrown out for gambling.

AT NIGHT MANY congregate at a disco at the Ramada Inn or slip off to a food "orgy" at the Duke Towers, an apartment compex where most of the tenants are out-of-state dieters.

But, for most, dieting is a serious business, often a matter of life or death. And the clientele ranges from the woman who must work part time as a waitress to pay for her stay to the relatively affluent regulars such as comic Buddy Hackett or Betty Hughes, the wife of a former governor of New Jersey.

"Obesity is like leprosy," said Dr. Richard Stuelke, a physician who started the diet program at Duke and later began his own counseling service. "It is somewhat akin to drug addiction and alcoholism in that it can only be arrested. But like leprosy and unlike alcoholism, it is visible 24 hours a day."

Dr. Stuelke, the author of a new book entitled "Thin for Life," prescribes a "structured" diet of three meals a day, totaling 700 calories. His patients — limited to 60 at a time — pay $145 a week for special meals served in a private motel dining room, medicel checkups, lectures and counseling by his staff psychologist, Sybil Tishler.

LIKE PATIENTS in most of the other Durham diet programs, they must arrange for their own lodging. They usually stay an average of 10 weeks and often return at regular intervals.

Stuelke admits that it's probably the comradeship among the fat folks, the mutual moral support, that makes the program work.

"As for my role, I'm a holder of hands, a dryer of tears, a back patter," he says.

"We have a Twiggy mentality in this country," adds the doctor, who has a weight problem himself. "Durham is probably the only town you can find a 400 pound woman in a bathing suit. That's what makes Durham so great."

It's futile for an outsider to argue about which of the Durham diet programs is most effective. There is a sort of campus rivalry.

"I'M ON THE rice diet," brags Myra, a dumpy woman of about 30 sipping an iced coffee over the din of a three-pice rock band at the Ramada disco. "We're the oldest and the biggest. We've got about 200 in the program right now."

And the salt-poor diet prescribed by Dr. Kempner, now 74, also is the most drastic, beginning with meals of only rice and grapefruit, served in a rambling old yellow frame house.

"We're all a family," says Jeannette, who in the past even tried the controversial bypass operation to lose weight. "I've never felt so loved in my life."

Before a breakfast of strawberries and cottage cheese, Jeannette and other "Stuelke Bulkies," as the dieters are called, weighed in on special digital scales which provide a reading up to 1,000 pounds to the tenth of a pound. "Oh boy," she exclaimed. "I broke 200."

BEFORE HE LOST his first 200 pounds a year and a half ago, Elliott had never had a woman. To celebrate the occasion his friends procured for him a prostitute. Today Elliott, a regular at the disco, always has with him an attractive girl from a stable of girlfriends known to all as "Elliott's Angels."

But even now Elliott goes on an occasional food binge. O'Keefe, the motel manager, complained that the other day Elliott came into the Sunday buffet, which has a set price of $3.50, and ate two New York strips, two whole chickens, 25 pieces of pie and "cleaned out the salad bar."

O'Keefe also recalls Arnie, a 600-pounder who was uncommonly rough on chairs.

"When a fat guy sits down, he always drops his whole weight a foot or so. When Arnie sat down my chairs would just go crunch."

So the "fatties" are always good for laughs, and they laugh with you. And then you meet Selma, an older woman with silver hair.

"I'm so happy," she says. "I walked four miles today. When I got here I could hardly walk in the door my arthritis hurt so bad."

And Jeannette, bragging that she's lost 75 pounds since June, says, "My God, I'm home."

GETTING IN SHAPE and losing weight isn't easy for the grossly overweight. Durham, N.C., has become a haven for the overweight as they migrate by the hundreds to enroll in controlled diet and exercise programs.

Durham, N.C. new mecca of the nation's 'fatties'

UPI Senior Editor

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — They called him The Garbage Man, a sullen 445-pound misfit given to howling while he wolfed down great quantities of food with his hands.

For Elliott Harvith a typical breakfast would be 20 scrambled eggs, 40 strips of bacon, 20 sausages "and maybe some fruit." Occasionally at the dinner table he would let loose a loud shriek.

"Something like King Kong," one dieter said.

WHEN HE TOOK TO rolling on the floor in the lobby of the Downtowner Motel, the manager decided to throw him out.

It's easy to laugh at the stories they tell about Elliott, who at age 32 today is 235 pounds lighter than he was two years ago when he arrived in this tobacco town that is becoming known as "Fat City USA."

Linda also is good for a chuckle. Like many others, she got into volunteer work while spending weeks here in a dietary program. One day she talked a local pastry shop into donating 12 dozen donuts for a party for needy children. When she picked them up, she couldn't resist.

She ate all 144.

And then there was this other fat lady in the hospital who sent herself Candygrams . . . and the guy who wiped out an "all-you-can-eat" buffet.

THEY LIKE TO tell the stories and laugh with you here in Durham, which has become a haven for the overweight.

By the hundreds they migrate here to enroll in a controlled diet and exercise program at Duke University or one of several private institutions which have sprung up off the campus.

They spend weeks, months and sometimes years as a temporary resident of a town where even the hotel restaurants routinely provide diet menus and most public seating is designed to accommodate the fat.

It's not really funny.

Listen to Gloria, a woman with a pretty face who is so miserably obese she once had her mouth wired shut for eight months, until the pain became unbearable.

"YOU CAN'T IMAGINE what a devastating feeling it is — her voice catches — how humiliating it is, when you can't slide into a restaurant booth or get into the bathroom on a plane or a train, or even get behind the wheel of a regular-size car."

On this particular evening, however, Gloria was happy as she sat down to a dinner of five ounces of roast beef with a carrot "gravy," green beans, cauliflower and a salad with some 50 other dieters in a private dining room at a downtown motel. Her husband and 12-year-old son were coming to join her the next day.

"Ask me how my sex life is," she said. "I'll tell you it's great."

If Durham is better known to most for its cigarets or the esoteric ESP experiments at Duke, the fat minority first found a sanstuary here 35 years ago when Dr. Walter Kempner started his rice diet program.

Today, dieting is almost an "industry."

"I WOULD SAY 40 per cent of my business comes from dieters," said Patrick O'Keefe, manager of the Downtowner Motel. "Most of the restaurants would go broke if it weren't for them."

During the peak months in the summer there will be as many as 1,000, taking their meals at Dr. Kempner's Rice House or at the Duke Rehabilitation Center or the Structure House Center for Weight Control or the Stuelke Diet Program, or one of the others.

Each mocning they are out before breakfast in their shorts and sweatsuits, walking along The Wall, the 1.7 miles of stone fence surrounding the east campus of Duke University, or The Strip, a mile of little-used paved road parallel to the interstate highway.

They spend their days playing volleyball and basketball and working out at the YMCA, which was the home of one group of men who wore tee shirts branding them as "Obnoxious Animals" until they were thrown out for gambling.

AT NIGHT MANY congregate at a disco at the Ramada Inn or slip off to a food "orgy" at the Duke Towers, an apartment compex where most of the tenants are out-of-state dieters.

But, for most, dieting is a serious business, often a matter of life or death. And the clientele ranges from the woman who must work part time as a waitress to pay for her stay to the relatively affluent regulars such as comic Buddy Hackett or Betty Hughes, the wife of a former governor of New Jersey.

"Obesity is like leprosy," said Dr. Richard Stuelke, a physician who started the diet program at Duke and later began his own counseling service. "It is somewhat akin to drug addiction and alcoholism in that it can only be arrested. But like leprosy and unlike alcoholism, it is visible 24 hours a day."

Dr. Stuelke, the author of a new book entitled "Thin for Life," prescribes a "structured" diet of three meals a day, totaling 700 calories. His patients — limited to 60 at a time — pay $145 a week for special meals served in a private motel dining room, medicel checkups, lectures and counseling by his staff psychologist, Sybil Tishler.

LIKE PATIENTS in most of the other Durham diet programs, they must arrange for their own lodging. They usually stay an average of 10 weeks and often return at regular intervals.

Stuelke admits that it's probably the comradeship among the fat folks, the mutual moral support, that makes the program work.

"As for my role, I'm a holder of hands, a dryer of tears, a back patter," he says.

"We have a Twiggy mentality in this country," adds the doctor, who has a weight problem himself. "Durham is probably the only town you can find a 400 pound woman in a bathing suit. That's what makes Durham so great."

It's futile for an outsider to argue about which of the Durham diet programs is most effective. There is a sort of campus rivalry.

"I'M ON THE rice diet," brags Myra, a dumpy woman of about 30 sipping an iced coffee over the din of a three-pice rock band at the Ramada disco. "We're the oldest and the biggest. We've got about 200 in the program right now."

And the salt-poor diet prescribed by Dr. Kempner, now 74, also is the most drastic, beginning with meals of only rice and grapefruit, served in a rambling old yellow frame house.

"We're all a family," says Jeannette, who in the past even tried the controversial bypass operation to lose weight. "I've never felt so loved in my life."

Before a breakfast of strawberries and cottage cheese, Jeannette and other "Stuelke Bulkies," as the dieters are called, weighed in on special digital scales which provide a reading up to 1,000 pounds to the tenth of a pound. "Oh boy," she exclaimed. "I broke 200."

BEFORE HE LOST his first 200 pounds a year and a half ago, Elliott had never had a woman. To celebrate the occasion his friends procured for him a prostitute. Today Elliott, a regular at the disco, always has with him an attractive girl from a stable of girlfriends known to all as "Elliott's Angels."

But even now Elliott goes on an occasional food binge. O'Keefe, the motel manager, complained that the other day Elliott came into the Sunday buffet, which has a set price of $3.50, and ate two New York strips, two whole chickens, 25 pieces of pie and "cleaned out the salad bar."

O'Keefe also recalls Arnie, a 600-pounder who was uncommonly rough on chairs.

"When a fat guy sits down, he always drops his whole weight a foot or so. When Arnie sat down my chairs would just go crunch."

So the "fatties" are always good for laughs, and they laugh with you. And then you meet Selma, an older woman with silver hair

"I'm so happy," she says. "I walked four miles today. When I got here I could hardly walk in the door my arthritis hurt so bad."

And Jeannette, bragging that she's lost 75 pounds since June, says, "My God, I'm home."

Total points for both teams _____

by BOB GALLAS

The Bears, fighting off a 13-0 first quarter deficit, 144 yards in penalties, four fumbles and two interceptions, finally found their hearts in the second half and beat the Los Angeles Rams 24-23 for the first time since 1968, Monday night in Soldier Field before a national television audience.

Despite three turnovers that led to 13 of L.A.'s 16 first half points, held Los Angeles quarterback Joe Namath to a 16 for 39 night passing for 203 yards and intercepted Freeway Joe four times. Meanwhile, Bears quarterback Bob Avellini enjoyed perhaps his finest pro outing, hitting 11 of 17 passes for 219 yards and three touchdowns.

JAMES SCOTT caught 70 and 72-yard touchdown strikes from Avellini in the first half but Chicago still trailed 16-14 at intermission.

A 29-yard touchdown catch by Greg Latta in the third quarter and a 33-yard Bob Thomas field goal in the fourth quarter gave Chicago the lead 24-16.

After Namath was forced to leave the game with less than two minutes left after being sacked for the second time, Pat Hayden came on and engineered a late touchdown drive capped by a 26-yard scoring catch by Dwight Scales with :27 left to play.

Walter Payton regained the National Football Conference rushing lead with 132 yards in 24 carries.

L.A. scored first on a 29-yard field goal by Rafael Septien but couldn't score a touchdown after getting a first down at the Bears four-yard line.

THE BEARS went back on offense but for only one play as Avellini's first pass was deflected by Monte Jackson into the arms of teammate Isiah Robertson, who ran it back to the Bears 15-yard line. The Rams penetrated to the Bears' 12, but again had to settle for a field goal, a 29-yarder that made it 6-0 with 7:49 left in the quarter.

Robertson came up with the fumble at his own 46 and L.A. quarterback Joe Namath immediately went deep, hitting Harold Jackson on a 37-yard pass to the Chicago 17. Six plays later Lawrence McCutcheon ran it in from the two-yard line for the score. The extra point gave the Rams a 13-0 lead with 3:28 remaining in the period.

But the Bears came back to take a 14-13 lead in the next three minutes on two Bob Avellini to James Scott scoring bombs.

WITH :52 REMAINING in the opening period Avellini hit Scott with a perfect pass and the wide receiver scooted down the right sidelines for a 70-yard touchdown.

Then on the Bears very next possession, Avellini found Scott open over the middle. A leaping Scott hauled in the pass thrown between two Rams defenders and ran the final 20 yards for a 72-yard touchdown as the Bears took a 14-13 lead with 13:20 left in the second quarter.

Steve Schubert hauled in a Rams' punt but fumbled at his own 20 and a penalty on the play gave L.A. the ball at the Bear 13 yard line. The Chicago defense stalled the Los Angeles drive at the seven, but Septien made it 16-14 Rams with his third field goal of the half, a 25-yarder, with 2:14 left.

The Bears took the ball and marched down to the Rams' 16 on passes to tight end Greg Latta and a 16-yard run by Payton but elected to go for the go-ahead field goal with 11:20 to play. Bob Thomas, with a 15-miles-per-hour wind at his back, kicked the 33-yard field goal as the Bears went ahead 17-16. That score was the first against L.A. in the fourth quarter this year.

But the clincher came with 6:08 to play as the Bears lined up on the L.A. 29-yard line with a third down and eight yards to go. Avellini, under heavy pursuit by linebacker Jim Youngblood, lofted a pass to Greg Latta, who leaped high, deep in the endzone, for the catch and touchdown.

by RICK CHRISTOPHER

The three-year veteran from Colorado was supposedly the best leaper on the Los Angeles Rams team.

Last season Rams' defensive back Rod Perry grabbed eight interceptions to trail league leader and teammate Monte Jackson by two

Monday night at Soldier Field, however the Bear receivers James Scott and Greg Latta beat the two cornerbacks at their own game.

BAD FOOTING OR not, Scott and Latta outleaped, outmuscled and outmaneuvered their way into position and three touchdowns. Both players were instrumental in leading the Bears to a 24-23 win over the Rams.

"Last week against New Orleans I missed one that should have been caught," Scott said. "I had to prove something to myself and by concentrating on the ball the entire way I did."

Three minutes later, Scott pulled in his longest reception of his career, a 72-yarder that he grabbed from the arms of Perry.

"The ball was well thrown from Avellini," Scott said. "I had to slow up a bit for it, so I cut in and jumped up with Perry.

"His arms were right under mine when I came down with it."

The series of big plays by the Bears overcame a deluge of mistakes in the first half that nearly prevented a victory.

Quarterback Bob Avellini went to work against those errors by penetrating the Rams secondary with 11 receptions for 219 yards and three touchdowns.

Avellini called his first game and enjoyed much success behind the strong blocking of his front four.

"By him calling the plays himself gives the team a little more leadership that can be looked up to on the field," head coach Jack Pardee said. "We all work during the week on the same thing so there's no reason for me to send in the play."

Perhaps the biggest reception for Avellini came in the fourth quarter. Trailing 17-16 Avellini sprinted left away from the onrushing Rams. He uncorked a 29-yard desperation attempt into the endzone that Greg Latta outmuscled Jackson for and the go-ahead score.

"I was just concerned with not getting thrown for a loss and ruin our chances for a field goal," Avellini said. "I just threw the ball as high and far as I could."

"As far as I'm concerned it was just a serieis of big plays and going a full 60 minutes against a strong team," Pardee said.

"There were a lot of mistakes there but we had enough enthusiasm to overcome them. And the addition of Doug Plank in the secondary picked us up," Pardee said.

Plank returned to the lineup after missing the first three games to intercept Ram quarterback Joe Namath twice.

"Last week of practice was the final straw for me," Plank remarked. "I was coming back against the Rams or not at all.

"The competition from Gary Fencik improved my mental attitude and it doesn't take too long before you can be forgotten."

Fencik picked off one of Namath's four interceptions and also teamed with Tom Hicks to stop reserve Rod Phillips leaping attempt at the Bears one-yard in the third quarter.

"We played a well thought game in the trenches," Pardee said. "I was not totally surprised that they went for the score in that situation.

"If they didn't make it, they would have us pinned inside our one-yard line going against the wind."

Sad words: what might've been

White Sox season ticket holders are getting something in the mail they really didn't expect -- World Series tickets.

Unfortunately, the tickets are for seats in Comiskey Park and are good only as souvenirs of what might have been.

Sox President Bill Veeck -- always one for a sharp promotion -- mailed the Series tickets with season ticket renewal forms. He enclosed a letter, which said, in part:

"Well, we blew it. No, that's not true — not exactly. Kansas City won it. But, as you can see by the enclosed tickets, we were ready!

"Regardless, it was a great year and we all had a lot of fun. So, I thought you would like to have these tickets as a kind of bittersweet remembrance."

Dodgers, Yanks in coast-to-coast Series

NEW YORK (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda Monday named his "money" pitcher, Don Sutton, to start tonight's first game of the World Series while the New York Yankees' Billy Martin countered with kees' Billy Martin countered with in-injury-prone Don Gullet in hope of squeezing one more miracle out of his wounded pitching staff.

The opener is scheduled for 7:15 p.m. at Yankee Stadium with the second game the same time Wednesday night. After that the scene shifts to Los Angeles Friday, Saturday and Sunday for games three, four and five before returning to New York, if necessary Oct. 18-19.

Sutton, who never has lost a postseason game in four decisions, characteristically brushed off the pressure of opening the series — the eighth time the Dodgers and Yankees have met to decide baseball's championship.

"WHAT'S A MONEY game?" asked Sutton, who was 15-8 this year, including a victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in the Dodgers' playoff win. "I pitch for money, so every time out is a money game to me."

Sutton, who pitched at Yankee Stadium in the All-Star game this past July, was quick to note, however, the difference now.

"This is a day at the office," he said. "There's not the hilarity and levity of the All-Star Game, which is really only an exhibition. This time there are 33 full shares on the line."

"THIS GUY, DON Sutton, has won more games than anyone in the history of the Los Angeles franchise," said Lasorda. "We couldn't ask for a better pitcher to start us off."

The Yankees, by contrast, couldn't be in a worse situation as far as their pitching was concerned.

"As of right now, it is Gullett," said Martin, still bleary-eyed from his nail-biting, penant-clinching victory over Kansas City the night before. "I've got five months to set up my starting rotation for the playoffs," added the Yankee skipper glumly," and one day to do it for the World Series. This should be set up so both teams can have their two best pitchers ready."

Martin's series plans were complicated when he was forced to use his best pitcher this season, left-hander Ron Guidry, as the starter Sunday night on only two days rest as a desperate effort to win the AL pennant.

GUIDRY LASTED ONLY 2 1-3 innings and forced Martin to summon his most effective right-hander, Mike Torrez, to pitch the next 5 1-3 innings before the Yankees' lifesaver, Sparky Lyle, nailed down the 5-3 clincher.

Gullett, 14-4 during the regular season in which he was sidelined most of the month of August, started the first game of the playoffs against the Royals and was kayoed after two innings, complaining of the same sore shoulder which plagued him earlier in the year.

At that time, it was said his season was over. But the Yankees, who managed to keep finding ways to extend their season, had almost no other choice but to send Gullett out to the firing line again — sore shoulder, or no sore shoulder.

"I don't think any pitcher goes out there 100 per cent very often," said Gullett. "You do the best you can with what you have and then hope for the best."

Lasorda, in anticipation of the southpaw, inserted right-handed hitter Glenn Burke in place of Rick Monday in the outfield, the Dodgers, meanwhile, looking over the vast expanses of Yankee Stadium with all its tradition, seemed impressed but not awed.

BOTH SUTTON and first baseman Steve Garvey both have early ties to the Yankees.

"I was a Yankee fan all my life," said Sutton, "If they had shown a little more interest in me when I was a kid, I might just be over in the other clubhouse now."

Garvey, who led all the Dodgers' hitters with a .381 average, two homers and five RBI in their last World Series appearance — 1974 — when they lost in five games to the Oakland A's, was a batboy for both the Dodgers and Yankees in spring training when he was a youngster.

"I was hoping for the Yankees and the Dodgers when we were in spring training in Florida this year," said Garvey. "It is a classic World Series with a lot of nostalgia connected with it. I think we're a better team all the way around with better pitching and a well-rested bullpen."

SOMEONE MENTIONED that the Yankees come into the World Series the same way they did a year ago — fresh off a dramatic ninth-inning victory over Kansas City. Visibly drained by their hectic playoff experience, the Yankees were swept, in four games by the Cincinnati Reds last year.

"They can make up any excuse they want about being flat last year," said second baseman Davey Lopes, who will lead off the series for the Dodgers, "But the fact is they were beaten by a better team in the Reds."

Bears beat adversity, Rams, 24-23

by BOB GALLAS

The Bears, fighting off a 13-0 first quarter deficit, 144 yards in penalties, four fumbles and two interceptions, finally found their hearts in the second half and beat the Los Angeles Rams 24-23 for the first time since 1968, Monday night in Soldier Field before a national television audience.

Despite three turnovers that led to 13 of L.A.'s 16 first half points, held Los Angeles quarterback Joe Namath to a 16 for 39 night passing for 203 yards and intercepted Freeway Joe four times. Meanwhile, Bears quarterback Bob Avellini enjoyed perhaps his finest pro outing, hitting 11 of 17 passes for 219 yards and three touchdowns.

JAMES SCOTT caught 70 and 72-yard touchdown strikes from Avellini in the first half but Chicago still trailed 16-14 at intermission.

A 29-yard touchdown catch by Greg Latta in the third quarter and a 33-yard Bob Thomas field goal in the fourth quarter gave Chicago the lead 24-16.

After Namath was forced to leave the game with less than two minutes left after being sacked for the second time, Pat Hayden came on and engineered a late touchdown drive capped by a 26-yard scoring catch by Dwight Scales with :27 left to play.

Walter Payton regained the National Football Conference rushing lead with 132 yards in 24 carries.

L.A. scored first on a 29-yard field goal by Rafael Septien but couldn't score a touchdown after getting a first down at the Bears four-yard line.

THE BEARS went back on offense but for only one play as Avellini's first pass was deflected by Monte Jackson into the arms of teammate Isiah Robertson, who ran it back to the Bears 15-yard line. The Rams penetrated to the Bears' 12, but again had to settle for a field goal, a 29-yarder that made it 6-0 with 7:49 left in the quarter.

Robertson came up with the fumble at his own 46 and L.A. quarterback Joe Namath immediately went deep, hitting Harold Jackson on a 37-yard pass to the Chicago 17. Six plays later Lawrence McCutcheon ran it in from the two-yard line for the score. The extra point gave the Rams a 13-0 lead with 3:28 remaining in the period.

But the Bears came back to take a 14-13 lead in the next three minutes on two Bob Avellini to James Scott scoring bombs.

WITH :52 REMAINING in the opening period Avellini hit Scott with a perfect pass and the wide receiver scooted down the right sidelines for a 70-yard touchdown.

Then on the Bears very next possession, Avellini found Scott open over the middle. A leaping Scott hauled in the pass thrown between two Rams defenders and ran the final 20 yards for a 72-yard touchdown as the Bears took a 14-13 lead with 13:20 left in the second quarter.

Steve Schubert hauled in a Rams' punt but fumbled at his own 20 and a penalty on the play gave L.A. the ball at the Bear 13 yard line. The Chicago defense stalled the Los Angeles drive at the seven, but Septien made it 16-14 Rams with his third field goal of the half, a 25-yarder, with 2:14 left.

The Bears took the ball and marched down to the Rams' 16 on passes to tight end Greg Latta and a 16-yard run by Payton but elected to go for the go-ahead field goal with 11:20 to play. Bob Thomas, with a 15-miles-per-hour wind at his back, kicked the 33-yard field goal as the Bears went ahead 17-16. That score was the first against L.A. in the fourth quarter this year.

But the clincher came with 6:08 to play as the Bears lined up on the L.A. 29-yard line with a third down and eight yards to go. Avellini, under heavy pursuit by linebacker Jim Youngblood, lofted a pass to Greg Latta, who leaped high, deep in the endzone, for the catch and touchdown.

Scott's jumping ability burns Rams' secondary

by RICK CHRISTOPHER

The three-year veteran from Colorado was supposedly the best leaper on the Los Angeles Rams team.

Last season Rams' defensive back Rod Perry grabbed eight interceptions to trail league leader and teammate Monte Jackson by two

Monday night at Soldier Field, however the Bear receivers James Scott and Greg Latta beat the two cornerbacks at their own game.

BAD FOOTING OR not, Scott and Latta outleaped, outmuscled and outmaneuvered their way into position and three touchdowns. Both players were instrumental in leading the Bears to a 24-23 win over the Rams.

"Last week against New Orleans I missed one that should have been caught," Scott said. "I had to prove something to myself and by concentrating on the ball the entire way I did."

Scott's 70-yard touchdown in the first quarter brought the Bears back from a 13-0 deficit.

Three minutes later, Scott pulled in his longest reception of his career, a 72-yarder that he grabbed from the arms of Perry.

"The ball was well thrown from Avellini," Scott said. "I had to slow up a bit for it, so I cut in and jumped up with Perry.

"His arms were right under mine when I came down with it."

The series of big plays by the Bears overcame a deluge of mistakes in the first half that nearly prevented a victory.

Quarterback Bob Avellini went to work against those errors by penetrating the Rams secondary with 11 receptions for 219 yards and three touchdowns.

Avellini called his first game and enjoyed much success behind the strong blocking of his front four.

"By him calling the plays himself gives the team a little more leadership that can be looked up to on the field," head coach Jack Pardee said. "We all work during the week on the same thing so there's no reason for me to send in the play."

Perhaps the biggest reception for Avellini came in the fourth quarter. Trailing 17-16 Avellini sprinted left away from the onrushing Rams. He uncorked a 29-yard desperation attempt into the endzone that Greg Latta outmuscled Jackson for and the go-ahead score.

Not all the Mid Suburban League girls' cross country teams were at the Prospect Invitational last weekend.

The exception was Hersey. The Huskies traveled to Antioch and placed second in a 12-team invitational. Champion Crystal Lake's totaled 53 points while Hersey had 64.

Margaret LaPorte of Hersey achieved a 12:46 timing over the two-mile course for second place behind Libertyville's Margaret Cordell, the meet champion, at 12:46.

THE OTHER Hersey results pleased Huskie coach Larry Travis. "I think we're starting to get our pack closer together," said Travis.

Travis was referring to Nancy Risop finishing 12th, Mary LeClair 15th, Mary Hogan 17th and Cherie Schoonover 18th. Risop's time was 13:52, LeClair 14:13, Hogan 14:16, and Schoonover 14:17.

Hersey girls run second

Not all the Mid Suburban League girls' cross country teams were at the Prospect Invitational last weekend.

The exception was Hersey. The Huskies traveled to Antioch and placed second in a 12-team invitational. Champion Crystal Lake's totaled 53 points while Hersey had 64.

Margaret LaPorte of Hersey achieved a 12:46 timing over the two-mile course for second place behind Libertyville's Margaret Cordell, the meet champion, at 12:46.

THE OTHER Hersey results pleased Huskie coach Larry Travis. "I think we're starting to get our pack closer together," said Travis.

Travis was referring to Nancy Risop finishing 12th, Mary LeClair 15th, Mary Hogan 17th and Cherie Schoonover 18th. Risop's time was 13:52, LeClair 14:13, Hogan 14:16, and Schoonover 14:17.

Teammates Kathy Deamant and Lisa Karbas were 47th and 48th respectively. Deamant's time was 17:24 while Karbas ran a 19:26 race.

Final team totals showed Libertyville with 75, Antioch 110, Cary Grove 152, Lake Forest 155, Mundelein 170, Wauconda 193, Grayslake 207, Benet Academy 228, Lake Geneva 232 and Salem, (Wis.) 240.

THE YANKEE-pennant clinching was hardly history Sunday when Lenny Krashinsky of Brooklyn and Dale Rowe of the Bronx started their overnight vigil at Yankee Stadium for tickets. It paid off.

Hawks send NHL a Fist-O-Gram

Randy Holt's face was swollen and bruised.

The Black Hawk defenseman had been part of a bench-emptying free-for-all late in Sunday's 4-4 preseason game tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Stadium.

"The fight was good for us," Holt said defiantly afterward. "The next time we play Toronto, they'll be watching us. The word'll get out about this fight, too.

"THE LAST four years Chicago has gotten pushed around by just about everyone in the NFL. Now it's going to be different. We're going to start pushing around others until we get some respect."

Maybe the brawl, which was big even by hockey standards, may earn the Hawks some respect in the NHL this year. They'll start finding that out when the regular season opens Thursday at Philadelphia.

But it may have a more immediate effect. The fight, involving every Hawk including goalie Tony Esposito, may have drawn the untested team together.

IT MAY have given the Hawks a much needed dose of self-respect, despite their final preseason record of 1-3-3.

"I'm pleased with my team," Coach Bob Pulford said after Sunday's game. "That's what counted most. I disagree with the penalties, but the team went on the ice itself. I didn't say anything.

"One of the Maple Leafs was holding one of our guys, while another was hitting him. There was no choice but to go out on the ice. It was the right thing to do, and I'm not displeased at all."

Pulford's remarks indicate the Hawks' new strong-arm image isn't the idea of several hot-headed players. It begins with him. The fight, which drew 68 minutes in penalties, was the Hawks' notice to the rest of the league.

THE HAWKS' new coach knows he is working with basically the same unit which finished third in the Conn Smythe Division last season, and it's going to take team work and scrappiness for that record to improve.

"Basically, we're set now," Pulford said of his team. "We've still got a few things to do yet, though.

"I think we're improving — I know I keep saying that — but Toronto had two power play goals and it takes a long while for a team to learn to kill penalties.

"The players are coming together. Once they start playing as a team, they'll be able to make mistakes and their effort will cover up for it."

NEWLY-ACQUIRED Bob "Battleship" Kelly has been one of the surprises for the Hawks this season. Released as a free agent from Pittsburgh last season, Kelly has become one of the Hawks' top scorers and one of their most physical players.

The left wing finished in a tie for third place in Hawk preseason scoring, while serving as team "police man" in the absence of Keith Magnuson, out with an injured arm.

The other major addition to the Hawks roster this season is 20-year-old Jean Savard, who scored 180 points last season playing junior hockey for Quebec. The young center was second in Hawks' scoring during the preseason.

Ivan Boldirev, last season's leading Hawk scorer, topped the preseason list with six goals and two assists for eight points. Savard had two goals and four assists for six points. Darcy Rota, Stan Mikita and Kelly were tied with five points apiece.

Holt led all defensemen with four points.

PULFORD PROMISED to strengthen the Hawks' defense this season, but the preseason record was disappointing in that category. In seven games the Hawks allowed 29 goals for a 4.1 per game average.

Although earlier in the preseason Pulford traded goaltending chores between Esposito and Mike Veisor, he apparently will go nearly entirely with Esposito during the regular season. Esposito averaged 3.45 goals allowed last season.

Neither Pit Martin nor Dennis Hull were selected as part of the NHL's equalization draft Monday, where each team was able to protect only part of its roster and the others could be drafted. The Hawks chose no one from other teams either.

Goolagong goes first in team tennis draft

NEW YORK — Evonne Goolagong, the world's No. 2 ranked woman player who was out of competition last year when she was pregnant, was the first player picked in the World Team Tennis player draft held last Friday in New York but announced Monday. The former Wimbledon champion was selected by the two-time WTT champion New York Apples, who obtained the first selection from the Los Angeles Strings.

The Pennsylvania Keystones, replacing The Soviets for the 1978 season, followed and selected South African Bob Hewitt. Goolagong led the 1975 Pittsburgh Triangles to the WTT championship and was named the Most Valuable Female Player. Hewitt also is a WIT veteran. The Western Division champion Phoenix Racquets drafted Jimmy Connors on the first round. This brings about a possible reuniting, on the court at least, of former sweethearts Connors and Chris Evert.

Los Angeles traded its first round choice as part of the complicated negotiations which brought them rights to Ilie Nastase earlier this year. Already powerful on the women's side with Billie Jean King and Virginia Wade, the Apples also drafted John Newcombe, Arthur Ashe and Dick Stockton.

Kuhn KO's Yankees bid for player

NEW YORK — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has denied the New York Yankees permission to use Dell Alston as a 25th player in the World Series. In a letter to Yankee President Gabe Paul, Kuhn said he referred the Alston dispute to the National League but was informed that "the National League opposes any waiver of the rule." Paul, informed of Kuhn's decision, termed the ruling "unjust," and added "we'll abide by it, but it's wrong — dead wrong."

Wings snatch Woods from Montreal

MONTREAL — Forward Paul Woods of the Nova Scotia Voyageurs, a member of the Montreal Canadiens organization, was the first player drafted today in the National Hockey League waiver draft. Woods, with 20 goals and 18 assists last year, was taken by the Detroit Red Wings, who had first choice for $50,000. The Red Wings were forced to remove Jim Nahrgang from their protected list and Montreal preferred to take the cash.

After Colorado passed, the Washington Capitals took forward Dave Forbes from the Boston Bruins for the waiver price of $12,500. The Capitals were forced to drop Peter Scamurra but the Bruins took the cash. After passes by Vancouver, Cleveland, Chicago and Minnesota, the New York Rangers took Toronto goalie Wayne Thomas for $12,500, dropping netminder Giles Gratton. The Maple Leafs took the cash.

Frazier packs bags for Cleveland

NEW YORK — Cleveland-bound Walt Frazier said today he was dejected about leaving New York after a good NBA exhibition season, but hoped his 10 years of experience in pro basketball would help the Cavaliers develop into a title team. Frazier, who still has three years remaining on a $440,000 a season contract, wasn't too happy that he had to learn of the trade through the press instead of direct contact by the Knicks. He found some solace in the fact Wilt Chamberlain and Oscar Robertson were informed of their being traded away in the same manner.

"After 10 years in one place, it still hasn't hit me that I'm no longer a Knick. When I get to Cleveland and put on a Cav uniform, I'll know for sure then that I'm not a Knick," he said. "Clyde" said he'd leave for Cleveland Wednesday and study up on Cav plays before they start their regular season on Tuesday, Oct. 18.

Long lines greet ticket seekers

LOS ANGELES — About 15,000 available tickets for World Series games at Dodger Stadium were gobbled up in a couple of hours Monday by rabid baseball fans, some of whom got into fisticuffs briefly to hold their places in line. Police reported receiving several disturbing-the-peace calls from the lines, mostly in the San Fernando Valley. No arrests were made and no one was injured.

The tickets for the third and fourth games and a possible fifth game between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the New York Yankees were put on sale at Ticketron outlets only. About 100 outlets sold tickets, with a limit of two to a customer per game. Some fans camped overnight at Dodger Stadium, thinking they could buy tickets there, but they were disappointed. Al Jordan, Ticketron manager, said the sale was started at 10 a.m. and by noon it was over.

Hersey leads conference golf meet

by DON FRISKE

Len Fiocca, the Fremd golf coach, was staring at the scores for the first 18 holes of the Mid-Suburban League conference meet Monday afternoon.

"There's some decent scores," he was saying. "And I'm surprised, with all the wind."

Despite the strong gusts, 12 MSL golfers managed to turn in sub-80 cards at Chevy Chase Country Club in Wheeling. Hersey's Chris Duros and Forest View's Steve Ford each had a 74 to lead the field.

ANOTHER 18 holes are scheduled for today to complete the conference season.

Fiocca's Vikings entered the meet in a three-way tie for first place with Prospect and Barrington. Fremd's score of 318 was good enough to lead its two strongest challengers, but it was only third best for the day.

Hersey (312) and Conant (316) finished as the first-round leaders while Forest View (320) came in right behind the Vikings. Barrington and Palatine had scores of 324 followed by Prospect at 326.

Al Kintzle, the Hersey coach, said his Huskies have been shooting very well in recent weeks. In the Champaign Invitational last weekend, they finished fifth, which was better than the three other conference squads competing in the meet.

"WE'RE SHOOTING now what we thought we'd shoot all year," Kintzle said. "We were mentally prepared for today, no matter what the weather was like."

In Monday's action, Hersey's Brad Hall had a 75 to finish one stroke behind Duros and Ford. Bill Kochevar had a 79 and Dave Cednick had an 84 to round out the Huskies' leading card.

Kintzle is hoping his team can continue its hot streak when play resumes, but there is little chance that his Huskies can win the conference crown. They eneded the regular season with an 8-5 mark after suffering two bad days on which they lost both ends of triangular meets.

"Now we have the state meet as our goal," Kintzle said. "We'd be right in the race for the conference title if it hadn't been for those two bad days."

Buffalo Grove, which finished all alone in second place with a 9-4 record, had a bad day to open the conference meet as the Bison finished with a 336. Doug Warman's 79 was the best score for Buffalo Grove.

Maine West girl archers win title

Maine West's girls archery team breezed to the Ridgewood District tournament title Monday, winning the first, third, fourth and fifth place individual prizes as well.

Maine West's girls scored 2,364 points to qualify for this weekend's state finals at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston. Elk Grove was second with 2,295, barely missing the 2,300-point cutoff for state qualification.

Sharon Vaughan of Maine West posted the top score of the day with 656, while Elk Grove's Patty Johnsen was second at 623. Johnsen qualfies for state as an individual.

Following the top pair of shooters were three Maine West girls who shot for scores in the high 500s. Cindy Tomaszewski had 578, and Marge Hahn and Mary O'Donnel had 575.

Also competing at the district, which was postponed Saturday, were Fenton and host Ridgewood. Neither team qualified any archers.

Basketball coaches clinic planned

Collinsville High School will sponsor a basketball coaches clinic Oct. 29. It will be in the school gymnasium from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Guest speakers are Lou Henson, University of Illinois; Jim Roberts, Centralia High School; Larry Graham, Madison High School, Rich Grawer, Desmet High School of St. Louis, Mo.; and Vergil Fletcher, Collinsville.

High School coaches will have their teams at the clinic for demonstration purposes.

Win at bridge

Don't stop thinking now

Here is a problem hand composed by Eddy Kantar, one of our greatest players. Try to avoid looking at the East-West hands until you have planned your entire play starting at trick four.

West starts out by playing ace-king and a third heart. You win in your own hand and must plan the play.

You start by assuming that West will hold both black kings. He really needs them to have an opening bid. Maybe this doesn't worry you and it won't unless it turns out that West holds three trumps and just one diamond. Can you guard against that unpleasant possibility?

You can, but it requires considerable care. You start by cashing your ace of clubs and ruffing the jack.

Now if you stop thinking and just lead dummy's jack of spades the hand will collapse. West will take his king and lead a diamond. You won't be able to shut out his 10 of trumps.

Making bricks has become an age-old task

Andy sends a World Book Year Book to Alan Hawkins, age 11, of Des Moines, Iowa, for his question:

HOW ARE BRICKS MADE?

Bricks are made from either clay or shale. After being dug, the material is crushed thoroughly in rotating pans under heavy rollers. The machine is called a dry pan.

Before water is added to the ground clay, it is screened carefully to remove any coarse material. The amount of water depends on the brick manufacturer's formula. He can use the stiff-mud or soft-mud process or the dry-press process.

A stiff-mud brick making process is used to make most building bricks. Not too much water is used with this method, making the material quite dry and stiff in its early stages. The brick making machine forces the clay through an opening and it comes out in the form of a long ribbon. Cutting is accomplished by a special machine with evenly spaced wires that slices through the clay.

While still being mixed, some brick making manufacturers remove extra air from the wet material by using a special vacuum pump. Removing air seems to make the clay easier to handle and the bricks stronger.

The soft-mud process is used for all expensive handmade bricks. Molds are dipped in sand or water at first to prevent the clay from sticking. Clay and water make a soft paste which is then pressed into molds.

The third type of brick making is called dry-press. Only enough water to make the clay damp is added. When the clay is pressed into molds, an almost-perfect face is produced. This type of brick is used on exposed walls.

After bricks have been made by pressing the clay into molds, they are stacked and placed in drying rooms. Air temperatures range between 100 and 300 degrees F. Bricks are dried slowly so there won't be cracking or shrinking. The process can take up to six weeks.

From the drying room bricks go to ovens called kilns. The heat is increased slowly until it reaches between 1,600 to 2,000 degrees F., depending on the type of clay used. The kilns are heated by burning gas, oil or coal.

Baking or firing of bricks actually melts and fuses together the particles in the clay. The result is a strong, hard-finished product.

Clays high in iron compounds make red bricks while those containing small amounts of iron produce cream-colored or yellow bricks. A process called flashing, where the fires in the kilns are made to smoke, produces variations of color in the finished bricks.

Andy sends the 1977 World Book Science Year Annual to Anne Wittman, age 15, of Richmond, Va., for her question:

WHAT DO THEY PUT IN MOTHBALLS?

Once you've smelled a mothball, you'll never forget the odor. It's very distinctive.

Mothballs are small white or gray balls about the size of marbles. They are used to keep moths out of furs and fine fabrics. When fabrics are stored for long periods of time, mothballs are usually added for protection.

The distinctive odor comes from the material that makes the mothball, naphthalene. This useful product is a type of aromatic hydrocarbon.

It doesn't take a scientist to tell you why the moths stay away from a linen closet that has a few mothballs added to the stack of lace tablecloths. One sniff will tell you why.

Send your question on a post card to Ask Andy in care of The Daily Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006, making sure to include your name, age and address. Entries are open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

Win at bridge

Don't stop thinking now

Here is a problem hand composed by Eddy Kantar, one of our greatest players. Try to avoid looking at the East-West hands until you have planned your entire play starting at trick four.

West starts out by playing ace-king and a third heart. You win in your own hand and must plan the play.

You start by assuming that West will hold both black kings. He really needs them to have an opening bid. Maybe this doesn't worry you and it won't unless it turns out that West holds three trumps and just one diamond. Can you guard against that unpleasant possibility?

You can, but it requires considerable care. You start by cashing your ace of clubs and ruffing the jack.

Now if you stop thinking and just lead dummy's jack of spades the hand will collapse. West will take his king and lead a diamond. You won't be able to shut out his 10 of trumps.

So you cash one high diamond before leading that jack of spades and nothing can touch you.
